DONKEY WITH THEATRICAL TROUPE

A donkey is always an impressive member of a family even of a theatrical family. Zaza, the long eared and kindly brute that promotes so many laughs at each performance of "A Woman of the West," is as popular with the members of that company as with the children in the audience who scream with delight at his antics. Zaza is a wise old owl in his way. When first initiated into the mysteries of the stage he was inclined to be rather obstreperous and many are the tales told of his refusal to answer cues. Finally he discovered that it is better to be good than to be free and learned that virtue brought its own reward each night in the form of candy when his act was performed according to Hoyle. All candy looked alike and tasted alike to Zaza. That was before the donkey taste was educated. It is not so now. Zaza has learned to distinguish caramels from butter scotch and prefers the high priced delicacies to lollypops. Hence before this donkey several grades of candy and the best will be eaten first and each grade will be devalued in the order of its merit. The better the candy, the better the donkey likes it. Often the members of the company have tested him in this particular and since learning that there is a difference in the grades of candy the burro has never made the mistake of saving the best for the last mouthful. "A Woman of the West" will be presented at the Illinois tomorrow, matinee and night.

MRS. WARNER WINS SUIT
Supreme Court Finds for Wife in Action Over $75,000 Estate.
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Isabelle Warner is entitled to one-third of the estate of her late husband, Colonel John Warner, father of Vespasian Warner, under the ruling of the supreme court made yesterday, denying a rehearing of the case in which it affirmed the judgment of the circuit court of DeWitt county in setting aside the ante-nuptial contract entered into between Mrs. Warner and the man she married.

The case was contested by Vespasian Warner and a bitter fight resulted in the trial court. Among the sensational charges was one by Vespasian Warner that his step-mother was the daughter of a negro, and that consequently her children had negro blood in their veins. This allegation was denied by the widow, and the contestant failed to make good his charge.

Owing to the prominence of the Warner family in DeWitt county the suit has attracted wide attention.

Vespasian Warner, at one time candidate for governor, is United States commissioner of pensions and formerly was a congressman. The estate is said to be worth $750,000.

a Billiard Table." Both members are clever tumblers, and the feats they perform seem to make a hit with Rock Island audiences. One of the feats they perform is that of jumping from a table to a barrel, a distance of 11 feet, light right side up in the barrel, and then turn a flip-flop out of the same. Marie Clark, a clever little soubrette, is presenting an act full of singing and talking. Miss Clark has an excellent stage presence. The Bruces, the first colored team that ever played on a bill at the Family, are due to become prime favorites as entertainers. Their coon shouting makes a decided hit with patrons of the Family. Mr. Bruce features the act, with a number of clever clog dances on roller skates. The opening act of the bill this week is John Riley, a comedy juggler and hoop roller. Mr. Riley is considered the best in his class in the art of comedy juggling, and he is no backwoodsman at hoop rolling. The illustrated song is very good.

Strong Individuality Shown.—Individuality finds no higher means of expression than through the medium of a strong play. Father Vaughan in "The Woman of the West," which will be produced at the Illinois tomorrow, matinee and night, has provided a medium in which there is ample opportunity for such expression. It is a play full of important character parts each bearing an essential relation to the development of the plot. Annie Mack Berlein who is producing the play is one of the strongest personalities on the American stage. Her work is of that authoritative character that always compels attention and admiration. The company supporting her has been selected with special reference to the fact that its individual members are types of the characters portrayed.

Scenes in Arkansas Hills.—"Human Hearts" depends to a great extent on its portrayal of character and scenes which are of a local nature. Thus "Shore Acres" deals with the inhabitants of the coast of Maine; "The Old Homestead" with the natives of New Hampshire; "Arizona" with the denizens of the far western state of that name, and "Human Hearts" which is to be seen here Sunday, with the peaceful lives of those who live in the picturesque Arkansas hills. Admitting as it does of elaborate scenic effects, this advantage, it is said, Manager W. E. Nankerville has seized, to supply to his patrons something out of the ordinary in the way of stage illusion. It is also stated that he has secured the services of a good company for the portrayal of the characters. In "Human Hearts," those peculiarly adapted to impersonate the type of people living in the state of Arkansas.

Is Good Theatrical Property.—"The Lieutenant and the Cowboy," the new western military drama that has proved such a great success this season, Pelton & Smutzer, managers of the Theodore Lorch company which presents the play at the Illinois theater next Monday night have secured one of the best pieces of theatrical property in the country. Theodore Lorch, the star of the organization, has a part in which he is simply ideal, while his support is even better than might be expected, as the members were carefully selected for their personal fitness for the different characters. "The Lieutenant and the Cowboy" is a distinctly high grade production, and as such richly deserves the banner business of the season.

"Denver Express."—The "Denver Express" is a drama of life in the west and made a favorable impression on the patrons last season. It is full of "go" from start to finish and its comedy features are amusing. The company representing "The Denver Express" is stronger than last year. The author thoroughly understands that this is a rapid age, that people think quickly, and when they go to a theater they want the play to have plenty of movement and life. The "Denver Express" engagement is for next Tuesday night at the Illinois theater.
