

DAY IN DAVENPORT

Find Lost Cameos.—A collection of 40 cameos, three of the number over 2,000 years old and valued at $1,900, which was thought to have been stolen five years ago, was discovered in an out of the way drawer by Dr. C. T. Lindley, the owner. Five years ago Dr. Lindley came to his office. As he entered the door he looked toward the table, where the night before he had left the collection of gems. The table was empty and the gems could not be found. A search was immediately instituted by the doctor for the lost collection. Practically every place but the right one was looked into, but the gems could not be located. Finally after everything was done to quietly discover the missing jewels, the police were notified. Nothing ever resulted from their search. All gem collectors and art critics of note were furnished with a description of the gems in the lost collection. Art circles throughout the country were talking on the missing collections, and looking for them, but they were never discovered. One of the strange features in the missing gem case that most puzzled the police and those working in an effort to locate the jewels, was that none of the gems were ever offered for sale, and never appeared. The most valuable of the lost gems were listed and could not be sold for anything near their value without being known. The entire collection was valued at a trifle over $1,900. Among the collection were three which alone were worth several hundred dollars. These three jewels are each over 2,000 years old. Other gems in the collection ranged from 1,000 years old down to a few hundred.

Arrested for Conspiracy.—Arrested for conspiracy on a warrant brought to Davenport by Constable Glass of Okaloosa Monday night, Nick Colin, proprietor of the Davenport Ice Cream company, is under $1,000 bonds signed by Gus Koester to appear in Okaloosa on the charge Thursday. It is alleged that Colin purchased from the Okaloosa Creamery company, owned by C. M. Reisman, butter, cream, etc., valued at $600, some time ago. A short time ago Mr. Reisman was in Davenport to collect the bill, it is said, and meeting with ill success, retained Attorney F. A. Cooper to prosecute Colin. Upon his return to Okaloosa Mr. Reisman caused information to be sworn out against Colin charging him with conspiracy. The man was arrested. He called up Magistrate Rodewig over the telephone when brought to the police station and wanted to be released on a habeas corpus writ, according to the police. He was informed that he would have to go to Okaloosa on the warrant. His bonds were fixed at $1,000 to insure his appearance for trial. Gus Koester immediately signed the bonds and Colin was released. His hearing has been set for Thursday afternoon at Okaloosa.

Charged With Bootlegging.—United States Revenue Collector George M. Bird is investigating a charge of bootlegging against Frank Middleman, living near Bettendorf. Complaint has been made that Middleman has been selling beer at 50 cents a bottle, particularly on Sundays and holidays, and that he is doing a thriving business. Several women are among the complainants who have called the case to the attention of the local revenue office. In addition to being charged with bootlegging, Middleman is also said to have sold adulterated articles, one of the bottles which he disposed of as wine containing but a very small per cent of the purported article. If the result of Collector Bird's investigations substantiate the charges made against Middleman by several residents of Bettendorf, an information will be filed against him and he will be brought before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Bush.

Tree Crashes Onto Auto.—As the auto of Fred Rodewig was standing in front of the Harrison street entrance of the high school yesterday at noon, an overhanging limb of a tree broke and crashed upon the top of the auto. There were several children in the machine at the time, and but for the fact that the auto top warded off the falling limb, they undoubtedly would have been injured. A little girl passing on the sidewalk at the time was felled to the ground, but was not seriously injured.

Contractor Missing.—Johannes Voss, contractor and builder at Durant, Iowa, has been missing since last Wednesday noon. Relatives believe that he is in the tri-cities. Mr. Voss left a wife and one child at Durant, and the family is conducting an investigation to discover his present whereabouts.

No Trace of Robbers.—Although a week has elapsed since the stealing of a mail pouch from a truck at the D. R. I. & N. W. station after being thrown from a Milwaukee train, the postoffice and railroad authorities have found no trace of the robbers. The pouch was found later near the railroad tracks on City Island, cut open, and some mail stolen, including some money orders which have been missing. The robbery occurred just a week ago.

To Attend Convention.—Secretary Norwood of the Commercial club leaves next Sunday for Omaha, where he will attend the fifth annual convention of the Central Association of Commercial Executives in session Sept. 22 and 23. Company Incorporates.—Articles of incorporation were filed by Attorneys Lane & Waterman for the Zip Cycle company, incorporated by G. Decker French, Frank W. Skinner and R. W. Phelps. The capital stock of the new corporation is $25,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The company will manufacture in Davenport the smallest automobile ever made in the United States. It will have a motorcycle engine, a four-wheeled car, two-cylinder affair, a friction gear, and will carry two passengers. The first car was manufactured at the Whale foundry and machine shop and tested on the Davenport streets for the past three weeks. It developed a speed of 45 miles an hour going up Marquette street hill. The car is intended for pavement use—a sort of city car, to be used for delivery purposes as well as for pleasure. The cost of the car will probably be fixed at $300.

THE BROWN BOTTLE JOKE

The brown bottle fallacy has been so completely exploded that little is left to be said in defense of that side of the question which advocated the use of dark bottles to the absolute exclusion of light bottles. It is admitted that common beer comes in dark bottles and that beer of a high degree of stability is preferably bottled in light bottles.

Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentation (America's greatest authorities on brewing) are in accord with this view. Here is their statement in relation to the bottling of "FOR SUCH BEERS THE LIGHT BOTTLE IS PREFERABLY EMPLOYED because it can more readily be inspected before filling to insure thorough cleanliness, and because the finished package reveals at a glance whether the contents meet the requirements of the consumer as to color, clarity and freedom from sedimentation."

Lockjaw From Injuries Prove Fatal to P. C. Davis of Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 17.—P. C. Davis, 961 Leland avenue, an aviator, died yesterday at the Columbus hospital from an accident while he was flying at the Juneau county fair, at Mauston, Wis. His death follows by one day that of another Chicago aviator, Max Little, killed by a fall at Galesburg, Ill.

Davis' machine struck a barbed wire fence while making a landing two weeks ago, Sept. 5. His collar bone and both legs were broken and his foot was torn. He was taken to the hospital on Sunday, suffering from lockjaw and amputation was too late to save him. Davis was a member of the Aero Club of Illinois and had made several flights at the Cicero field and at Clarendon beach.

Woodstock, Conn., Sept. 17.—Thirteen-year-old George Bernier, who was holding a guy rope to a balloon while it was being inflated preparatory to an ascension at a local fair yesterday
