DANCING PARTY AT CLUB.

Mrs. Mathilde F. Koehler entertained at a very delightful dancing party Saturday night at the Davenport Outing club for her daughter, Miss Otilie Koehler and son, Herbert O. Koehler. There were some 90 tri-city young people as guests of the evening. Garden flowers in variety and profusion were used in decoration of the reception parlor, and also in the dining rooms, where supper tables were laid and refreshments served.

Among the guests were the Misses Priscilla Allen and Marian Keahn of Kenwood, Ill., who are spending the week at the Koehler home. They will stop for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ballard, the grandparents of Miss Allen, and will be joined by Leon M. Allen, general passenger traffic manager for the Rock Island, and Mrs. Allen, with their two sons, in Mr. Allen's private car. The party will leave here later for the Pacific coast on an extended pleasure trip.

MOTHERS SISTERS, DAUGHTERS PARTY.

Miss Alice French and Mrs. J. A. Crawford entertained Saturday afternoon at their home on East Tenth street, Davenport, at one of the most delightful as it was unique of the mid-summer social affairs of Davenport, the party taking the form of a bridge tournament in which mothers, sisters and daughters participated.

About 40 tri-city women were the guests. There were garden flowers in charming decoration in all the rooms, and following the friendly tilt at the games a dainty luncheon was served.

The honors for high score went to Mrs. J. F. Lardner, Mrs. Paul Preston, Miss Lischer and Mrs. William Ransom. The prize for the most respectful mother went to Mrs. Ward of Moline and the prize for the most tolerant daughter was awarded Miss Elizabeth Allen. Other prizes were awarded by popular vote.

MISS VON MAUR ENTERTAINS.

Miss Margaret Von Maur delightfully entertained Saturday afternoon at her home in Camp McClellan, Davenport. Five tables of bridge and rumsch were played, the prizes going to the Misses Dorothy Stevens, Nancy Dow and Helen Fluke.

The home was prettily decorated and the event proved one of rare enjoyment. Out-of-town guests were Dorothy Stoneman of Detroit, a guest of Miss Margaret Velle at Villa Velle; Miss Dorothy Funk of Des Moines, a guest of Miss Nancy Dow; Miss Priscilla Allen and Miss Marion Keahn of Kenwood, Ill., guests of Miss Otilie Koehler and Miss Florence Maher of Clinton, a guest of Miss Katherine Sears.

BANQUET FOR WOODMEN FAMILY.

Officers elect, retiring officers and visiting members of the Modern Woodmen were tendered a banquet Saturday evening by the head office at Masonic temple, the affair being a strictly Woodmen family affair. The beautiful banquet hall never looked more inviting than it did at this time. Tables were laid the length of the room with the officers' table placed at right angles to them with covers laid for 350. Greenery decorated the tables and bouquets of red flowers harmonized with the red and green decorations of the room. The dinner which was served by the members of the Eastern Star was a delicious course affair.

While the dinner was being served a program of toasts was carried out, and there prevailed a spirit of good fellowship.

James B. McNamara, head clerk-elect, acted as toastmaster, and at the conclusion of the song "America" by the company, introduced Head Consul A. R. Talbot, who spoke on "Our Future." Mr. Talbot reviewed the past accomplishments of the society and stated that the future looks bright for the Woodmen, predicting a steady growth in membership, which would mean the development of a perfect fraternal society.

As Major C. W. Hawes, retiring head clerk, rose to his feet to respond to a toast on "Our Employees," the entire company, standing, greeted him and paid him the honor that only could be paid by a corps of workers that has been associated for years with so kindly a leader. In his address Major Hawes expressed his pleasure at having been associated so long with the people at the head office and declared he knew no more loyal or efficient body. As he concluded his remarks he was given three hearty cheers.

After singing "To Our Honored Guests" by the employees, Director E. E. Murphy spoke on "The Situation," depicting for the society a very bright and prosperous future.

Dr. Hada Burkhardt, supreme recorder of the Royal Neighbors, F. E. Thomas of Ohio and Oscar E. Aleshire of Chicago spoke enthusiastically of the prospect of the Woodmen.

The songs "Our Employees" and "The Employees' Jubilee Song," which were written by Carlton G. Taylor, proved the hits of the evening, and on every hand were warm words of praise for them. The singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the company closed the formal program and then followed a social time and dancing.

CARDS TO THOMPSON-HARVEY NUPTIALS.

Tri-city friends have received cards to the marriage of Miss Dorothy Harvey, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. George W. Harvey of New York City and Washington, D. C., to Lieutenant Marcus Thompson, son of Colonel John T. Thompson, assistant chief of ordnance at Washington, formerly stationed at Rock Island arsenal, and Mrs. Thompson. The wedding will take place Wednesday, August 12, at 5 o'clock at the country home of Colonel and Mrs. Harvey, "Jarjala," Deal, N. J. The affair will be a brilliant army wedding and will be attended by friends from all parts of the country. Lieutenant Thompson was a member of the class of 1903 at Harvard university and graduated from West Point in the class of 1906. The "bride is" debutante of the past winter and has been popular in Washington society. She met Mr. Thompson at a breakfast given by Miss Genevieve Clark for Miss Jessie Wilson shortly before her marriage to Frank Sayre last year.

MRS. TAVENNER GIVEN NOTICE.

In the Chicago Sunday Tribune Washington society letter by Mme Z. in which there is an interesting chat about the White house and cabinet letters, there appears an excellent likeness of Mrs. Clyde H. Tavenner, of whom the correspondent says "Mrs. C. H. Tavenner who is the wife of Congressman Tavenner of Illinois, has the distinction of being the youngest wife of any of the members of the house of representatives."

Mrs. Tavenner, with her mother, Mrs. Martin and her little daughter, are now at their home in Cordova, and the young congressman is looking with longing eyes to the adjournment, when he may join them there.

TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY.

Miss Emma Geiger at her home on Eighth street and Seventh avenue entertained Saturday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Fourteen young people were the guests and they spent the time with games and guessing contests in which prizes were awarded to Miss Helen Wagner, Earl Erick, Miss Mildred Cardall and Gilbert Kolls. A supper was served in the late evening. Miss Geiger was presented with a lavalliere as a gift from the company.

SOCIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The July meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Boomer, 4219 Eighth avenue. Rev. J. E. Wilson of Broadway Presbyterian church will address the meeting on the subject of Sabbath desecration. Friends of the society are invited to attend.

The Young People's Branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will meet this evening with Miss Helen Liedtke, Twenty-fifth street and Twen-

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Tea stains must be washed first in cold water, then in boiling water.

When making wash dresses or petticoats use No. 100 cotton in hems or tucks you expect to let out, for they can be ripped out without trouble.

When boiling potatoes in their jackets, peel one row around the potato, and when they are cooked the rest of the jacket will come off almost whole.

THE TABLE.

Cucumber Baskets—Select three long, regular shaped cucumbers; cut a piece from both the stem and the blossom end of each; then cut in halves crosswise. Cut two pieces from each section, leaving the remaining piece in shape of a basket with a handle. Remove the pulp and seeds, in sufficiently large pieces to cut in cubes for refilling one-half the baskets, the remaining half being filled with pieces of tomatoes. Arrange the baskets on lettuce leaves, alternating the fillings, and pour over French dressing.

Tomato and Cheese Salad—Peel six range alternate slices of tomato and cucumber until six slices have been piled one on top of another. Place on lettuce leaves, garnish with strips of red and green peppers. Serve with French and mayonnaise dressing. Remove the seeds from the peppers and parboil two minutes before using.

Tomato and Cheese Salad—Peel six medium sized tomatoes, chill, and scoop out a small quantity of pulp from the center of each. Fill the cavities, using equal parts of Roquefort and Neuchatel cheese worked together and moistened with French dressing. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing.

Bolivia Salad—Cut cold boiled potatoes in one-half inch cubes; there should be one and one-half cups. Add three "hard boiled" eggs finely chopped, one and one-half tablespoons of finely chopped red peppers, and one-half tablespoonful of chopped chives. Serve in nests of lettuce leaves with cream dressing.

Celery and Cabbage Salad—Remove the outside leaves of a small white cabbage, and cut off the stalks close to the leaves. Cut out the center, and with a sharp knife shred finely. Let stand one hour in cold or ice water. Drain, wring in a double cheese cloth, to make as dry as possible. Mix with equal parts of celery in small pieces. Moistened with cream dressing and re-fill the cabbage. Arrange on a folded napkin and garnish with celery tips and parsley between the folds of the napkins and around the top of the cabbage.

Cucumber Salad—Remove the thick slices from both ends of a cucumber, cut off a thick paring, and with a sharp pointed knife cut five parallel grooves lengthwise of the cucumber at equal distances; then cut in thin parallel slices crosswise, keeping the cucumber in its original shape. Arrange on lettuce leaves and pour over Parisian French dressing. Serve with fish course.

Lemon Sauce—One-half cup of sugar, one cup of boiling water, one tablespoonful of corn starch or one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, few gratings of nutmeg, few grains of salt. Mix the sugar and the corn starch, add the water gradually, stirring constantly; boil five minutes, remove from the fire, add the butter, lemon juice and the nutmeg.

Clover Jewelry—for the Play Hour

SOME warm afternoon when you hardly know what to do with yourself why don't you sit down in the fresh green grass amid the clovers and make yourself some clover jewelry?

If you don't happen to have clovers in your yard, skip over to a vacant lot nearby or the park—any place where the tough stemmed white clovers grow. Pick a big bunch of long-stemmed clovers. Bring them home with you—find a cool, shady spot and you are ready for work.

You think you can't make jewelry out of clovers. The very ideal that's simply because you have never tried.

Now what kind of jewelry do you like best to wear? Necklaces, bracelets, rings or maybe you like real royal crowns?

All right, you can make them all. First, let's make a bracelet. Pick out four clovers whose stems are about the same length, tie a loose knot in the end of each stem, slip another clover through and draw the knot tight. So on, until your four clovers are fastened together in a big circle. Now double your chain together into two circles and slip it up on your arm. Makes a pretty good bracelet, doesn't it?

The necklaces, of course, take a good deal more time, for they may be as elaborate as you wish. First make the bare necklace of clovers that will go around your neck and hang down in front about half way to the waist. Then take a bunch of six short-stemmed clovers, bind the stems together firmly with some flat grass, suspend them from the front of your chain. That's your locket.

Or maybe you would rather have a red rose pendant or a daisy hanging like a pearl from the front of your necklace. Make it any way you wish in the way that pleases you, but be sure to bind it strongly and firmly so that it won't fall to the ground. You take a notion to run for the crown. Make a long and twist it 'round and 'round and 'round your head till you have a thick rope of clover chain that fits snugly like the crown of a hat. Lift this off carefully and lay it on the grass in front of you, then with other clovers or with blades of tough grass or with long stemmed daisies bind the threads of clover stems tightly together into a firm, thick crown.

Make a set of clover jewelry for your mother.

After you become very expert in making crowns and necklaces and bracelets, you can make beautiful girdles, and slipper buckles of fragrant flowers.

Make a set of clover jewelry some time for your mother. Slip up behind her when she is working, drop the clover necklace around her neck and fit the sweet smelling crown on her head and see if she is not surprised.

Then some day when some playmates come to visit you, you can show them how to make clover jewelry and you can dress yourself up very grandly, and have a party or play king and queen with the clover jewelry for your crown and scepters.

Mother's Right to Mold Environment

BY MARY AQUIN.

The biggest plum that has fallen into the suffrage apron came unexpectedly with the formal announcement that Secretary of State Bryan has taken up the fight for the equal distribution of the ballot and will enter the field in Nebraska, where an effort is to be made to put that state on the suffrage map in November.

Following closely upon the failure of the suffragists to place the democratic administration on record as favoring universal suffrage, it comes as a hint of what may really be the final outcome. Never has there been a time when an administration had so many vital and complex issues to determine, and it was doubtless overzealousness that persuaded the suffragists to attempt to place President Wilson on record at this inopportune time. No one can doubt that the president is in sympathy with the suffrage movement. His dedication of three lovely daughters to the cause and Mrs. Wilson's attitude presupposes his sentiment to be genuine. Likewise his chivalrous reception of England's famous militant affirms his position. Apart from the obstacles that the states impose, the president may have wisely contended that amid so many pressing situations demanding every attention, suffrage would not receive the consideration due it. The harmony of thought and deed existing between the president and the secretary of state clears the atmosphere of any misgivings.

With his customary wholesomeness, Secretary Bryan outlines his reasons for advancing woman suffrage. He senses exactly woman's necessity for use of the ballot and puts emphasis upon the crux of the situation in this excerpt:

"As for myself, I am not in doubt as to my duty. I desire to present the argument to which I give the greatest weight. Without minimizing other arguments advanced in support of the extending of suffrage to woman, I place the emphasis upon the mother's right to a voice in molding the environment which shall surround her children—an environment which oper-

State mining authorities in Ohio have ruled that the mine rescue car recently purchased by the state, can be used when practical in any industrial disaster, whether it be a factory or hotel fire, train accident or most anything else. Railroads operating in the state have expressed their willingness to furnish free transportation for the car over their lines when it is to be used in rescue work of any nature, and a ruling of the attorney general gives them permission to render free service without violation of state law. Free transportation by railroad companies is prohibited, except in only a few instances of this character.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 19 years old.

(1) I have been going with a young man for about two years. Some time ago he asked me how I would like to be his wife? I told him I was too young. Did I do right?

(2) The skin on my cheeks and nose seems to sag. Will you please give me a remedy for this?

(1) I think if you felt sure you loved the young man, my dear, you would not have given him such an excuse. So probably you did right that time. If he really cares for you he will ask you again—more definitely.

(2) After washing with warm water and a mild soap, always dash cold water on the face, neck and chest. This makes the skin firm and gives it a healthy glow. A massage every day, always working upward, will help to hold up the flesh of the face. Also, cultivate a cheerful state of mind—that will do more to lift up the skin of the face than you can imagine. Keep your general health good and cultivate some form of outdoor exercise.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How and with what can I take a red stain (paper stain) out of a new white suede chamois glove?

(2) How and where do pineapples grow?

(3) What is a good polish for a mahogany piano?

(4) Will the narrow skirts be worn next fall and winter?

(5) Name a good children's outdoor game and how to play it?

(1) Javelle water will take it out. If your drug store doesn't keep it, make it as follows:

- 1 lb. washing soda.
- 2 qts. boiling water.
- 1/2 lb. chloride of lime.
- 2 qts. cold water.

Put the soda into an agate pan or earthenware bowl and add the boiling water. Dissolve the lime in the cold water. Let the second mixture settle and then pour off the clear liquid into the soda. Bottle and keep in a cold place. Put only a little of this at a time on the glove and rub it very

What Every Mother Wants to Know About Her Baby

BY ANNA STEESE RICHARDSON. (Director of the Better Babies Bureau of the Woman's Home Companion.)

NO 2—INFANT FEEDING IN SUMMER.

1.—Why is the bottle-fed baby more prone to summer complaint than the breast-fed baby?

Because mother's milk is not exposed to bacteria, while cow's milk is. Milk which stands absorbs germs. Mother's milk passes directly from the breast to the baby's stomach. Cow's milk is handled, often by dirty hands.

2.—How can the nursing mother protect her baby from summer complaint?

By keeping her own digestion in good condition. She must not over-eat, nor eat foods that cause indigestion, cramp or dysentery. She must not nurse her baby when overheated. She should nurse the baby regularly and not so frequently as in cool weather. She must not give the young baby water to drink. After six months she may quench his thirst with water which has been boiled and cooled, not iced. She must never let him sip ice water, lemonade, cold tea or other soft drinks which she enjoys.

3.—What precautions should be taken for the bottle-fed baby?

Know the source of milk supply. If you live in a city, buy certified milk, or the best bottled milk obtainable. Never buy milk from open cans in groceries or dairies.

4.—Shall I order milk from a cow?

Milk from a herd of healthy cows is better. Milk from a single cow is affected by what the cow eats, its slightest ailment. Baby ailments have been traced to the milk which came from a cow that was chased by a dog and became overheated.

5.—How should milk be prepared?

With infinite care and cleanliness. It should be cooled quickly after milking, shipped quickly to your door and then prepared immediately in vessels used for no other purpose. Baby experts agree on cow's milk, with the cream stirred in, malt sugar and boiled water, as the best substitute for mother's milk. If the bowels are loose, barley water can be substituted for plain boiled water. Directly the food is prepared, it is poured into bottles, each holding a single feeding. These bottles are stoppered with clean absorbent cotton or cotton wool, set in a wire basket or rack made for the purpose and placed near ice.

6.—What proportion of milk and water should be given babies at different ages?

The department of health, city of New York, issues the following formula for general use:

Baby 3 days to 2 weeks, 1 tablespoon fresh bottled milk, 3 tablespoons barley water. Start with 2 table-spoons at each feeding and increase gradually. Feed every two hours.

Baby 2 weeks to 2 mos., 2 table-spoons milk, 4 tablespoons barley water every two or three hours, lengthening the time be-lightly with a clean cloth. Keep on until the stain is gone. This Javelle water is good for all stains except in colored goods and woens; for the latter use borax.

(2) Pineapples grow in a tropical climate, such as the Hawaiian Islands, tropical South America, etc. Pineapples grow in clusters at the top of a stem which springs out of a cluster of spike-like long leaves close to the ground.

(3) The best way to polish a mahogany piano is to wash it with a very soft sponge and warm water with very little good white soap melted in it. Then take a good soft chamois, dip it in clean cool water, wring it as dry as possible and polish only a small space at a time.

(4) No. The newest fashions want them two yards around the bottom.

(5) Have a peanut rolling cutter. If you have a good lawn or good walk, the peanut must be pushed with tooth-picks or small sticks. Have them all placed the same distance from the goal and have all the players start at the same time. The one who gets the peanut first to the right place should be given a little prize.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would you kindly tell me how to use a percolator? The clerk bought it of told me to put cold water in the lower part and boil 20 minutes. I allow one tablespoon of coffee to each cup, but still the coffee tastes weak. Have also tried hot water and then let boil a few minutes, with the same results.

A READER.

Twenty minutes' boiling should be enough. I think a little more coffee should be used in percolator than in the old-fashioned way of making coffee. I know I take a good bit more than a tablespoonful of coffee to each cup—say about three-fourths of a cup to a pint of water. Set up with the cold water, as you were instructed.

When whole milk, boiled water and malt sugar are combined for feeding a very young baby, mix four parts of milk, sixteen parts of water and one part of sugar. Gradually, the amount of water is decreased, but the amount of milk is increased, but the amount of malt sugar remains practically the same.

7.—If modified milk does not agree with my baby, what may I substitute? Nothing, without consulting your physician. Never take the advice of neighbors. Your baby's life depends upon his receiving the right sort of food.

James A. Newkirk, a painter of St. Joseph, Mo., was late several times that he had no wife to wake him up in going to work, and was chided for it by a customer. The painter protested an introduction to a widow who would make a good wife. The painter now has some one to wake him up in the morning.
