HONOR DONE CLEVELAND IN ALL PARTS OF WORLD AT HOUR OF HIS FUNERAL

Respects Paid Ex-President Wherever United States Flag is Flown and in Many Other Places by Governments of Foreign Countries.

NO DISPLAY AT HOME

Body Buried Without Music, Sermon or Eulogy With Presbyterian Rites.

Washington, June 26.—In every part of the world where there is a United States flag floating, tribute was today paid to the memory of Grover Cleveland. Several foreign governments accorded special honors for the occasion. American ambassadors, legations and consular agencies bore the stars and stripes at half mast, army and navy officers wherever located wore the badge of mourning. Salutes were fired by all ships and army posts at daybreak and at sunset. Throughout the world tribute in some form either under American or foreign auspices was rendered.

No Eulogy, Sermon or Song.
Princeton, N. J., June 26.—Without eulogy, sermon or song, but with the simple burial services of the Presbyterian church, Grover Cleveland will be buried late this afternoon in Princeton cemetery beside the ivy covered grave of his daughter, Ruth. Although President Roosevelt will be in attendance as will Governors Fort, New Jersey; Hughes of New York; Smith of Georgia; and other distinguished persons, they will not attend in an official capacity but as friends of the late ex-president.

Attendance to Be Small.
Last honors to be paid the dead statesman will be strictly private both at the Cleveland residence and the cemetery in compliance with the wishes not only of Mrs. Cleveland but those of Cleveland as well. It is expected not more than 150 persons will attend the services at the house including relatives and friends.

Will Last But Half Hour.
Services at the house, which will begin at 5 will last about half an hour. The clergymen who will alternate in ceremonies there and at the grave are Rev. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton university; Rev. Dr. William R. Richards of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York; Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Princeton; Rev. Maitland V. Bartlett of the West Farms Presbyterian church of New York.

State Militia to Guard Streets.
The streets from Cleveland's residence to the cemetery will be guarded by mounted troops, members of the New Jersey state militia. Intersecting street will be guarded so no pedestrians nor vehicles will be allowed within the curb lines from the time the procession starts until after it has passed into the cemetery. Guardsmen are here merely to assist in policing the city. Their presence was consented to by Mrs. Cleveland only on the ground it would be proper to have a suitable guard for the president. Many beautiful floral tributes are being received at West Land. Messages and letters of sympathy are still coming in large numbers.

Party in 26 Carriages.
Twenty-six carriages will convey the funeral party to the cemetery. The pallbearers will walk with the hearse, six on either side. Following the carriages containing the family and intimate friends will come those accompanied by President Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb, Chief Justice Fuller, Governor Fort, Governor Hughes, Secretary Cortelyou, John G. Carlisle, William F. Vilas, Mrs. Daniel Lamont, Richard Olney, Charles S. Fairchild, Judson Harmon, Hillary A. Herbert, Senators Mean and Briggs, Governor Hoke Smith and other prominent and distinguished persons.

Body Viewed by Friends.
The body of Cleveland, which lies in a room on the second floor, will remain there until shortly before the funeral begins, when it will be brought down and placed in the large reception hall. The personal friends will be permitted to view the features of the dead statesman while it remains upstairs, but the casket will be closed before taken to the reception room.

Few Arrive Before Noon.
There were comparatively few arrivals of those invited to attend the funeral up to noon. The town began to take on a more animated appearance about that hour when hundreds of persons from nearby places began to arrive, eager to see the funeral

PROCESSION AND GET A GLIMPSE OF PRESIDENT AND MRS. ROOSEVELT.

Outside of the Cleveland home there were no signs during the morning of what will take place this afternoon. The house stands far from the most frequented streets and few persons were in the vicinity. At the entrance to the grounds a policeman stood guard and only those known to him or vouched for by those in charge were permitted to enter the grounds. Packers were about the streets early offering pictures of Cleveland and badges of mourning for sale as souvenirs.

FOR LOCAL RULE

Iowa Democrats Have Only Contest in Convention Over the Liquor Plank.

COMPROMISE IS THE RESULT

Resolutions "Hails With Joy the Certain Nomination" of Bryan for the Presidency.

Sioux City, Iowa, June 26.—With enthusiastic cheers for William Jennings Bryan and the state ticket, the democrats of Iowa wound up an uneventful convention late yesterday afternoon. The gathering, whose early sessions were tame enough, was enlivened in its last hours by a spirited contest over a liquor plank in the platform, the fight on which had been previously waged for four hours in the committee on resolutions. The plank finally adopted as a compromise measure is ambiguous in phrasing, simply reaffirming the traditional policy of the party with reference to local self-government.

Think Nomination Sure.

The platform "hails with joy the certain nomination" of Bryan at Denver; declares for the election of United States senators by popular vote; favors government expenditure for water works improvement; deprecates the death of Grover Cleveland; opposes government by injunction and favors the establishment of a state insurance commission.

Tim C. Clary of New Hampton in his address as temporary chairman scored republican policies, state and national and predicted sweeping democratic victories everywhere. He frequently mentioned the name of Bryan, which never failed to bring hearty cheers.

Jeremiah B. Sullivan, who has been mentioned among the numerous aspirants for the vice presidential nomination, presided at the afternoon session.

Name Men for Judges.

D. W. Higbee of Creston and A. J. House of Maquoketa were nominated for supreme judges over W. H. Jaques of Ottumwa and Theodore Bradford of Marshalltown.

Clint R. Price of Indianola was elected state chairman to succeed C. W. Miller of Waverly.

KISSES AT $100 EACH QUICKLY RAISE FUNDS

John D. Rockefeller's Physician Uses Unique Scheme to Get Money From Homeopaths.

Kansas City, Mo., June 26.—An offer by Dr. Hamilton Fisk Biggar, John D. Rockefeller's physician, to kiss any woman who would give $100 to the propaganda fund yesterday created a merry sensation at the homeopaths' national convention in Casino hall. The fun continued 30 minutes and $5,000 was pledged, enough of it by women doctors to keep Dr. Biggar busy trotting up and down the aisles trying to catch the givers and fulfill his part of the compact.

Dr. Biggar was put in charge of the movement to create a fund for a propaganda to advance homeopathy. He started the list with $100 from his own pocket, and then made by his women delegates take interest by announcing that respectfully and cheerfully "from the bottom of his heart" he would kiss the first woman who gave the same amount.

TAFTS LEAVE NEW HAVEN

Secretary Goes for Conference With the President at Oyster Bay.

New Haven, Conn., June 26.—Secretary Taft left here today for New York and Mrs. Taft and son Charles for Washington. Taft will have a conference with the president at Oyster Bay. THIRTY NEW YORK TOWNS ARE UNDER QUARANTINE; PREVALENCE OF RABIES IN CANINE POPULATION CAUSE

Albany, N. Y., June 26.—Thirty towns of the state are under quarantine for rabies, or hydrophobia, according to Raymond A. Pearson, state commissioner of agriculture. "Officials of the department," Mr. Pearson said, "have never known of such a serious outbreak of rabies as at present. Similar conditions exist in other parts of the country, as in the case of Washington, where a rabies quarantine was established a few days ago at the request of President Roosevelt."

Disease Easy to Avert.

Commissioner Pearson has prepared a circular to be issued by the department for protection from rabies, which, it is declared, is one of the easiest of the communicable diseases to suppress.

NOT PREPARED TO GO FURTHER IN THE MATTER

United States Will Let Venezuela Rest Until Provoked Further.

CONSULS KEEP POSTS

Not Denied That Expedition From Colombia Into Country May Follow.

Washington, June 26.—The American government is not looking for any further trouble in Venezuela, and the recall of Jacob Sleeper and Lieutenant Gugges of the legation at Caracas apparently ends the diplomatic incident, except so far as President Castro may add to the complication by some other action.

Many Will Stay.

Almost a dozen consular officers and agents of the American government are stationed in the several Venezuelan cities, and it is understood that there is no intention on the part of the government to remove them as they are attending to the interests of American citizens and their absence would be undesirable. These agents have no diplomatic functions. But if there should be sufficient reason the state department would not hesitate to direct them to surrender their exequeters and request officers of some other government to look after the interests of the United States.

Are Watching Closely.

Officials here are watching with interest the developments in Venezuela, but it is not believed likely that there will be trouble to necessitate any armed force for the protection of American interests. Those who are familiar with conditions there point to the presence in the neighboring state of Colombia of many members of the revolutionary party, and it is reported that some of these are fomenting a filibustering expedition on a large scale. These "emigres," it is stated, might enter Venezuela in the neighborhood of Maracaibo.

Would Wink at It.

While it would be a violation of international law on the part of Colombia to permit the organization of such an expedition, the fact that the diplomatic relations between the two countries have been interrupted for more than a year, would doubtless make Colombia less watchful to prevent such an outcome.

MOTHER, INSANE, DROWNS CHILDREN

Ida Grove, Iowa, Woman Throws Four Children Into Cistern and Tries to Follow Them.

Ida Grove, Iowa, June 26.—While her husband was in the field plowing corn Mrs. August P. Johnson drowned her four little children in the cistern at their farm home south of town yesterday. The youngest was 1 year old and the eldest 6; two boys and two girls. After she had drowned the children she tried to drown herself, but neighbors who had arrived at the place intervened. Word was sent to town and when Will Anderson reached the home Mrs. Johnson was trying to choke herself with a bed cover.

The little ones were pulled out of the cistern. Efforts made to resuscitate them were in vain. The insanity commissioners will act on Mrs. Johnson's case and she probably will be committed to an asylum.

STALWARTS CARRY PRIMARY

Name Republican Ticket in North Dakota Fight.

Fargo, N. D., June 26.—With at least a third of the counties in the state to hear from, the stalwart wing of the republican party seems to have named the state ticket with the possible exception of supreme court justice and it appears as though Burrell Spalding, an insurgent, will be nominated to succeed himself in that office. The missing returns are not likely to change the results. The status for United States senator, based on returns actually at hand, are: Thomas F. Marshall, 8,000; M. N. Johnson, 6,600; C. B. Little, 5,500; H. C. Hansborough, 4,250.

STROKE OAR FAILS

Collapse of Griswold of Yale Crew Gives Harvard an Easy Victory

IN ANNUAL RACE ON THAMES

Struggle, Witnessed by Thousands, Was Even for Two and One-Half Miles of the Course.

New London, Conn., June 26.—Cheered by the great crowd of frenzied students and with steam whistles splitting the air, the Harvard varsity eight darted across the finish line here last night a victor in the great annual aquatic race, leaving the crippled Yale crew far away in the rear. For the last mile and a half the Harvard boat dashed on alone. Yale striving against a mighty handicap with only seven men at the oars, for Griswold, the stroke, had sunk forward in the stern, exhausted from the terrific strain of the first two miles.

Many Follow the Boats.

Through a maze of craft the racers threaded their way with a clear, open course, 200 feet wide, marked every half-mile with red and blue standards. Every eye was riveted on the swaying bronze forms in the boats as they bent to the terrific strain of 25, then 30 and then 31 strokes to the minute, driving their frail crafts through the water as with knives.

Above the shouts from the onlookers could be heard the shrill voices of the coxswains, megaphones to mouth, stimulating their men and marking time with "one, two, three, four." Yale had splashed at the start and the Harvard men had been quick to take this advantage, pushing their boat slightly ahead. There they hung, nip and tuck, Harvard stamina against Yale pluck, through the roaring avenues of nerve-racked, screaming thousands.

Half a mile from the start both crews were almost side by side, Harvard being a few feet to the fore; one mile, Harvard still ahead, with Yale holding on doggedly; two miles, Yale surging and lessening the gap; two and a half miles, Harvard still in the lead, with open water between the boats and Yale fighting on like grim death.

Griswold Sinks Forward.

Now came the decisive moment, with the final stretch almost in sight and the breathless throngs straining to see if Harvard could keep up the pace or would weaken at the close. Steadily they came, when suddenly commotion was observed in the Yale boat as Griswold, the stroke, fell forward on his oar and ceased to row. Cass, Yale's coxswain, had already been dashing water into his pale face.

For nearly a minute—he seemed 10—the Yale stroke sat motionless, bent down as if lifeless. Then he was seen to straighten up and bend to his oar again, and a great shout went up from the Yale cohorts as their crew was seen to pick up the stroke and rally for another effort. But they were now six lengths behind, hopelessly beaten.

Another 20 strokes and Griswold was seen to collapse again, and then the whole crew, disheartened at the fall of their leader, quit their work and sat dejected at their oars. Yale was beaten. It was no longer a race and Harvard swung ahead alone, still keeping up the racing clip and crossing the finishing line with a regular "swish, swash," to the very end in the slow time of 24:10.

Finish Half Mile Behind.

Griswold was helped from the Yale boat, and lagging far behind the Harvard men, the seven remaining Yale men at last made their appearance at the finish, a half mile behind Harvard, receiving a generous ovation for their pluck under such disheartening conditions.

Flagg met death by drowning Tuesday night through the overturning of a boat was removed by the finding of both bodies this morning. The condition of the bodies bears mute and awful evidence that the man's brutal passions caused the tragedy.

Judge Mack at Chicago Declares Contract for Site is Valid.

STATE WILL APPEAL

Power Rights Worth Millions Sold for 20 Years for Paltrey $2,200.

Chicago, June 26.—Judge Julian W. Mack decided yesterday that the Economy Light and Power company may maintain its dam in the Des Plaines river at Dresden Heights.

The decision, which may prove a setback to the deep waterways project holds that the Des Plaines river is not a navigable stream, and that the contracts between the Economy company and the Illinois & Michigan canal commissioners are valid. Through these agreements the company acquired for $2,200 rights which now are valued at something like $15,000,000.

Did Not Exceed Power.

Judge Mack also holds that the trustees of the Illinois & Michigan canal did not exceed their power when they gave to the light and power company the right to use the river for overflowing purposes.

In dissolving the temporary restraining order issued last December by Judge Stough, the court accords the state only one triumphant point. He holds as invalid that clause in the lease which gives the company the right to renew the contract after the expiration of 20 years. This was mentioned in the investigation before the legislature last fall as the "eternal" clause, and Judge Mack declares it to be invalid because it practically amounts to an out-and-out sale.

Hope in Supreme Court.

The only hope for the state now is that the supreme court will reverse Judge Mack's decision and declare the dam an obstruction to navigation. If the supreme court should affirm the decision the only recourse for projectors of the deep waterways plan would be through condemnation proceedings.

Attorneys Merritt Starr and former Congressman Reeves, representing the state, contended that the Des Plaines river was not navigable, and that the contracts between the canal commissioners and the defendant company were void.
