

MINNESOTA THE REAL INSURGENT

John L. Sundean, Head of Opposition to Chicago Woodmen Rates, in Statement.

OTHERS OFFICE SEEKERS

Asserts That His State is Only One in Which Opposition Will Cut Any Figure.

John L. Sundean, of Anoka, Minn., who claims to be the original insurgent of the Modern Woodmen, has "diagnosed" the case of insurgency nationally and says it is doubtful if the insurgents carry any state in the union with the possible exception of Minnesota. Mr. Sundean's insurgency is entirely based on the increase of rates. Insurgents in states other than Minnesota are characterized as office seekers rather than workers for the good of the order.

Sundean's paper for March has been received in this city and his article with reference to the coming elections says:

"It appears doubtful if the insurgents carried any state except Minnesota. But Minnesota insurgents hope to have a solid delegation at Toledo at least in sympathy with the efforts to put over something that will be a permanent move to relieve our contracts from the effects of the Mobile bill which the insurance commissioners must before long begin to enforce.

Has No Candidate.

"Minnesota will present no candidates for office, if the insurgents carry the state camp. But the whole fight will be made for the better by-laws and some unexpected moves will be made to overcome the Moline bill as a 'mortgage' against our 'title.' Satis-

Dangerous Hair Dyes!

When you see the words "Shake Bottle Before Using" on a bottle of hair dye, beware! It means that it contains Benzol of Lead and Sulphur. And Sugar of Lead is deadly poison! These dangerous coal tar products are not made from white stains and are liable to stain the skin and affect the eyesight. Mary T. factory rates for a few years will not satisfy Minnesota. The neighbors here understand the dangers concealed in the tricky clauses of the Mobile bill and there will be a battle royal on the floor of the head camp when certain unlooked for attacks on the hidden evils of the Mobile bill are made in a way never anticipated.

"It is the future conditions that concern Minnesota Woodmen who are the pioneers as well as the sole agitators along intelligent and rational lines. Insurgency in other states was only a scramble for office it seems, as all the leaders in the other states announced their candidacy for one thing or another. Minnesota wants better business conditions, better by-laws and release from the Mobile bill."

Public Rest Room

Rock Island, Ill., March 23. Editor The Argus:—Communications relating to a waiting station on Market Square have recently been printed in your paper. We would like to state that the program of the civic department of the Woman's club of Rock Island, issued in June, called for three papers on comfort stations on the 14th of November, from one of which, written by Mrs. W. M. Walker, it will be seen that the agitation of this important question antedated by several months the letters recently published by others.

Extract from Mrs. Walker's paper: "The program committee has asked that, in addition to the public comfort station question, that of a rest room be handled. I shall just touch on that at present. We have no place where employed women and girls can go for a few minutes' rest and relaxation at noon, no place where the tired shopper, from some of our surrounding territory, can go to relax and wait for her car and perhaps let her child rest or sleep.

"Speaking from a humane standpoint, we need such a place. The Y. W. C. A.'s meet this need in most cities. You are all familiar with the methods Moline and Davenport employ.

"From a commercial standpoint it would be of benefit. The out of town shoppers in for a day do not go to a hotel, but were some place provided where they could 'brush up' and rest, wouldn't they come more often and stay longer, thus spending more money in our city?"

"In order to get at what seems to us who have spoken on the topic today, the way to ultimately adjust this question, I must speak of another need, and that is a waiting room. With fifteen and twenty minute car service, with stores closing very early, it leaves us with the choice, in cold, stormy weather, of standing on corners with the river wind cutting through us, or walking. Near here may be mentioned Decatur, Galesburg, Danville, Muscatine, and other cities provided with a waiting place. It may

BRUNER HEAD OF BIG UNDERTAKING

Rock Island Man in Charge of a New Survey of 200 Cities in United States.

SEEKS VARIETY OF FACTS

Commercial, Industrial, Educational, Religious, Municipal and Other Activities Covered.

The Industrial Evangelistic foundation with headquarters at 1198 La Salle street station, Chicago, has undertaken a remarkable piece of constructive work, in attempting a survey of 200 cities in the United States to assemble information relating to commercial, industrial, educational, religious, recreational, municipal and welfare activity to aid in the promotion of its work, which is that of coordinating industry and the church in the extension of the gospel to the industrial class. The cities are being grouped in four classes as follows: A 5,000 to 25,000, B 25,000 to 50,000, C 50,000 to 100,000, D 100,000 upward.

Given to Expert. The information, when assembled will be placed in the hands of a sociological expert who will review the findings, interpret the material, summarize the statistics and prepare charts therefrom; the results will be placed in permanent form with suggestions for practical use.

The study will be made by the foundation's specialist, A. M. Bruner, of this city, who is one of the few industrial religious specialists in America, a recognized authority on shop and factory meetings. Mr. Bruner was one of the experts on team one during the men and religion movement 1911-1912. Campaigns demonstrating the foundations system of community extension will be conducted during the survey.

be argued that neither Moline nor Davenport has one, but why, for once, can we not take the initiative and start an agitation?

"Why can we not combine our three great needs—a public comfort station, a public rest room for women and a public waiting station? But where, you ask. Rock Island is peculiarly fortunate in having an ideal location—one that at present is going to waste and mars the civic beauty of our main thoroughfare—I refer to Market square. Every car line in the city passes this point, the real estate belongs to the city, so there should be no trouble about the site.

"As to the building, would the Tri-city Railway company be willing to cooperate in such a movement? Public utility companies seldom spend money for the comfort of patrons until public sentiment demands it. When the Tri-city Railway company was granted its long term franchise, practically no conditions were imposed. But does the fact that we have no club to hold over it lessen its obligation? It does not. This company owes us a great deal, but only by arousing public sentiment, and by our city doing its utmost, can we obtain from the street railway company what is our due.

"After having studied conditions, it seems to us that such a building could be erected, a building having the first floor a public waiting room, with public comfort stations in the rear for men; the second floor, a rest room for women, with public comfort stations for them.

"I should like to ask that every member of the department give this her earnest thought, and to have the subject kept before us and agitated, for it will take that."

W. R. Moody Commends the Work of Dan Crawford, African Missionary

At the time of the visit recently of Dan Crawford, missionary to Africa, to this city, decision was made to build and endow one of the number of mission schools in the heart of Africa to be known as the Rock Island school. A committee of ladies consisting of Mrs. William McLean Stewart, Miss Katherine Gest, Mrs. E. D. Sweney, Mrs. T. E. Newland, Mrs. J. L. Vance, Mrs. R. Bollman, Mrs. Alexander Quist, Mrs. C. D. McLane, and Mrs. John Titterton was appointed to undertake the raising of $500 necessary to build the school. This committee is now engaged in soliciting funds for that purpose and the workers are meeting with much encouragement. Two questions have been very properly asked by persons interested enough to consider the committee's request for contributions: first under what auspices does Mr. Crawford carry on his work, and in what manner is the particular fund for these proposed schools to be administered?

W. R. Moody of the Northfield schools stands sponsor for Mr. Crawford in this country and it was through him that arrangements were made for his visit to Rock Island. The appended letter has just been received by Rev. J. L. Vance from Mr. Moody which states the facts regarding the contributions, and which the committee desires to spread before the public:

March 16, 1914. "Rev. J. L. Vance, Rock Island, Ill. "Dear Mr. Vance:

"I am very glad indeed to reply as far as I can to your inquiries regarding Dan Crawford. Mr. Crawford is not under any denominational board, but on the other hand, he is working with a society in England which is largely made up of Plymouth Brethren. One of their principles is to avoid the regular church organization. In this respect they resemble the Society of Friends, but their missionary work is done by a society, and it is in connection with this society that Crawford has worked. As you saw him, you will appreciate his independence, and as you have learned from him of the character of his work you will realize how much latitude he would have to have in his work. Even David Livingstone, in order to carry on the exploration work which opened up the heart of Africa, had to sever his connections with the Presbyterian board of Scotland, that he might have the latitude which he felt necessary in doing his work.

"Mr. Crawford has a treasurer in England, but we have not forwarded the funds direct to the treasurer, forwarding them, rather, to his publisher, the George H. Doran Co., in New York, who in turn forwarded the funds by draft to the treasurer in England. The funds which he has received will be largely administered under his own supervision, although held by the treasurer. In all my relations with Crawford, however, I have found him irreproachable in money dealings, and I should not, if I had a large sum to give, have any hesitancy in placing it in his hands, feeling that he would use it wisely, and with his familiarity with the needs in that region in which he works, make the most careful use of it. In all his labors here I have noticed his careful economy not to indulge in any luxuries, and he has labored unsparringly.

"Before Mr. Crawford came to this country he was recommended to me by a leading editor of England, who wrote me that the two archbishops of the Church of England, and many of the leading churchmen, had presided at his meetings in England and endorsed him, while the British and Foreign Bible society had published his translation of the new testament, now having in hand a second edition. From the Congregational board in this country I learned through Dr. Cornelius Patton that missionaries in Africa had written the home board regarding him, and of his having disappeared into the very heart of Africa. Of those who have seen his work I imagine that there are necessarily few, for the very fact that he spent his life during the last twenty years in a country which has not been visited by many whites, and where missionary efforts have not penetrated. He has, I think, ten stations located on Lake Mweru. I made every inquiry I could regarding Mr. Crawford when making his arrangements, and have satisfied myself, so far as I am concerned, in regard, not only to his integrity, but as to his judgment, and to the confidence of others in him and his work.

"Trusting that I have answered your inquiry, believe me, "Sincerely yours, W. R. MOODY."
