

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a divorced woman. I want your good advice, as I think you give the best advice I ever read.

(1) Would you advise me to marry a man I do not love just for a good living and never have to work again, and give my child a good education?

(2) Would you advise me to go on the stage and make my living independently of any man? I have sung before hundreds of people and they always applauded.

(3) Should I marry the man I love? He is a poor boy, but a good worker; makes about $65 a month, but drinks at times. He says he loves me better than any woman he ever met.

(4) Would you wait and marry someone else who did not work around the mines?

(5) My people want me to marry for a home and money; would you be divorced?

(1) If he loves you dearly and you cannot give him any love in return, would you be doing what is right to the man if you married him?

(2) One cannot always trust the opinion of one's friends about one's talents. If you think you have a good voice and real talent for the stage, go to a big city, get some of the stage managers to listen to you and then take their advice.

(3) I never counsel a woman to marry a man who drinks. I have seen too much misery in homes because the man drinks.

(4) I never counsel a woman to marry a man who drinks. I have seen too much misery in homes because the man drinks.

find that you think very differently about them. Possibly you will discover that you can get along without any of them better than without the man who has not had habits.

(4) My answer to this is in No. 3. (5) Do what your own best judgment and common sense tell you to do.

(6) Would you advise me to go on the stage and make my living independently of any man? I have sung before hundreds of people and they always applauded.

The Value of Your Corset

The well-groomed, perfectly harmonious woman knows that every part of her being is expressive.

There can be no grace or charm of dress without first and foremost, comfort. Given that, found and preserved in a perfect fitting, perfectly adapted corset that brings out and enhances every beauty point of her figure, and the charm of the outer garments follows of itself.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

When we say that the new Warner Models in our Corset Department are more stylish than ever before, we mean simply that they have been designed so exactly time for time with fashion's decrees, that by wearing one for you are preparing yourself to wear with elegance any fashionable gown or suit of the season.
