

JUBILEE CONCERT ARTISTIC TREAT

Three Thousand Persons Crowd
Big Auditorium to Hear Program.

MESSIAH CLOSING NUMBER

Soloists in Splendid Voice—Wennerberg and Handel Choruses and Chapel Choir Participate.

Did you hear the jubilee concert at Augustana Saturday evening?

If you didn't, you missed the grandest musical treat ever given in this part of the country. Not only was it a success from an artistic and musical point of view, but also in the remarkable attendance. When the doors of the big auditorium were thrown open, the crush was so great that all semblance of order was lost. The reserved seat section was filled within a few minutes and then the remainder of the auditorium began to fill. Every ticket was finally sold and then the ticket sellers began to sell them over again.

When the concert began every available seat in the great building was occupied and standing room was at a premium. It was estimated that there were more than 3,000 persons in the hall, the receipts being approximately $1,250.

And an enthusiastic audience it was, too. It was impatient for the program to begin, and when the college orchestra finally broke out with Nicolai's "Festival Overture," the whole gathering burst into applause.

Wennerberg Makes Hit.

The Handel oratorio chorus, more than 150 strong, formed a pretty picture as it sat on the long stage, with the college orchestra of 20 pieces immediately in front. It is undoubtedly the largest chorus that has ever sung in the three cities. Bach's "God's Time is Best," was the first number rendered by the chorus, but it was not until the "Messiah" was given that the full strength of the chorus was realized.

The jubilee Wennerberg chorus, consisting of present and old members, was the first to score heavily. The audience commenced to applaud as soon as the chorus began to ascend the platform, and when it rang out with "The Star Spangled Banner" the entire audience was brought to its feet. Then Wennerberg's celebrated "Hear Us, Saviour," was given, followed by "Bjornborgarnas Marsch." At the conclusion of the number the applause was deafening, and in spite of the fact that the chorus had given three heavy pieces, the audience demanded more. "The Student Song" was given as an encore.

Chapel Choir Also Scores.

The jubilee chapel choir also made a decided hit with its group of three songs, Peterson-Berger's "Stemming," Lassen's "Thou Alone," and Soderman's "Wedding March." Judging from the precision with which the choir responded to every movement of Mrs. Lund's baton, one would be led to believe that the members had undergone a careful training of months instead of being a mere reunion of former members of the organization. There is something classical about the manner in which the chapel choir sings that appeals to the most artistic sensibilities of the listener.

It had been the intention of the oratorio chorus to render the jubilee cantata written for the occasion by E. W. Olson of Chicago and set to music by Professor Lagerstrom of Minneapolis. The music was not received in time, however, and made the rendition impossible. Instead, the author, Mr. Olson, read the cantata. It is an exceptionally fine piece of literary work and evoked much favorable comment. It is divided into four parts: The immigration, the pioneers, the first temple, and the synod.

Messiah Is Sung.

The program closed with the singing of the "Messiah." Too much praise cannot be given for the splendid work done by the chorus nor for the excellent cooperation of the college orchestra. The latter worked with the chorus as smoothly and efficiently as could a professional orchestra have done. The chorus was well balanced in all its parts and was under the complete control of Mrs. Lund. The chorus was also ably supported by Miss Katherine Gest and Mrs. Winifred Sargent, organists, and Miss Effie Johnson, pianist.

Mrs. Lucille Tewksbury of Chicago, soprano, won even a stronger place than ever before in the hearts of all who heard her sing. The clear, ringing evenness of her tones and the warmth of feeling that she exhibited in the passages, "Come unto Him" and "I know that my Redeemer liveth," completely captivated the audience. Her interpretation was superb, revealing a deep artistic temperament.

Mrs. Henry Matthey of Davenport, alto, also deserves much praise for her work. Her rendition of "He Shall Lead His Flock" was especially impressive, her rich, mellow voice being peculiarly adapted to the passage. The work of Albert Borroff of Chicago, basso, was good, but his voice was not equal to the size of the hall.

24 ARE ORDAINED TO THE MINISTRY

Impressive Service at Sunday
Synodical Meeting at Augustana.

ADDRESS BY DR. NORELIUS

Reminds Candidates of Necessary
Sacrifices of Professional Calling.

Twenty-four new ministers were added to the Augustana synod yesterday afternoon. The ordination service was one of the most solemn and impressive scenes ever enacted here and was witnessed by more than 3,000 people. The auditorium was filled to overflowing and hundreds were unable to secure admittance. The class which was ordained included 11 members of the seminary who graduated this year.

The ordination address was by Dr. E. Norelius, president of the synod. He reminded the candidates that they were entering upon a calling with small remuneration, that they would have to sacrifice worldly riches and ambitions, but that it was the highest and most exalted calling that a man can pursue. Dr. Norelius' address was touching in its simplicity and wealth of fatherly advice contained in it.

"If you have been prompted to take this step because of love—love to God and love to your fellowmen—then will your sacrifice not have been in vain; but if you have not heard the voice of love, then you are entering upon a dangerous step."

English Address by Jacobson.

The English address was by Dr. F. Jacobson of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the New York conference. He said in part:

"This occasion is one which calls upon us with the voice of solemnity to reflect that we are the servants of Him who taught with dignity, power and majestic unutterable. If the words of the scriptures are to be spoken with dignity and authority, they must be uttered with lips that would seem to be touched and pervaded by the fire of the altar."

"Nothing can strike the tongue with so dead a paler as the very thought of unworthiness in them to whom the power of authority is given. The majesty of truth herself has not always more power than the righteousness and sanctity of them who are called to be ministers of the truth."

When Demons Laugh.

"Oh, if demons laugh, if angels tremble, it is at the sight of a man who by profession is pressing on others the importance of their salvation, while he is neglecting his own. It is a terrible thing to fall into eternal damnation from under the pulpit, but, oh, it is a dreadful thing, beyond description, to fall thither out of it!"

"The heart trembles at the thought that it is possible for the preacher, like the unbelieving spy, to coast the heavenly Canaan, to commend it to others, yet never possess it himself! That while he preaches to others, he may himself be cast away."

"Behold, he set out on the Christian ministry like some warrior, with waving pennants, and with majestic sway; but the storms did beat, the waves arose, and faith and prudence were driven from the helm; and battered, tossed and sifted, she foundered amid rocks and shoals."

Danger of Knowledge.

"By the power of eloquence and logic he was able to arrest attention, gain the hearts, and mould the sentiments of his audience, but it was his calamity that he too well knew and felt his ability. My brethren, the greater your intellectual powers are, the greater your need of grace to guide them. Let it be your fervent prayer that the talents and abilities you have received from your Creator may be increased in the grace of God and daily sanctified by the Holy Spirit."

"If some of you possess but moderate talents, envy not the lofty minds of the eloquent and able. The higher you rise, the greater is your liability to fall. The only all-important and desirable gift is the grace of God. It gives dignity to your high office in a manner that cannot come through the channel of great intellectual endowment, however desirable and valuable this may be in the service of humility. His great excellence is seen as he is viewed distinct from talents and requirements."

Impressive Ceremony Enacted.

Following a song by the Moline First Lutheran church choir, the ordination ceremony commenced. Rev. J. G. Dahlberg, secretary of the synod, read the names of each of the candidates and the places to which they have been called. The candidates took their places around the altar and were surrounded by 48 ministers and Bishop von Scheele and President Norelius. Commencing with Dr. Norelius, each minister read a bible verse bearing on the duties of a minister. Bishop von Scheele read the commission which Christ gave his apostles when he sent them out into the world.

The candidates then read the apostolic confession in unison and replied to the questions of Dr. Norelius, who then declared them to be ministers of the Evangelical Lutheran church. Then occurred the most impressive part of the ceremony—the laying on of hands. While the candidates knelt at the altar, they were surrounded by the ministers who laid their hands on their heads and sang Psalm No. 122, "O, Thou Holy Spirit, Come to Us." The Lord's prayer was then repeated and the candidates were handed their ministerial letters.

Names of New Ministers.

Those who were ordained follow:
C. O. Gullean, C. E. Helmer, Jes-

P. Nordstrom, C. G. Samuelson, C. J. E. Rendahl, J. A. Jader, J. K. Larson, Professor E. W. Carlson, A. E. Norden, J. P. Samuelson and Professor John Eastlund.

Monter Communion Service.

The celebration of the Lord's supper yesterday morning was one of the most impressive ceremonies during the jubilee. The jubilee auditorium had been consecrated at the opening session of the synod in order that the communion service might be held. Dr. N. Forsander and Dr. C. E. Lindberg, both of Augustana seminary, preached the communion sermons.

It is estimated that between 900 and 1,000 persons took communion. Fourteen clergymen officiated behind the altar and two others assisted in marshaling the throng. Eighteen tables were served, an average of 55 persons being accommodated at each table. Bishop von Scheele and wife, Dr. Norelius and wife, Dr. G. Peters and John Erlanson, candidates for the ministry were served at the first table.

BISHOP AT THE AIRDOME

"Our Chester," Davenport Matinee
Idol, Here for a Week.

Chester Bishop, who gained the appellation of "the pink tea comedian" while at the head of the Princess Stock company, Davenport, during the past season, is spending the summer on the Clover Leaf airdome circuit. He is due to begin a week's engagement this evening at the Rock Island airdome on Eighteenth street. Manager R. H. Taylor of the airdome, in announcing the coming of Bishop and the Princess Stock company, says:

"Our Chester," as Mr. Bishop has been affectionately termed by his admirers in Davenport, where he played throughout the past season, aside from being one of the handsomest young men engaged in theatrical work, is an excellent actor. I don't blame the women for admiring him. Believe if I was a 16-year-old I'd lose my head over him myself. They say in Davenport that his picture adorns hundreds of the private homes. Perhaps you recall that at the close of the regular season at the Princess theatre there this spring, Chester held a reception on the stage of the theatre, and there was a bigger rush than at a silk bazaar sale. He's surely the bonbon bidden in the burg across the way. With it all, he is a charming young man, and thoroughly engrossed in his professional work. He heads a strong company that will be presented here."

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The B. G. M. held its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. chapel with a large attendance. There was a very fine illustrated talk given by G. C. Blakelee, president of the association, his subject being "Egypt." The talk was much enjoyed by all the members that were present.

Sixteen of the association boys will leave Rock Island tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock on the steamer E. Z. and barge to a point near Andalusia, where they will pitch tents for a 10-day outing. Tuesday, June 21, will be visitors' day in camp and on this day all visitors from town will be cordially invited provided that they will bring their lunch with them.

EXPLOSION; TWO BURNED

Mrs. Royal Smith and Son Injured at Home in Cordova.

At their home in Cordova Saturday evening Mrs. Royal Smith and her son Harry, aged 21, were severely burned when a kerosene lamp exploded. The son carried his mother into the yard and threw her into a watering trough, and in doing so his face and arms were scorched. Mrs. Smith's hands and arms were burned. The house was damaged slightly.

Hayden-Hill.

At the home of the bride, 1016 Tenth avenue, at 8 o'clock last evening, was celebrated the marriage of Rev. Lee Hayden and Mrs. Frances Hill, both well known colored people of the city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Durden, pastor of the Second Baptist church. Rev. and Mrs. Hayden will reside in Rock Island.

SYNOD PRESENTS ANDREEN PURSE

Gift of $2,046 to Head of Augustana College for His Great Work.

RAISING ENDOWMENT FUND

Election of Members of Board of Directors Develops Warm Fight at Meeting Today.

Following Dr. Gustav Andreen's yearly report to the synod this morning, in which he announced that the work of gathering the quarter of a million dollar endowment fund for Augustana college had more than succeeded, he was presented with a gift of $2,046 from the synod in acknowledgment of his great work. The sum has been raised through collections in the churches of the synod and by personal subscriptions. A few moments later the synod voted that Rev. Theodore Ekblad and Professor Kempe, the assistant solicitors, should be given $300 each as a gift, and that Dr. C. E. Lindberg, who has been acting as president of Augustana college during the last two years, should be given $500.

Dr. Andreen's report created much enthusiasm. It showed that the promises of the various conferences, amounting to $268,000, had practically been fulfilled. The Illinois conference, he said, would exceed its promise of $140,000 by several thousands. He also announced that Consul Ekman of Stockholm had left $5,291 upon his death to the jubilee fund, which brings the total up to $275,000.

Conference Presidents Report.

Following Dr. Andreen's report, each conference president was called upon to give an account of the status of the jubilee work within his conference. Each was full of cheer and enthusiasm and showed that the goal has been exceeded. The Illinois conference reported that it will exceed its mark of $140,000 by perhaps $10,000; the Minnesota conference has practically raised its quota of $50,000; the Iowa conference has more than subscribed its share of $40,000, of which $31,000 has been paid in; the Kansas conference has completed its work of gathering $7,000, all of which is collected; the Nebraska conference flourished a check for $10,000, its quota; the New York conference has subscribed its share of $20,000, half of which has been paid in; the Columbia conference has practically collected its quota of $1,000, and the California conference completed the list by handing over its contribution of $1,000.

Rev. Theodore Ekblad, treasurer of the college, then submitted his report. It showed that the total resources of the college are now $500,461.48, of which $215,547.17 is in cash funds, and $284,914.31 in property.

Resolution of Thanks.

Following the reports, the synod adopted a resolution of thanks to Dr. Andreen and his assistants for the work they have carried out. In extending the thanks of the synod to Dr. Andreen, Dr. Norelius said that the synod would not only show its appreciation by words but also by deeds. Whereupon he called upon Rev. N. P. Sjöström of Rockford to present the gift of the synod to Dr. Andreen.

Much enthusiasm was displayed when the check for $2,046 was turned over and Dr. Andreen was visibly moved by the sentiment shown. He thanked the synod in a few brief words, while tears glistened in his eyes.

Heated Directorate Fight.

The election of four members to the board of directors of Augustana college precipitated a warm fight in the synod. The Kansas conference sought representation on the board, but was defeated by a New York-Illinois conference combination. The members elected are: Rev. N. P. Sjöström, Rockford; Rev. C. P. Edholm, Andover; Consul L. L. Malm, Cleveland, Ohio, and Dr. A. Johnson, Omaha, Neb.
