MRS. MERRILL TELLS OF KIPLING.

"Rudyard Kipling is not a man of the hour. He is not a reformer, and this is an era of social reform. But it is refreshing to meet a man of creative genius who is not a social reformer," said Mrs. Anthony Merrill of Chicago as she faced an audience of Tri-City women yesterday morning at "Overlook," the Charles Deere residence in Moline. Mrs. Merrill went on to say "there are too many doctors of social ills. It is a comfort to have a rest from them, and to wander in the field of literature. Kipling has a fresh mind. He sings, and the whole world listens. His poems are really better than his novels or his plays, and he is really the most imperishable ballad singer the world has ever seen."

"Many are blind to his appeal to creative art, for we have a great way in this country of taking the verdict of incapable people who criticize Kipling. He gave the voice to the whole life of India. He touched the jungle into realism for his readers. He rendered universal India, and he gave true pictures of the British soldier, in his drinking, wrangling and rollicking in the far eastern barracks, that astonished and entranced all England and the reading world. He told shocking but true tales of white and brown men in his stories of the White Man's Burden; he has carried his patriotism further than any other writer, as he told the truth about his country and his countrymen."

"There are people," said Mrs. Merrill, "who do not care for the jungle books, but it is because they do not understand them. I think. They do not appeal to them."

Mrs. Merrill began her lecture by describing English life as pictured by Burns-Jones, the artist, and she went into some detail in describing the life of the MacDonal family which was near the Five Towns, the home of Arnold Bennett. It was Alice MacDonal who married the young designer Kipling and went to India to live. Their son was born Dec. 13, 1865, and "they called him Rudyard, in memory of the lovely day."

Mrs. Merrill went into some account of his early life, how as a near-sighted boy of 12 he was sent to England to school. We find him in 1882 doing journalistic work in India, where, for the equivalent of $150 a month, he was running a newspaper as editor, typesetter, proofreader and a few other things. He incidentally composed poems and wrote sharp satires and tales of Indian life.

The duke of Connaught met him and was so impressed with his genius he gave him the opportunity to go to the front with the army. This is where Kipling secured the material for his army stories, for his "Soldiers Three," "Plain Tales from the Hills," and "Kim," his father designing the pictures for the latter.

"In 1890, poor, alone, with the 'stuff' under one arm, he set out in the world, going to Hong Kong, from thence to San Francisco, and on to Chicago. He felt Chicago was a good place to leave, and he went to New York, where the Harpers are not proud today to think they rejected one of his stories. They are not telling it. Kipling went from New York to London. Yates, the great journalist, was the one who first brought him into the limelight when he sent a reporter to interview him as the man 'who knew India by heart.' Kipling jumped into fame when this interview was published.

"He met Ballister, and in 1892 married his sister at Brattleboro, Vt., where he lived for a number of years. "Kipling wrote a flood of stories about this time and in 1907 he took the Nobel prize for literature."

Mrs. Merrill read the song of "The Bantu," and "The Bell Boy," as characteristic and told some very interesting stories illustrative of Kipling's understanding of nature, of the Indian people and the animals of the jungle. She felt that "his books are not text books for the boy, but he casts light where it has never shone before."

The next "Morning with the Moderns" will be at the home of Mrs. C. A. Flicke on Main street, Davenport.

LECTURE PROCEEDS TO MACDOWELL MEMORIAL.

The proceeds from the lecture-recitals given by Mrs. Edward MacDowell, who appears at Augustana chapel, Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, go largely towards the MacDowell Memorial association. This association was organized a few years after the death of the composer to continue his memory in a manner more helpful than may be done in bronze or stone. Mrs. MacDowell by her tireless efforts has made this institution one of the most notable in the country. Together with the main buildings in which MacDowell resided there are several studios for work purposes, and there artists may go to live for stated periods to carry out their ideas. Although the institution is endowed, the creative workers residing there under very desirable surroundings must of course pay a moderate rate for their support. Eligibility for membership in the colony is, generally speaking, approved talent vouched for by at least two well known people, and a declared purpose of specific creative work and adaptability for harmonious cooperation in the life of the colony, which necessarily is largely self-governed.

Every summer festivals and pageants are given in a great out-of-door theatre in the woods. These are attended by music lovers and artists from all parts of the country. The MacDowell choir of Nassau, New Hampshire, and a symphony orchestra from Boston participate. As Mrs. MacDowell's own contributions, largely from her own lecture earnings, have gone well up into the thousands, the nature of the enterprise may easily be comprehended.

TO HONOR MISS DANIELSON.

Miss Minnie Danielson, whose marriage is an event of the week, was the guest of honor at a shower given Wednesday evening in the home of Miss Ruby Johnson, Forty-first street and Eighth avenue. The affair was in the nature of a surprise on Miss Danielson, for she was not aware of a party until she came to the home of Miss Johnson on an errand and found 20 girl friends there. The house was decorated with her wedding colors, green and yellow, festoons of the color extending from the chandeliers to the corners of the room, with yellow and white chrysanthemums as the floral decorations. From a parasol decorated in yellow and green the bride-elect was showered with beautiful pieces of linen for her new home. A two-course luncheon was served and the evening passed quickly and pleasantly with games and contests.

SALE OF FANCY ARTICLES.

Beginning at 11:30 o'clock next Tuesday the ladies' auxiliary to the Rock Island County Humane society will serve a 15-cent lunch at the Memorial Christian church. From that time on throughout the afternoon there will be a sale of fancy articles, rugs, aprons, etc., the proceeds to be used in the work of the society. The ladies solicit the patronage of the public.

O'NEIL-LIPPEN.

The marriage of Miss Louise Lippen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lippen, and Edward O'Neil, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Neil, both of Durant, took place as a quiet ceremony of Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the parsonage of the Davenport Zion German Lutheran church, Rev. Carl Holtermann officiating. The attending witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. John Solbrig of Rock Island, the latter a sister of the bride. The bride was in a gown of blue silk, lace trimmed and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bride couple, with a few relatives and friends, were entertained at a wedding dinner and festivities at the evening at the Solbrig home, Rock Island. The couple will go at once to housekeeping in Rock Island. The groom is employed at the Stapp greenhouses of South Rock Island.

RECTAL ATTRACTS ATTENTION.

A recital of victrola selections sung by Alice Nielson and Olive Fremstad was given in the Norberg music house in Moline, Wednesday evening. In view of the fact that Alice Nielson is soon to appear in recital at the Moline high school, the recital attracted considerable interest and was largely attended. Between the selections Thor Norberg gave a short sketch of the selections, and told personal experiences of the singers. Similar recitals will be given previous to the appearance of noted artists in the tri-cities.

HOT FELLOWSHIP CLUB.

Frank Oline of Twenty-ninth and Eighteenth avenue was host at his new bungalow to 14 members of the Good Fellowship club Wednesday evening. A bountiful supper was served at a pretty table decorated in the harvest colors of orange and black. A large pumpkin carved by Master Leonard Oline, was the centerpiece. Autumn leaves and chrysanthemums made the rooms very attractive. Much amusement was had from a singing contest in which each member had to sing one verse of some song, first prize, a box of cigars being given to Emil DeMoore of Moline. Frank McCarty as Charlie Chaplin, created much laughter. Elmer and Carl Johnson acted out the role of Mutt and Jeff. Chester Oline recited "Casey at the Bat." Louis Koenig in the role of the Dutchman, was the feature. In a well given speech John Molinelli presented the host with a fine briar pipe. Mr. Oline responded with a speech expressing his pleasure and surprise. Victrola music was furnished during the evening. The guests departed at the hour of midnight.

Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep fresh a whole week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks.

K C Jelly Roll

One cup sifted flour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; grated rind of 1 lemon; 3 eggs beaten light; 1 cup sugar; 1/2 cup hot milk; glass of jelly; powdered sugar.

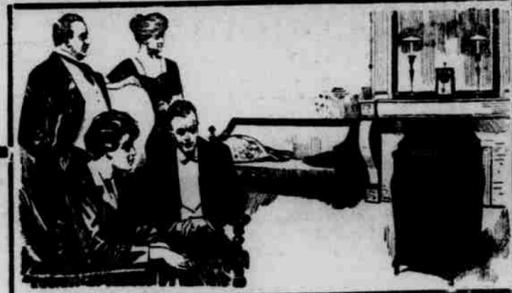

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.
