In the dining room where a four-course dinner was served in the late afternoon, streamers of red, white and blue, extended from the chandelier to the sides of the room and suspended from the chandelier was a wheel of small flags. A picture of the nation's president, surrounded by small flags, was on the buffet and the birthday cake had candles in red, white and blue. At the announcement of the supper, the ladies put on a soldier's drill to the dining room where they found their places at the table by means of embroidered napkins, suggestive of the country's flag. The table centerpiece was on a table crocheted by Mrs. Whitely, in which the American flag was worked out in the correct colors, with the words "our flag" crocheted in the intricate pattern. HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl 14 years old. Am I too young to go with the boys?
(2) I am going with a boy now who is a year older than myself. His parents have invited me to spend Sunday with them at camp. Is it proper for me to do so if my parents do not object?
(3) The boy I am going with now is quite sensible, but he always wants me to kiss him. I let him kiss me several times, but I have told him that boys lose their respect for a girl that lets a boy kiss her. He will not believe this. Do you think he is right?
(4) He comes to see me about two afternoons a week. My mother works, so there is never anyone at home but me. His parents object to him coming to see me. They say it will spoil my reputation. Do you think it will?
(5) I love this boy very much and he seems to worship me. Am I too young to be in love? He does not go with any other girls and I do not go with any other boys. Is it all right?
(6) I go to the public high school and of course many indecent boys go there. What should I do if they say insulting untrue things about me to my friends?
(7) I bite my finger nails. The doctor said I would outgrow it in time, but I have not. Can you tell me how to stop biting them?
(8) I have many nice boy friends at school. I am not attractive, and I am not very pretty. I always try to be polite and mannerly. Do you think that is why I am so well liked by the boys?
(9) I have dark hair, a dark complexion and brown eyes: what colors suit me best? I usually wear a great deal of red.
(10) You are decidedly too young to go with boys.
(11) It is all right to go because it was his parents who invited you and not the boy himself; you will be their guest at the camp.
(12) No, you are right.
(13) You should not let him or any other boy come to see you when your parents are not at home. It will spoil your reputation if you do.
(14) Yes, you are too young to be in love. You should both go with others and not confine your companionship to each other as you have been doing.

Household Hints

Corn and Cheese.
Corn may be used with cheese in place of macaroni, specialists of the United States department of agriculture point out for the preparation of a delicious and nutritive combination dish. The following recipe has been worked out by the department specialists:
One cup of samp (coarsely ground or cracked corn), one quart of water, one and one-fourth teaspoon salt.
Boil the samp in the salted water until tender. Drain and combine with the following sauce:
One cup skim milk, one cup finely cut cheese, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon mustard, paprika or other seasoning.
Mix the seasonings with the dry flour. Add enough milk to form into a smooth paste. Add the remainder of the milk and beat in a steppan, stirring constantly until thick. Add the cheese and stir until it is thoroughly melted. Add the samp in a baking dish or casserole. Add a layer of sauce and so on alternately until the material is all used. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top layer of sauce and cook in a medium oven until the crumbs are brown.

Meal and Eggs.
Put a layer of the boiled samp in a baking dish or casserole. Add a layer of sauce and so on alternately until the material is all used. Sprinkle bread crumbs over the top layer of sauce and cook in a medium oven until the crumbs are brown.

Cherry Cakes.
Cream lumping tablespoon butter and one of tart in one-half cup sugar. Add one or two eggs, one cup milk, three tablespoons sifted flour, one cup raisins, one-half cup currants, one-fourth cup chopped nut meats (walnuts), one teaspoon ground cinnamon, one teaspoon ground ginger. Stir this all up well, add two cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half cup sugar, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon baking soda. Bake one hour.

Potato Doughnuts.
Two cups mashed potatoes, two cups granulated sugar mixed with potatoes, three eggs, six cups flour, one cup sweet milk, two tablespoons baking powder, butter, one-half cup of oil.

To make a nice round loaf of bread for sandwiches and luncheons, try baking it in the tin cans that coffee is put in. Fill cans only about one-third full of dough.

Molded Hamburg Pudding.
Cut hamburger into small dice, cover with water, boil until all juice is extracted, strain, measure juice, put back in kettle, sweeten to taste. Put a little cinnamon bark in, boil about five minutes. For every cup of juice use five level tablespoons cornstarch mixed smooth with a little water. Let boil three minutes, pour in milk, let stand till cold. Serve with milk or cream and sugar.

Peeling Potatoes.
In preparing potatoes to be boiled with the skins on, cut just through the skin, in quarters; the length of the potato. This makes them easy to peel. They will also take the salt, while potatoes boiled with the skins on will not.

Cereal in Biscuits.
Once cooked cereal, left over from breakfast, beaten into biscuit dough gives a delicious flavor and acts as a substitute for part of the flour, besides assuring good food value.

Grind with the meat in making meat loaf afford a pleasing and profitable change in this dish.

Duff Cake.
Stove and cut one pound cakes. Soak in one cup boiling water, in which one teaspoon soda has been added, and let stand while mixing one cup brown sugar and five tablespoons melted butter or oleomargarine. Add one egg and then the milk with the liquor. Beat and add one and one-half cups white flour with one good spoonful baking powder.

Lastly add vanilla and it costs worth of walnut meats sprinkled with flour. Bake in a well greased loaf tin about nine inches square and three inches deep. Have the oven hot to the beginning, but lower the heat when cake is put in, and bake slowly 50 minutes. Do not try to remove from tin. When cool, cover with this icing.

Brown sugar, one and one-half cups, water to dissolve, half cup if hard, then beat into the stiff white of one egg. This cake will furnish for a week if it lasts that long, and seems particularly suited to maculine tastes.

Using All of the Asparagus.
Asparagus is one of our very best succulent vegetables. We should make the most of it while it is in season. It is so easily digested that it is good for children and invalids as well as for grown-up people. In cooking asparagus the entire bunch should be utilized. The tough ends may be cut off and put into the soup. The tender ends may be put in a cheese-cloth bag and laid on top of the tough ends. Enough water should be put in to not quite cover the asparagus. When the asparagus is cooked until it is tender, which will take about twenty-five or thirty minutes, the cheese-cloth may be lifted and the asparagus served either with butter sauce or with a cream dressing. The tough ends may be split open and rubbed through a sieve and added to the liquid in which the asparagus has been cooked, as a foundation for asparagus soup.

Canning Fruit Without Sugar.
Fruit for use in pie or salads or as stewed fruit can be put up or canned without the use of any sugar at all, according to the canning specialists of the United States department of agriculture. They, therefore, advise those who, because of the high price of sugar, have been thinking of reducing the amount of fruit they put up, to can as much of their surplus as possible by the use of bottled, or ready-sweetened, fruit. It is better than sugar syrup in many respects, and may be successfully sterilized and retained in the pack by simply adding boiling water instead of the hot syrup. The use of sugar, of course, is desirable in the canning of all kinds of fruit, and makes the product more palatable and appetizing. Moreover, most of the fruits when canned in water alone do not retain their natural flavor, texture and color as well as fruit put up in syrup. Fruit canned without sugar to be used for sauces or desserts must be sweetened.

Directions for Canning Fruits Without Syrup.
(Can the product the same day it is packed. Cut stem or seed, and clean the fruit by placing it in a strainer and pouring water over it until it is clean. Pack thoroughly in glass jars or tin cans until they are full; use the handle of a tablespoon, wooden ladle, or table knife for packing purposes. Pour over the fruit boiling water from a kettle, place rubbers and caps in position, and sterilize by using glass jars, seal completely if using tin cans. Place the containers in a sterilizing vat such as a wash boiler with false bottom, or other re-
