THE ARGUS.

tered at the postoffice as second-class matter.]

BY THE J. W. POTTER CO.

TERMS-Dally, 10 cents per week. Weekly, $1 per year in advance.

character, political or religious, must tion price, or else go out of business. have real name attached for publication. No such articles will be printed over fictitious signatures.

Correspondence solicited from every township in Rock Island county.

Tuesday, March 17, 1908.

Announcement. Having been nominated as candidate for alderman of the Third ward on the the voters of the ward at the approaching election, April 7, 1908. CHARLES J. SMITH.

Hurrah for the shamrock!

"Oh, Paddy, dear, and did you hear the news that's going round?"

The supreme court of Ohio has decided the convention of the bridge unitedly for Bryan from one end of trust magnates is unconstitutional,

The citizen who permits a rattlesnake to hypnotize him, can blame no It says: one but himself if in after days he finds he has been stung.

Another republican senator has at tacked the Aldrich bill on the ground that the railroad bond feature is a step towards government ownership of railroads.

· What with a republican governor, a republican United States senator, the night riders and prohibition, the world is nearly upside down in Kentucky these days.

No cause that stultifies itself by countenancing and recognizing, and worst of all assisting hypocracy can convince itself, much less the public, that it deserves success.

If Senator Knox and some other aspirants for the republican nomination for president had voted as they now talk, the railroad rate issue would have been settled some years ago.

The republicans have sidestepped both the moral and prohibition phases vention, is culte uncertain. The demoof the pending campaign in Rock Is- cratic machine will have patronag land-in order that the candidates so inclined may talk on all sides of pre vailing issues in their canvass for

The house of representatives at Washington has passed the bill providing for the restoration of the time honored inscription, "In God Wc Trust," to the face of American coinage. The legislation was necessary in the Minnesota border." view of the presidential freakism manifested in the elimination of the rev erential motto.

To Probe for Graft.

Chairman Wagner of the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department proposes to investi gate that department on the ground that "some of the expenditures appear to have been made in contravention of

No doubt he has in mind the pay ment of the salary and expenses of Assistant Postmaster General Frank Hitchcock while engaged in influence ing southern postmasters to work for Taft's presidential boom. The committee on expenditures in the war de partment would do well to follow Mr. Wagner's example, and inquire into income, but to pay back what was the payment of Taft's own salary and expenses out of the treasury while he is engaged in traveling and speaking To most of us that time never comes in the advancement of his own boom.

Such proceedings ought to be exposed and punished, even though it is countenanced by President Roosevelt.

Print Paper and the Tariff.

Notwithstanding the earnest and urgent demands being made by all pub lishers using print paper, there is reason to believe that the majority of the house members on the ways and means committee in congress are determined that no action shall be taken at this session of congress to remove or decrease the duty on print paper.

No combination is more grasping or relentiess than the paper trust. Each year this combine puts the screws on a little harder, and an increased price is wrung from the helpless publisher. The committee on ways and means in be particularly good. He ate fast, quitthe house of representatives knows ting the table in twelve minutes and this, but still they refuse to come to leaving Josephine and the company to the relief of the publisher by removitake their time. When he dined alone ing the duty on the pulp, the raw material from which print paper is made. minutes. Indigestion was the natural Much as they may at times love the consequence of this speed, and he had publisher, they seem to love the paper trust more.

While the price of print paper varies with the size of the contract, it is to disbelieve in it, a subject of playful known that a grade of print paper that discussion with his doctors. Constant sold for a minimum of $1.90 per 100 never knew him to be obliged to keep pounds in July, 1906, is now forced to his bed a whole day. He was very senbring $2.45 per 100 pounds. When new contracts are made publishers expect to be forced to pay in the neighborhood of $3 per 100 pounds for the same grade of print paper that cost less than the Prairie Farmer, that the paper trust absolutely controls the manufac-Published Daily and Weekly at 1624 ture of print paper in this country, Second avenue, Rock Island, Ill. [En- and they will continue to control it and exact whatever prices they make just as long as the present tariff prohibits the importation of, and keeps the supply of raw material entirely in the hands of the paper trust.

There is no gainsaying the fact, adds | druggists.

Many publishers are coming to realize they must either reduce the size All communications of argumentative of their paper, increase the subscrip-The committee on ways and means in the house of representatives at Wash ington could remedy the evil by taking the duty off wood pulp, but at present the paper trust holds the whip and Uncle Sam's committee of house hold expenses jumps at its crack.

The Presidential Candidacy of Gov ernor Johnson.

Some interesting views are being taken of the candidacy of Governor Johnson, who has been forced into the democratic presidential race, apparently not through any considerable demand for opposition to Bryan, but because of a certain disgruntled element who would like to embarrass the Bryan candidacy, if possible, and who would like to complicate the Denver convention so as to open the possibility of having the convention manipulated by the reactionaries in antagonism to the wishes of the rank and file of the party, who are almost the nation to the other.

The Chicago Public takes an interesting view of the Johnson candidacy.

"That William J. Bryan is the free choice for the presidency of an overwhelming majority of the democratic voters and a large mass of voters who are not democratic partisans, no one can doubt, and no one does doubt. Neither does any one doubt that the worst influences that curse the nation are conspiring to secure his defeat by trick and device. These influences, commonly known since Lawson's exposures of The System, have settled upon Governor Johnson of Minnesota as the man for their purpose; and, unhappily for himself, Governor Johnson has evidently yielded to their overtures. The inner meaning of the action of the democratic committee of Minnesota last week, followed by Governor Johnson's significant silence, is as obvious almost as if the literal raising of a curtain had disclosed a tableau of machine politicians from Governor Johnson's state in negotiation with The System of New York. Whether The System's plans, so skillfully engineered at St

Paul by Governor Johnson's private secretary, will miscarry at the Minnesota primaries and in the state confrom St. Paul and abundant funds from New York, while the Bryan volunteers will have neither patronage nor funds. But the volunteers promse wearlless work to save Minnesota from appearing at Denver as a cat's paw for the reactionaries; and whether they succeed or not, there is no reasonable possibility of any extension of this Wall street diversion beyond

When One Spends Money.

One would think that money would be saved in prosperous times when there is plenty of it about. But no: that is not the time when it is saved. It is then that it is spent. Everybody spends it-governments, railroads, corporations, capitalists, housekeepers, house builders, collectors. People expand their wants in such times and satisfy some of them, and then is when it is most of all impossible to live on anything a year. But after all the money has been spent a few times over and has come to be scarce and borrowing has come to be a serious matter and folks have much less to spend and no expectations then everybody groans and begins to save, not only trying desperately to squeeze back inside of the bounds of spent in expectation of a time when saving would have become convenient And yet there are things for which we spend more than we can afford, that really do justify our expenditures, so that after the money has been spent and we are pinched for the lack of it we would still rather have what it bought than have the money back .-Appleton's.

Napoleon at Dinner.

Napoleon was no epicure. He usually drank nothing but diluted chambertin and was no judge of wine. He liked plain dinners-boiled or roast chicken, mutton chops, grilled neck of mutton, haricot beans or lentils. His table manners were not very refined He would use his finger in lieu of fork or spoon and would dip his bread in the sauce, the dish being then passed around to guests, who had to dispense with squeamishness. The bread had to he commonly took only eight or ten sometimes to stretch himself at full length on the carpet till the pain abated. He detested physic and professed beds all the year.

Kennedy' Laxative Cough Syrup acts zently yet promptly on the bowels and allays inflammation at the same time. It is pleasant to take. Sold by al

Humor and Philosophy By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

When the tongue of an individual is ent on the bias, how can you expect straight talk to come from it?

Putting a girdle around the earth himself will be by whirling away to firmly.

improved, but it is always some time in the past that they were good, you self."

variety of combest thing in the easy to reach the me!" sympathies of ache by pelting tomatoes.

The man who really thinks he is funny is a bigger bore than the funny

Although the winter blizzards were soul trying, it isn't recorded that anybody got hot about them,

You may be on good terms with a man without liking him very well or being proud of his acquaintance, but your motives will be open to suspicion.

Being a successful business man isn't necessarily exciting, but the results are gratifying, especially to the sec ond generation

You can sometimes tell pretty closely what a man thinks by what he Sometimes it is wiser to attend a banquet by proxy than in person, and the same thing might be said of marrying and hanging.

As to the Worm. They tell us that the worm will turn If by untoward events put to it, Strike back at those who bruise its neck But did you ever see one do it,

Or any man that you have known?

The whole thing is a superstition The worm may turn when on a hook,

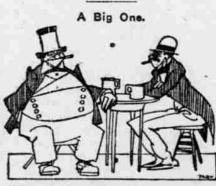

But that's not of its own volition. Of course it squirms around a bit, But still the man who was discerning Would know that antics of that sort Could not be classified as turning. 'Tis true sometimes the human worm

But mostly, when things don't go right, He takes it out in making faces, The turning of this lowly brother When one cheek gets a stinging rap

Consists in turning up the other

May throw his left leg o'er the traces,

No; worms are not inclined to turn. That is the nature of the creatures, Although a man may tread on them And to a jelly mash their features. The only turning that they do. If nothing happens, by and by, Is, when they are the proper breed. They turn into a butterfly.

"He says he never made a mistake." "He is in error." "Think so?"

"I know it; did it when he bragged about it."

So Inexpensive. "What are you doing for your

"Taking sun baths."

"Sounds nice." "Well, I find them as invigorating as a meal." "What you would call a 'light' lunch-

The Main Thing. "He is taking a course in a barber

"Learning to shave?" "Yes, incidentally. Of course the main thing is to get well posted on the history of all the prize fighters and ball players."

Must Be Bad. "She says she is so fond of helping her mother in the kitchen." "Indeed. I did not think they were that bad."

"Who were?" "Her dad's finances."

"Where did they get the money to go

"Bought his wife a ticket, and be traveled as baggage." "In her trunk " "No; blind baggage."

Carrying It to Extremes. "He is certainly very polite." "Polite. I should say so. Why, that fellow will laugh at an English joke."

When It Hurt.

A German surgeon in the Franco Prussian war had occasion to lance an abscess for a poor fellow, and, as the sore was obstinate, it became necessary to use the knife twice. The operatlon was not a very painful one, but the patient declared that it had nearly killed him, and when a third resort to the lancet was proposed he protested that he could never go through the operation alive.

for him and, calling up a few of the talk about. overland and undersea has become so loungers, ordered one of them to hold common that the only way a daring his hands close over the patient's eyes airship driver can call attention to and two others to grasp his hands

"This arrangement," explained the doctor, "Is said to prevent pain in such Nobody doubts that times might be an operation. Now, lie perfectly quiet, and when I say 'Now!' prepare your-

> The surgeon at once began quietly with his work and in a short time had A home grown completed the operation without the least trouble, the patient lying as quiet Henry showed only the cloth. Patent mon sense is the as though in sleep.

> world to keep aside the knife and said, "Now!" Such mixed with envy. you out of trou- a roar came from the lips of the sick. Even more interesting was the evi> > feel actual pain immediately after that ous intentions. fatal "Now!"

Usual Result. "Well," asked the motorman, "did you manage to collect your little bill from that conductor?"

"No." answered the disgusted pas senger. "I got tired trying to collect it at his house, and the other day 1 caught him on his car." "What did he do?"

"The same thing as usual-put me

The Argus Daily Short Story

"By the Short Cut."-By Matie Barnes. (Copyrighted, 1998, M. M. Cunningham.)

The surgeon promised to make it easy fore had the town had so much to

Nine years ago Hank Griswold had of marriage and was refused he stared gone to the city in his Sunday pepper at her in dismay. and salt suit, with cowhide boots and and to the splendors of well tailored clothes he added the magnificence of a fur lined coat and shoes and hat equally glossy.

Sparville was accustomed to fur coats, but with the fur outside, while leather shoes, too, every day in the When all was done the surgeon laid week were regarded with awe not un-man as seldom is heard from any hu-dent interest Griswold displayed in man being. He struggled to free him- Nellie Morrison. They had been sweet-It is about as self, yelling, "Oh, doctor, you're killing hearts in the old school days and had kept up a correspondence, a fact dis-Shouts of laughter soon drawned his seminated by the postmaster, but it some people as it cries, and he was told that the opera- was evident that Griswold had come is to give an ele- tion had been all over before the signal home with the intention of cutting out was given. It was a good joke, but it Ben Pierce, who escorted Nell home is doubtful if the poor fellow could from church Sunday evenings and othever be made to believe that he did not erwise gave evidence of ultimate seri-

Public sentiment was largely in favor of Ben. Had Sparville been so frivolously minded as to indulge in betting the odds would have been about three to one in his favor, for Henry had seemed to lose interest in skating and coasting and other winter sports in which Sparville delighted. He visited the pond and the coasting hill, but merely as a spectator, and at such times Nell, fully conscious that the exercise brought a stronger glow to her cheeks and an added sparkle

BOTH SIDES OF THE PROHI-BITION QUESTION

More About Labor's Position. Fighting Prohibition Every-IBY PRESS COMMITTEE OF LOCAL where. OPTION COMMITTEE.]

John B. Lennon, president of the nternational union and treasurer of the American Federation of Labor. voluntarily sent a signed open letter to the Bloomington Pantagraph in the issue of Saturday, March 14, in defense and in explanation of his attitude on the local option question, for

And catch him in a block or two
And hand him what was coming to him? which he had been criticised. A few statement, consideration of all men especially 'labor men;' "I stand unqualifiedly, without any eservation whatever, against the saoon business. I have never, in so far is I am capable of judging myself, stood for any cause simply because it was popular. I believe the fact that have stood solidly for the trade mion movement for now a good deal more than 30 years is evidence of the ruthfulness of this statement. If believe a proposition is right, if it commends itself to my conscience, it am the only man in the community that stands for it, then I will stand alone. If I am convinced that a cause is right, it is going to have my support, and I believe without any reservation whatever that the saloon is an injury to a community and that it is right to eliminate them, and my efforts will be extended to the fullest extent that I am canable of to bring about that to me desirable end. "I am especially against the saloon because of my connection with the labor movement. I have lived some what more than half a century, and have had some experience in that length of time, and every bit of it ear more and more that the saloon s of greater injury to the wage workers of the country than any other one thing connected with our lives as citizens and as men. I could go over the roll of men who have been prominent and even great in the labor movement, whose prestige and influence were destroyed by the excessive use of liquor, and it was the social or illegal social features of the saloon that caused them to go to that excess * * *

"If a locomotive engineer is known upon askance by the railroad companes that employ him. If he goes often, and it is known he loses his job. What is true of the engineer is true he does not have to pay a $600 license human deterioration. fee a year. If he wants to start a saloon, that is the first proposition that time to show that even from the finan confronts him, to pay a license fee of cial standpoint the whole argument $600. What is this for? It is for the favorable to the saloon is based upon privilege of maintaining a business false premises, absolutely false. Ever that is not recognized as being a le- from the dollars-and-cents standpoin gitimate one by our citizens generally. the saloon is a detriment to any con-Every citizen in this community is a munity." party, or nearly every one, to the LOCAL OPTION PRESS COMMIT granting of these licenses to maintain

IBY THE PRESS COMMITTEE OF THE ANTI-PROHIBITION LEAGUE.] The rumor given currency by the ecal option press committee is to the effect that the Anti-Prohibition league of Rock Island county has decided to let Moline go "dry" for the benefit of Rock Island. A Moline saloonkeeper is said to be the authority for the

The fact is that the Anti-Prohibition ague of Rock Island county is light ing prohibition everywhere in this community and is as deeply interested in the defeat of prohibition in Moline as in Rock Island. It happens however, that the liquor dealers who live in Moline and pay taxes there and have done their part to build up that proud city have expressed the determination to leave the matter wholly who accompanied her in her dashes with their fellow citizens, trusting to downhill and the walk back again, cordingly, they have asked the league Ben's was supposed to be the property and the Rock Island wholesalers and of his little cousin, but those two as the circulating of literature giving erified statistics is concerned he Anti-Prohibition league. What ride, Ben had stopped to tie his shoe sort of campaign, if any, shall be laces, and Nell looked over her shoulmade in Moline, is properly a matter der. for the Moline people to decide and hey have been so unanimous in their as the sled gathered momentum. Ben expression of the desire that Moline ne left for Moline that there was nothing to do but to accede. Reports off at a terrific pace. from the plow city are that the attitude of the Moline retailers in re ends to convince me from year to garding the whole matter as one of Ben's sled was not as good as Nell's public policy and in leaving the issue play and local pride of their townsmen, is justified by the results and local option forces in that city that he saloons will not be voted out propose hereafter to be a partner in this business, either directly or indi- downward upon the sled. to patronize the saloon, he is looked rectly. If they secure a license to to secure it against my protest.

PRESS COMMITTEE ANTI-PROHI-

BITION LEAGUE.

"Much is said about the loss of the license fees. This is, however, so of the tailor, the machinist, and every small, so insignificant, that it should other craftsman. No matter how fine not appeal to anyone that has any mechanic a man may be, if he is a sense of manbood in him. When dolfrequenter of the saloon and becomes lars are to be weighed against moral intoxicated, he will find himself dis-character by men or by a communriminated against by the employers ity, it is about time that such a comn that industry. No man can deny munity should be set back to about this that wants to tell the truth. It the 12th century, instead of claiming is not open to denial. It is a fact, to be progressive in the present one and I believe it can be removed to a if morals are not worth more than very great extent by eliminating the few paltry dollars, then i am very much mistaken in my estimate of the "The saloon is not recognized by so- make-up of the citizens of Blooming ciety as a legitimate business. This ton township. I believe that they is so self-evident that scarcely a word will show by their votes most post is needed to convince anyone of the tively that human uplift is to be contruth of the statement. If a man sidered of more importance than a wants to go into the grocery business paltry license fee, accompanied by

"I cannot take the space at this

Sparville was grateful to Henry Gris- to her eyes, was most inclined to hecwold. Not since the engagement of tor him. McMahon's minstrels two months be-desire to display her powers of coquetry, but, when, near the close of the second week, he made formal proposal

"It's this way," explained Nell judicloth cap to complete his costume, cicusly, seeing his bewilderment. "I Now he had returned Henry Griswold. like you, Harry, but you are so different now. When you were a boy there was no one who could beat you in a skating race, and you used to go down Beeman's hill faster than any of the others. Now you're afraid to coast."

"I'm not afraid," denied Griswold. "I don't want to; that's all. I have found other amusements."

Nell smiled and changed the subject, and Griswold went home feeling miserable. He loved Nell, and this refusal was a blow to his heart and his pride, It was Ben who tugged Nell's sled up Beeman's hill the following afternoon and found Griswold gloomily regarding the coasters. The hill swung in a rough half circle down the steep

WHO CATCHES MAY KEEP," HE QUOTED. declivity. Usually the roadway was beaten into a glare of ice by the coasters, for it was the only good coasting place in the neighborhood. From the brow of the hill the entire Henry Beeman had been cutting the thick growth of pines which had covered the hillside, and now only a broad expanse of glistening snow crust dotted with the pine stumps remained. It was a pretty spectacle, and Griswold enjoyed it in spite of the evident favor with which Nell regarded Ben, their common sense and their desire with Nell walking by his side. Nomifor fair play and just treatment. Ac- nally Nell's sled was her sister's, and all others who, from the Moline point youngsters had little use of their posof view, are outsiders, to keep out of sessions.

the fight in that city, except in so far | The sun was dipping toward the hills on the other side of the valley and most of the coasters had gone home There is no "plot" on the part of when Nell settled herself for her last

"Who catches may keep," she called sprang to his feet and ran for his sled, throwing himself upon it and starting

Griswold gave one glance at the fly ing figure far shead. He knew that and that he would not catch her until to be decided by the sense of fair she reached the bottom of the incline. There was just one chance for himself, and, throwing off his coat, he that it is admitted by leaders of the caught up the pointer that Jimmie Sweeney had just brought up to the top of the hill.

At the foot of the field was a place where two lengths of the fence had fallen in, and there were two or three his business, and I propose for one similar breaks where he stood. It was to have it understood that I do not the work of an instant to step through one of these and throw himself face

Steering with both hands and feet, carry on their business they will have Griswold shot down the steep declivity It was several years since he had been on a sled, but it all came back to him, and with a skill that was the talk of the hill for the remainder of the season he steered his flying sled in and out be-tween the stumps, shaving the bark here and dodging a trunk there just as a fractured skull seemed imminent.

It took but a few seconds to accom-plish the journey, but to Griswold it seemed years before he shot through the opening of the fence and with a last terrific effort swung himself into the road.

Just ahead were the smart gray jacket and saucy little hat that he was pursuing, and as he shot past he caught the runner of Nell's sled.

"'Who catches may keep," be quoted as he steered the two sleds into the softer snow beside the road to permit Ben to pass them. "How did you do it?" demanded Nell wonderingly. "Did you think it would be Ben?" he countered. The girl shook her head.

"I wanted to see if you would make an effort," she explained shyly. "All the way down I heard Ben shouting, and I was afraid that he was alone." "He was," explained Griswold. "I ame the short way."

FLOUR

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED A CARLOAD OF OUR RED SEAL BRAND FLOUR, MILL-ED FROM THE CHOICEST MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA HARD WHEAT. EVERY SACK

Reduced price for a limited time only, per sack...$1.49 Cream flour, every sack guaranteed, per sack,...$1.35 Rural New York potatoes, Marshalltown corn, per GUARANTEED.

California prunes, per pound 5¢

can6¢

Home-made sauer kraut. our own make, quart 5¢

Sieghartner @ Boetje

The Strictly Cash Grocers.

New phone 5696; old phone 828-X, 936 Third avenue.

there Griswold had come through the break in the fence and then at the stump dotted hill. "You came straight down?" she

"It was the only way," he said quiety. "Ben already had a lead on the road, and I knew that I should have to take the short cut in order to beat

Nell looked him over sternly. The thin leather of his shoes was cut and torn, and here and there was a rent in his clothing where he had struck a tree. The gloves hung in shreds from the scratched hands, and his necktie waved under his left ear.

"You go back and get your coat." she ommanded, "and then we'll go home and tell mother and Harry. I'm awfully glad that you win," she added as he turned away to obey the command. "I' didn't think you would, but I never dreamed you would come the short way. No one has dared before." "No one else had you at the end of the slide," he explained, with a happy laugh, as she slipped her hand in his and they started up the hill after his

Get DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve-it is good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

If you were a miller

Would you bother to wash

the wheat and scour it? That's what Washburn-Crosby Co. do in milling Gold Medal Flour

To make your bakings And thus increase our

For Sale by Grocers

MONEY LOAN

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

--ON--Furniture.

Pianos, Horses. Wagons, Etc. Without Removal. Call, write or phone.

MUTUAL LOAN CO.,

Peoples National Bank building. Room 411, Rock Island, III. Telephone, old west 122. Office hours, 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Open Wednesday and Saturday