REFUSE TO WORK FREE; ELECTION COST IS BOOSTED

Judges' Committee Informs the Mayor They Will Demand $6 for Work for City.

ANNEXATION TO COST $1,200

Precinct Officials in Rock Island Will Receive $20 Each for Registration Day and Nov. 3.

Judges in the seventeen precincts in Rock Island have refused to donate their services to the city on election day, Nov. 3, and as a result the city will be forced to pay hundreds of dollars for the counting of the ballots on the annexation of the hill district, including South Heights.

"The balloting on annexation," said Mayor H. H. Schriver this morning following a meeting of the committee of judges at the mayor's office, "will cost the city of Rock Island about $1,200."

The judges of Rock Island precincts will receive a total of $20 for their work registration day, which is tomorrow, and election day, Nov. 3. Of this amount $14 will come from the county for the regular election and $6 from the city for work on the vote on annexation.

Asked Them to Work Free.

Some time ago the mayor suggested to the judges that they donate their services to the city on election day, receiving only pay from the county. He stated to them that the matter had already cost the city a huge sum, and that it would be a great manifestation of patriotism on their part would they offer to take care of the annexation vote gratis.

He suggested then that in case they could not see their way clear to work for nothing they might agree upon a small price, but this morning a committee of the judges appeared at the offices of the mayor and stated that they had had a meeting yesterday, and that they agreed upon a price of $6 per judge. They said that covered the work on registration day, tomorrow and on election day.

The work the judges will do in conjunction with the work they do for the county. The committee was composed of Steve Hull, C. W. Horton and Charles Oswald.

Judges Cost Largest Item.

The mayor stated that the cost of election to the city included the price of the printing of ballots, the cost of advertising the election and the payment of the judges. He said that the last item was by far the greatest in amount.
