WAGNER'S REVIEW

Closing Stock Letter.

New York, Sept. 29.—What little activity there was to the day's market was practically confined to the first hour, during which prices gave way rather easily, with Steel the leader in the decline. Trade reports were said to be less favorable, although realizing that the new tariff schedules would soon be workable, had something to do with the unfavorable feeling toward the issue. Some disappointment was felt that no announcement was forthcoming after the meeting of the Union Pacific executive committee. In other directions, the day's news was of routine character, with the market dull for the better part of the session. As we see it, the immediate future holds out little encouragement to the bull, with the uncertainty over the tariff and the currency measure, and the markets own lack of technical strength.

Morning Grain Letter.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Wheat cables 1/4 to 1/2 lower. Weather map good for movement. Several factors which will put a stop to present bearish feeling coming to surface. Southwestern movement, however, promises to get still lighter and is now so low that interior millers are forced to come to market centers for supplies. Northwest movement promises to continue at a fair pace owing to favorable weather conditions. Russian shipments are large. Danubian shipments are small. The two together make fairly bullish showing. Latest estimates indicate that crop is not as large as has been previously announced. Canadian wheat is of such fine quality it will be wanted right along and good quality never has been a price depressing factor. There is the Argentine uncertainty and the strong probability that stocks at winter wheat centers will decrease. This month will wind up deliveries of cash wheat on future contracts until next December, and this will be some help. The situation appeals to us as a healthy one and we strongly advise purchase on any depressions today or tomorrow.

Corn cables 1/2 lower. Weather wet throughout the belt. We believe this cereal heavily oversold and look for sharp falling off in receipts and improved demand and good speculative support after deliveries are placed. Advise purchases on depressions today or tomorrow.

Oats—This cereal is cheap, consequently farm consumption must be enormous. Since the decline in prices farmers have not been selling and this will show up soon in receipts.

Liverpool Situation.

Liverpool, Sept. 29.—Wheat opened quiet and lower, influenced by private reports of a favorable condition in Argentine for wheat and the large American shipments this week as shown in the world's total. Later market in active with general undertone steady. The decrease in Russian shipments, expected liberal decrease in the amount on passage and moderate world's shipments were an incentive for support. Top grades of Manitoba are liberally offered, but bids are steady.

Corn lower on weaker American cables. World's shipments were ample, but amount to the United Kingdom decreased proportionately.

Drift of the Weather.

Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa—Unsettled with showers tonight or Tuesday.

Lower Michigan and Indiana—Unsettled with local rains tonight or Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight; Tuesday unsettled.

Missouri—Unsettled; showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer in west tonight.

Minnesota—Unsettled with showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer in north-west tonight.

South Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler Tuesday.

Nbraska—Unsettled with showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler in west Tuesday.

Kansas—Generally fair in west; unsettled in east tonight and Tuesday.

Montana—Cloudy tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight and in east Tuesday.

Wyoming—Unsettled with rain tonight or Tuesday; colder Tuesday and in west tonight.

Wheat Market Weakness.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—The weakness in the wheat market for the past week is accounted for by the fears of Canadian wheat coming in free to this country. Receipts at northwestern points were unusually large, considering the size of crop there, but insignificantly small at winter wheat points. Southwestern farmers are selling practically nothing. Foreign news rather friendly to values. We feel on wheat, that when September contracts are provided for traders will review with favor the domestic news and disregard fears of Canadian free wheat, especially as late advices from Canada are to the effect that nothing will be done until parliament meets next spring.

It has been a week of continued liquidation in corn; weakness of the cash article and good receipts have been the depressing factors. A moderate setback can be looked for but the fact remains that we have a very short crop of corn and weakness in other grains or bearish tactics will not add a bushel to the yield. We feel that the early part of next week will be the time to purchase corn.

Oats—Sales of Canadian oats to eastern consumers at 6c per bushel duty paid at lower prices than domestic article was the main depressing influence. Our large stocks were offset in a measure by the improvement in the southern demand and the low price this cereal as compared with other grains, hay and substitutes. Arrival of the next few days confirm our previous views of farmers' disinclination to accept present prices.

Clover seed—Our Toledo office wires: "Clover seed gained 30c to 40c during the week. Receipts remarkably light for such good crop. Shipments relatively heavy."

Provisions—Lower, due to an indifferent demand. Hog cholera reports continue to come in. Packers' attitude not friendly to values.

Stocks—Market restricted because of uncertainty of the Union Pacific distribution. It is a noteworthy fact that talk of bullish character reveals the vulnerable speculative position of the market which is that of the bears.

Cotton—Futures responded to bull news more impressively today than heretofore. With new high quotations established there may be some natural reaction but weather conditions are unfavorable for open bulls.

NAMING A TOWN.

Concord Was Selected After Fifty Years of Controversy.

The name of Concord, N. H., was given to the town after a controversy which lasted fifty years. In 1725 the land now within its bounds was granted to the colonists under the name of Peacock by the colony of Massachusetts: This claim was disputed by the colony of New Hampshire, which two years later granted this same land to the township of Bow. 1733 Massachusetts incorporated Peacock into a township named Rumford, and for more than forty years a fierce legal controversy was carried on. No agreement could be reached, and the matter was taken to the authorities in England, but even then there was no satisfactory nor permanent settlement.

In the face of an evident leaning toward the claims of Bow, both in England and in America, the little band of colonists in Rumford fought on valiantly, and in 1765 an act of incorporation was granted to the inhabitants of Rumford. This was still highly unsatisfactory because it only made them a parish in the town of Bow.

The controversy continued until 1774, when it was finally settled and an independent town was formed under the name of Concord. It was due to the devotion of the little band of settlers to their cause and the unity which existed among them that the independent incorporation of the town was finally obtained, and it was eminently fitting that the concord which existed between them during the struggle of nearly fifty years should be memorialized in their town's name.—Ladies' Home Journal.

DODGED THE WASPS.

Simple Trick by Which the Woodsmen Escaped a Stinging.

A man on his first trip into the wilds and marshes of an unknown country with the United States drainage engineers was struck by a unique method they have to escape from the attack of wasps and hornets. The country traversed is generally covered with thick undergrowth, and a path has to be cut through this all along the line. So when a big wasp nest is reached there is very little warning, sometimes the axmen cutting into a big one with their machetes.

The person relating this experience was some sixty feet behind the axmen with the instrument when all at once the two axmen dropped in their tracks as if they had been struck by a thunderbolt. The man behind and the two chalmers did likewise. While they were lying prone on the grass and wet marsh they heard what sounded like bullets zooling over their heads. One after the other they came with angry zips. When things had quieted down a bit work was continued, and the new man found that to escape from wasps or hornets the thing to do was to drop instantly. The insects seem to be so mad that they fly in straight lines along a level and do not have time to hunt around for you.

It is said that hornets are not so prone to follow this rule as wasps.

but the wasps never vary. Men have been stung to death by hornets, and horses and mules likewise.—Chicago Record-Herald.

BOATS GROW ON TREES.

West Indian Boys Can Get All of Them They Want.

When a West Indian boy wants a toy boat all he has to do is to visit a cocconut tree. These trees bear great bunches of nuts among their drooping green leaves, and when the bunch first sprouts out in the form of a big bud it is inclosed within a hard, tough, woody case or spathe two or three feet long, eight or ten inches in diameter and tapering to a point at one end and to a slender stem at the other. In fact, it looks very much like a huge wooden cigar.

As the buds and flowers develop the spathe splits open, and the flower bunch continues to grow out beyond it until the nuts begins to ripen. By this time the spathe have become dry and hard and break off and drop to the ground of their own accord.

It is the spathe or bud coverings that the West Indian boys use for toy boats, and, while the dry and fallen ones will answer, better boats are made from the more flexible and partly green spathe still clinging to the flower stem.

The spathe as gathered from the tree is almost in the shape of a boat, and all that is necessary to transform it to a very seaworthy and fast sailing toy canoe is to sew the open end together and fit rudder, sail and seats or thwarts.

When this is done the boat is almost an exact model of the big dugout canoes that the boys' fathers use in fishing. In fact, these dugouts were probably copied from one of the tree grown boats.—From Harper's Book For Young Naturalists.

Panama and the In Picture and Prose

This book first takes you in through the front door of Panama—through the islands along the way, describing the natives in picture and prose; thence you are shown the wonders of that unknown country—the people, their strange customs and more strange costumes, their religions and politics, their peculiar characteristics; how they live—how certain natives eat lizards and hugely enjoy them—how they fish and hunt; their sports and pastimes; marketing bananas, shooting alligators, burning charcoal; ALL there is to know about these queer people, and MORE than has ever been told of the great waterway—from the whys and wherefores of its construction—and on through to its completion—in all a beautiful human interest story that will charm the reader to the very last page.

Wrong Munch, No Lunch.

"Here, my boy," said his new employer, "take this quarter and go out and get three ham sandwiches."

The boy vanished and did not return for half an hour.

"See here. Where have you been loitering," demanded the boss, "and where are my sandwiches?"

"Scissors!" gasped the boy. "I thought they were for me!" — New York World.

Upbringing.

"Aren't you having your daughter taught to play or sing?"

"No," replied Mrs. Flimflitt. "I have decided that she shall have no accomplishments whatever. Instead of striving for approval I want her to have the superior pose that enables her to observe the efforts of others with tolerant interest."—Washington Star.

Daily United States Weather Map

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Moderately high pressures prevail from the middle and south Atlantic coast westward to the lower Mississippi valley and another high overlies the north Pacific coast. Low, or relatively low, pressures are reported from the remaining sections, with the greatest barometric depressions over Utah and southern Saskatchewan. Showers have resulted in the Mississippi, Ohio and lower Missouri valleys and in Washington and Oregon, with the greatest rainfall, 1.36 inches, at Memphis, and moderate temperatures are noted in about all portions of the observation field. On account of the low pressure to the westward, unsettled weather is indicated for this vicinity, with showers tonight or Tuesday.

The temperature changes will be unimportant.
