

3 MILLION ORANGES HERE

Another Big "SUNKIST" Sale Lasting All Next Week, Begins Monday, Mar. 20

The biggest lot of oranges that ever came to this city has just arrived—THREE MILLION of them. They arrived by special Fast Freight direct from the big "Sunkist" fruit groves of California. They are the "Sunkist" brand, famed for their delicious flavor and health-giving properties. Each local fruit dealer is laying in a liberal supply of "Sunkists" and on next Monday morning all dealers will put on a Special "Sunkist" Orange Sale, lasting throughout the week.

California's Finest Oranges

"Sunkists" are California's most luscious oranges—the choicest of each of 5,000 California Orange Farmers. They pack all their perfect oranges under the one name, "Sunkist," and ship them by special fast freight the day they are picked.

The "Sunkist" is a tree-ripened orange, seedless and fibreless—never pithy—every "Sunkist" is firm, solid and sound.

It is picked by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground or becomes bruised or damaged in any way, ever bears the "Sunkist" name.

How to Serve Them

Oranges are the most appetizing and nourishing food you can serve—at breakfast—in the sick-room—between meals—in salads, ices, sherbets and puddings.

There is no limit to the number of excellent dishes of which "Sunkist" oranges form the basis.

Buy a box of "Sunkist" oranges and your fruit dealer will make you a special price. You will find no trouble in keeping them as long as you want to, because "Sunkists" reach you in excellent condition.

Physicians Advise Them

Leading physicians say that to counteract the effect of meat and other heavy foods we eat, one should eat oranges liberally. It is a universally known fact that orange juice is an excellent food for the brain cells and a tonic for run down nerves. No better laxative than sound, ripe "Sunkist" oranges can be found.

Cost No More Than Common Oranges

"Sunkist" oranges are cheapest to buy because they are thin-skinned, fibreless and seedless. They are nearly all food and no waste. You lose money if you buy pithy, seedy, thick-skinned oranges.

Free Premiums for "Sunkist" Wrappers

The "Sunkist" orange always comes in a "Sunkist" tissue paper wrapper that protects the oranges and retains all their tree ripened flavor. This name on the wrapper means you are buying, at a reasonable price, the finest orange of all.

"Sunkist" wrappers should be kept and sent to us to secure, free, a set of genuine Rogers Orange Spoons, Dessert Spoons and Fruit Knives. The patterns are new 1911 styles, designed exclusively for us. They are as attractive and stylish as money can buy. All are Rogers quality, standard A-No. 1 plate and are fully guaranteed by the makers, Wm. Rogers & Sons. No advertising appears on any of our premiums.

Read on the right the description of these valuable premiums and how to get them.

"Sunkist" Lemons

The better grade of lemons are now packed in "Sunkist" wrappers. By calling for "Sunkist" lemons, you avoid the kind that are thick-skinned, pithy and insipid. "Sunkist" lemons contain 50 per cent more juice than any other lemons. "Sunkist" lemon wrappers are accepted by our premium department.

Selecting the Early Spring Wardrobe

The city dweller, if she would know the exact season of the year, must keep a calendar near at hand, so confusing are the shop windows with their displays of sheers and summer fabrics, new spring hats and dainty parasols side by side with wonderful bargains in furs and heavy homespun suitings. With only a small amount in the pocketbook, and that amount to pay for an grave question when there is enough for only one or the other. Or again, it is wisest to purchase material for one of the delightfully smart little short taffeta jackets that can be worn with each and every gown in the outfit during the summer as well as in the spring months, or to buy the material for an essentially practical but perhaps not quite as smart a long cloth wrap? Really these are serious problems when there is but a small dress allowance to meet them with.

This ought to be a good year for the woman of economical aspirations, for never was so scant material to be allowed for in ordering a dress length, and it is also a year when simplicity is a genuine aim. Simplicity of line, simplicity in effect, and actually considerable simplicity of detail are features of the spring and summer fashions. There are no fussy little ruffles and ruchings, nor flaring flounces, nor "fluffy" sleeves. The first impression of the fashions of the moment is of a decided and infinitely pleasing simplicity.

The first figure shows a decidedly attractive little spring frock of cloth and foulard combined. The cloth was used for the "apron" front and back and the foulard for the sleeves and side sections. Old blue was the color of the cloth, and the foulard, which had a small black figure, showed this color in the foundation. A yoke and collar of Irish crochet completed the costume.

The second illustration pictures one of the smartest out-of-door costumes of the spring season. The waist was a very simple affair with two wide tucks forming a panel effect. The yoke skirt which fastened on the hip had an inverted pleat at each side. The material was pearl-gray cashmere and the trimming of black silk braid.

FAVORED COLORS.

Of colors the favorites so far is a brilliant and beautiful cherry; next is a superb, true emerald green. Pink in all tones is suggested on the advance summer frocks, while all the champagne and corn colors are much in vogue. At this time of year black and white combinations have a great reign of popularity, and this year is certainly no exception to the rule. There is no limit to the combinations of black and white. The smartest again coat and skirt costumes are of black relieved with collar and revers of white moire, while the newest importations of advance summer costumes show a number of white batiste frocks trimmed with grille and deep border of black velvet, and the white linen and duck jackets and long dust coats are many of them adorned with black velvet collar and cuffs.

VELVET FOR TRIMMING.

For trimming every style of gown, from the sheers to the lawn tub dress to the street gowns of striped voile or tussah, black velvet has never been used to a greater extent than is noticeable this year. This vogue, which started last summer in Paris, was not expected to be so diligently followed this spring, but even the eccentric combinations of material which had their origin at the fashionable midsummer races are now to be seen in the windows of the American shops. A gown of white embroidered batiste is finished with a 14-inch border of black velvet; there is a velvet girdle and the small toque and parasol which complete this rather incongruous costume are also of black velvet. Already the idea of this costume has been modified by the American woman by reducing the border on the skirt to some six inches in depth, and making only the crown of the hat of velvet—and at once the effect is changed from what was almost a caricature of the moment's fashions to an exceptionally smart costume.

STRIPES, STRIPES, STRIPES!
Among other points to be commented upon in the displays in the shop windows is the prevalence of striped materials over all other designs. In foulard there are stripes of all possible widths and variations of arrangement. The width of the stripe must depend of course upon the wearer, for while a tall, slender figure will look well in a stripe of any width, the wide stripes are to be avoided for the short and stout.

In silks the stripe is generally of white, no matter what color the ground, but in light serges and in pongee and tussah the shadow stripes formed in the weaving of the texture with no foreign color introduced are very smart. Even the popular black and white check must share its supremacy with the serges and foulards of even width stripe, although there is a new "crow's foot" check that in tweeds is smart for plain tailored coat and skirt costumes and ulster coats.

Beads are a favorite trimming of the season. They are little white china beads which ornament every style of dress from voile reception gowns to tub dresses of lawn and linen. In the wash fabrics the beads are often cleverly imitated in French knots of different sizes, and so well are these worked that if one is at all near-sighted it is difficult to discover which is used. Colored beads in perfect imitation of coral and turquoise are also much used in trimming.

JAPAN AS A FRIEND

Will be of Use to United States in Case Chinese Empire Ever Awakes.

MIKADO WILL AID WHITES

Yale Graduate Says That Sunflower Kingdom May Check Possible Mongolian Uprising.

"In the years to come when China has awakened either as a great military power or as a mighty commercial people whose millions dwarf the memory of the Anglo-Saxon race of today the American people will find that in teaching Japan its first footsteps in the kindergarten of western civilization its broad minded ancestors were rearing a friend that would be needed in times of stress," declares Dr. Minosuke Yamaguchi, M. A., Ph. D., M. D., graduate of Yale, who is taking a course of studies at Columbia Medical school.

"I think Lieutenant Hobson's theory that Japan is preparing for war with America has been pretty well exploded, but I would like to point out some of the reasons why anything but friendship between the two countries is impossible.

"I was born in Japan and grew up there. I have been the pastor of one of the greatest churches in Japan, and to make my work more thorough there I have come back to America and become a doctor of medicine. I know Japan. I graduated from Yale, was four years at the Western Reserve Medical school in Cleveland and have lived a great deal in New York, and I know America.

"There were always reasons why Japan could not attack America successfully. There have for many years been sentimental reasons why she would not if she could. It was America who came knocking at our doors when we were a close corporation, a stay at home provincial people.

In the kindergartens of Japan today the little children are taught patriotism, which becomes a fierce fire in every breast. The little ones are taught the story of how your American sailors came to Japan and pointed the way to occidental civilization and how the United States was the first and best friend we had in the congress of world powers. Japan never forgets this. What we are today as a great world people we owe to America, and does any one think that we shall so soon forget?

"Modern Japan is too busy to think of the impossible task of mastering a great country like America. It has been suggested that we want the Philippines. Now, it is not generally known that the climate of the Philippines is as bad for Japanese as it is for Americans.

"We have been trying to colonize and seem remorseless, but after all the time we have held that island we are still fighting there to maintain a stable government and to establish decent laws. We are trying to colonize it, but at tremendous cost in treasure and men. It is not yet a paying proposition. And what would the Philippines be? Formosa offers a fertile field for our overgrowing population for at least twenty-five years to come, and our most northern island in Japan is hardly settled. It has room for millions of more people.

"I have often pointed out that it would be impossible to send a Japanese fleet with soldiers to Hawaii to hold those islands against the force that America could rush there. Even if we took Hawaii how could we come on and attack any part of America and hold it long enough to get our breath? If we were to seize the Philippines in some unguarded moment, wouldn't they be an elephant on our hands in the supreme struggle with the United States that would follow? It would leave our home country exposed to attack.

JAPAN TOO POOR TO FIGHT.

"Finally, Japan's finances are not in a condition to warrant its undertaking such a foolhardy thing as war with America, and so far as I can see we have pretty well mapped out how we are going to spend our spare cash in the next fifty years by the things that we are planning to do in Korea, Manchuria and Formosa.

"Like all the rest of the world, we are preparing for emergencies. We are training our young men to shoot, and we are building battleships and forts. The problems in the east are too great. China is awakening. No one can tell at this moment what turn the great sleeping mystery of the ages will take when she wakes up.

"What would happen if when she finally bestirs herself a Napoleon, an Attila or a Mahomed should step forward and point to world empire? It would be in such a case that the wisdom of Japan in maintaining an armed fleet would be vindicated. The rest of the world would be glad that China's nearest neighbor, impregnable on its own islands as England was a sea power capable of acting as policeman for the awakened giant. And you may rest assured that modern Japan would cast its lot with the rest of the world as against such a monster."

entire spring and summer outfit, a walk through one of the shopping centers is distressingly confusing. Whether to invest in some of the exquisitely pretty figured batistes, which are offered now at most tempting advance season prices, or to buy as originally intended a dress length of striped tussah which is to be made up at once, and was the original object of the expedition, is a
