HERE'S LETTER FOR OBJECTORS

Missive From Lieutenant Alex McLeod Burns Up Spineless Opposers To War.

If you still think America is wrong in getting into the big scrap in Europe, take a look at the appended letter from Lieutenant Alex McLeod, Moline, now in the aviation corps in France, which he has written C. E. Johnson, chief inspector of the Vetter Motors corporation, for whom he worked.

This missive, which ought to take all the conscience out of the conscientious objector, says among other things:

"We have almost forgotten that there was any old world outside of the hell we have here. This has been the worst thing I could imagine. We have had to give them hell every minute, and still they come. But we have stopped them each time without much loss. They are game birds all right. The Hun comes over in waves, and we fly loose to the ground and use the machine guns at close range. We can see the rows of soldiers fall as if they were cut down with a mowing machine and still they come. But I think this will hold them for a while.

"I tell you, old chap, this gets on your nerves when one cuts them down so fast that they are sick of seeing how they sacrifice their men. I sometimes wonder what will become of me when I die, but not when I see the awful things the Germans do to the women and children and old people they capture.

"I have been busted twice, and once in No Man's Land. There you have to run like 'ell for some hole, as the big guns are turned on you in a minute—your own as well as the Hun's. They want to mow your bus and camera so there will be nothing to capture. You can lie in a shell hole in water up to your knees and think how lucky you are and how you gave the something to do. If you fall near the line anywhere the guns will get you in a jiffy if you don't tear out for shelter. That puts spice in the game.

"To see a battle from above is not as interesting as the one you soon have while you are enjoying the sights below. The devils slip up on you and then for the fun. I tell you it would make you laugh to see how many funny things happen in so short a time. You can see the old boy send his line of tracer bullets at you just like water from a hose. Then he makes a miss holler and he is yours in a second—but one has to be careful not to make that miss holler, or he is there. And you go on looking for another fight.

"After this is over if I am alive, no one can induce me to ever have a German near me. I would like to kill all of them in the world and cast off the awful dirty mark that they have placed upon the civilized world. They are worse than savages. How I wish some of the conscientious objectors were here to see their dirty work—they would be fighting 'em in a minute."

FINE COTTAGE ON ROCK RIVER ISLE TOTALLY BURNED

A. C. Carlson and Dave DeMink, Moline, believe fate is against them. Their cottage on Rock river island off the foot of Seventh street, together with a fine power boat, has been destroyed by fire with a total loss of $1,000.

Sometime Monday night the conflagration started but word of it did not reach the owners until yesterday. Investigation showed the home in ruins, together with all its furnishings. What caused the blaze has not been determined but it may have been a bolt of lightning or just bad boys—probably the latter.

STOLE ROLL FROM HIS WOODEN LEG

Mike Wolf of Terre Haute, Ind., came to Moline and caused the arrest of Mildred Noll, who may or may not be his wife, whom he charges with the theft of money from his wooden leg. Today his heart softened somewhat and he has indicated that the matter of money is not so important to him as getting back his wife.

The woman was arrested and will be arraigned tomorrow before Justice T. M. Wheelock.

Wolf told a peculiar story to the Moline police. He said he was in the restaurant business at New Richmond, Wis., and Mildred worked for him. She suggested marriage and he accepted. They went to St. Paul in 1914. There she entered a large building and came out with a paper, telling him it said they were married, he said. Wolf can not read the English language and he took her word for it, according to his representation. They went back to Wisconsin and he sold the restaurant. He said he gave her $2,000, and he kept his money in his wooden leg. They went to Terre Haute, Ind., and she disappeared. To the Moline police he charged that his money disappeared at the same time.

NEARLY ACCEPT TEUT IN QUOTA

August Von Spreckels, Allen Enemy, Listed for Entrainment—Classification Changed.

Although summoned to report to the Moline exemption board Saturday for entrainment to a military camp, August Von Spreckels will not comply.

What's the reason? He's a German alien enemy and as such cannot be drafted into military service.

When Von Spreckels made out his questionnaire, however, he was a German subject but because no formal claim for exemption was noted an error was made and he was listed among those who depart for a cantonment the latter part of the week.

The registrant took his troubles to Chief Ben DeJaeger yesterday. It was found that his name was listed as an enemy alien. The two made a trip to the exemption board and as a result the concept had his classification changed from class I to class 5.

Police News

Justice F. C. Entrikin, Moline, yesterday found Harold Brown guilty of violating the motor vehicle law, whereupon the defendant appealed his case to circuit court. Change of venue had been taken from Police Magistrate Gustafson's court.

Continuance in the case of Earl Jones, 14-year-old colored lad, charged with trying to criminally assault a young white married woman living in his neighborhood, was granted yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Frank Gustafson, Moline, Saturday afternoon being the time fixed for the hearing. He is out on $1,000 bonds. Another warrant was sworn out against him last evening, charging theft of a bicycle.

If you're a young man and like to hug a pretty girl, why stay away from Sylvan park and Edward Kittlisen, special Moline police officer. That's the tip which J. M. Hart, aged 24, soldier at Rock Island arsenal, gave in Moline police court this morning when he and his lady love were up to answer a charge of disorderly conduct. Hearing was continued until this afternoon.

EAST MOLINE

Mrs. John Wise has returned from Camp Dodge, where she visited with her son, Roy.

The Methodist Episcopal Aid society of Watertown met with Mrs. Mills Nicholson instead of in the church basement, which is damp owing to the rains. One visitor, Miss Edie Williams, a graduate nurse who is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. V. Kennedy, was present. Not much work was done. It was just a social session to plan for future work. Mrs. Nicholson served refreshments.

The K. P. dancing party was a pleasant affair last evening. The hall was decorated with colored Jap lanterns and Old Glory, and 50 couples danced to the music of the East Moline Jazz band.

Elmer Ellis is home from Camp Dodge for 10 days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Ellis.

Yesterday was the 12th anniversary of the organization of the Silvis Baptist Aid society. So to observe the occasion, a 12-cent tea was given. Members and friends began to arrive at 3 p. m. Dainty refreshments were served until 9 o'clock and a neat sum was realized.

Twenty members of the Loyal Daughters met yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. R. Newton. This is a busy time for them, as they are making arrangements for moving into the new Baptist church and church school building.

Mrs. James Shannon has gone to Woodhull for a short visit.

Mrs. Charles Schmidt has returned from Iowa City, where she visited with her parents before they departed for Oregon.

The Entre Nous Card club was pleasantly entertained last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Windsor. Fifty hundred was played at three tables. Those holding high score received prizes. Mrs. Windsor served a tasty lunch.

Six ladies of the Sempre Fidelis class of the Methodist Episcopal church of Silvis showed much speed yesterday afternoon by hemming 40 towels for the Red Cross. After folding these towels for return to headquarters Meadames Huff and Dennis took the ladies to the Baptist church to the 12-cent tea for lunch.

The R. N. A. camp of Silvis will sponsor a pink tea Friday afternoon at their hall on Ninth street. Silvis visitors are welcome.

The East Moline garage rooms were opened yesterday to twelve busy ladies, who completed a nice stock of dressings. More ladies are asked to come and help.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huntington are home from a pleasant visit at Plattville, Wis., where Mr. Huntington visited with his brother, whom he had not seen for ten years. They also visited Mrs. Huntington's sister at Janesville, Wis.
