

Full Text of Revised League Draft

Washington, D. C., April 28.—The state department made public today the revised draft of the covenant of the league of nations, as it will be presented tomorrow to the plenary session of the peace conference at Paris. The text follows, with parenthetical insertions showing changes made since the original draft and made public:

THE COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

In order to promote international cooperation and to achieve international peace and security, by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, by the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as to actual rule of conduct among governments, and by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another, the high contracting parties agree to this covenant of the league of nations.

(In the original preamble the last sentence read, "adopt this constitution" instead of "agree to this covenant.")

MEMBERSHIP OF LEAGUE.

Article I.—The original members of the league of nations shall be those of the signatories which are named in the annex to this covenant and also such of the other states named in the annex as shall accede without reservation to this covenant. Such accessions shall be effected by a declaration deposited with the secretariat within two months of the coming into force of the covenant. Notice thereof shall be sent to all other members of the league.

Any fully self-governing state, dominion or colony not named in the annex may become a member of the league if its admission is approved by two-thirds of the assembly, provided that it shall give effective guarantees of its sincere intention to observe its international obligations and shall accept such conditions as may be required by the league in regard to its military and naval force and armaments. Any member of the league may, after two years' notice of its intention to do so, withdraw from the league, provided that all its international obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal.

[This article is new, embodying with it errors and additions of the original draft. It provides more specifically the method of admitting new members and adds the entirely new paragraph providing for withdrawal from the league. No mention of withdrawal was made in the original document.]

EXECUTIVE MACHINERY.

Article II.—The action of the league under this covenant shall be effected through the instrumentality of an assembly and of a council, with permanent secretariat.

[Originally this was a part of article I. It gives the name assembly to the gathering of representatives of the members of the league, formerly referred to merely as "the body of delegates".]

ASSEMBLY'S POWER.

Article III.—The assembly shall consist of representatives of the members of the league. The assembly shall meet at stated intervals and from time to time as occasion may require, at the seat of the league, or at such other place as may be decided upon. The assembly may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of action of the league or affecting the peace of the world. At meetings of the assembly, each member of the league shall have one vote, and may have not more than three representatives.

[This embodies parts of the original articles II and III, with only minor changes. It refers to "members of the league," where the term "high contracting parties" originally was used, and this change is followed throughout the revised draft.]

COUNCIL'S FUNCTIONS.

Article IV.—The council shall consist of representatives of the United States of America, of the British empire, of France, of Italy, of Japan, together with representatives of four other members of the league. These four members of the league shall be selected by the assembly from time to time in its discretion. Until the appointment of the representatives of the four members of the league first selected by the assembly, representatives of — shall be members of the council. With the approval of the majority of the assembly the council may name additional members of the league whose representatives shall always be members of the council; the council with like approval may increase the number of members of the league to be selected by the assembly for representation on the council.

The council shall meet from time to time as occasion may require and at least once a year, at the seat of the league, or at such other place as may be decided upon. The council may deal at its meetings with any matter within the sphere of action of the league or affecting the peace of the world. Any member of the league not represented on the council shall be invited to send a representative to sit as a member at any meeting of the council during the consideration of matters specially affecting the interests of that member of the league. At meetings of the council each member of the league represented on the council shall have one vote, and may not have more than one representative.

MAKING DECISIONS.

Article V.—Except where otherwise expressly provided in this covenant, decisions at any meeting of the assembly or of the council shall require the agreement of all the members of the league represented at the meeting. All matters of procedure at meetings of the assembly or of the council, the appointment of committees to investigate particular matters, shall be regulated by the assembly or by the council, and may be decided by a majority of the members of the league represented at the meeting.

The first meeting of the assembly shall be held at the seat of the league of the United States of America.

[The first paragraph requiring unanimous agreement in both assembly and council except where otherwise provided was added by the two paragraphs originally were included in article IV.]

SECRETARIAT'S MAKEUP.

Article VI.—The permanent secretariat shall be established at the seat of the league. The secretariat shall comprise a secretariat general and such secretaries and staff as may be required. The first secretary general shall be the person named in the annex; thereafter the secretary general shall be appointed by the majority of the assembly.

The secretaries and the staff of the secretariat shall be appointed by the secretary general, with the approval of the council. The secretary general shall act in that capacity at all meetings of the assembly and of the council. The expenses of the secretariat shall be borne by the members of the league in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the international bureau of the Universal Postal Union.

[This replaces the original article V. In the original the appointment of the secretary general was left to the council and approval of the majority of the assembly was not required for subsequent appointments.]

SEAT OF LEAGUE.

Article VII.—The seat of the league is established at Geneva. The council may at any time decide that the seat of the league shall be established elsewhere.

All positions under or in connection with the league, including the secretariat, shall be open equally to men and women. Representatives of the members of the league and officials of the league, when engaged on the business of the league, shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities. The buildings and other property occupied by the league or its officials, or by representatives attending its meetings, shall be inviolable.

[Embodying parts of the old articles V and VII, this article moves Geneva instead of leaving the seat of the league to be chosen later, and adds the provision for changing the seat in the future. The paragraph opening with "to women equally with men is new".]

REDUCTION OF ARMS.

Article VIII.—The members of the league recognize that the maintenance of a peace requires the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations.

The council, taking account of the geographical situation and circumstances of each state, shall formulate plans for such reduction for the consideration and action of the several governments. Such plans shall be subject to reconsideration and revision at least every 10 years. After these plans shall have been adopted by the several governments limits of armaments therein fixed shall not be exceeded without the concurrence of the council. The members of the league agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war is open to grave objections. The council shall advise how the evil effects attendant upon such manufacture can be prevented, due regard being had to the necessities of those members of the league which are not able to manufacture the munitions and implements of war necessary for their safety.

The members of the league undertake to interchange full and frank information as to the scale of their armaments, their military and naval programs, and the condition of such of their industries as are adaptable to warlike purposes. [This covers the ground of the original article VIII, but is rewritten to make it clearer that armament reduction plans must be adopted by the nations affected before they become effective.]

MILITARY ADVICE.

Article IX.—A permanent commission shall be constituted to advise the council on the execution of the provisions of article I and on military and naval questions generally. [Unchanged except for the insertion of the words "article".]

TERRITORIAL RIGHTS.

Article X.—The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve, as against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

KEEPING PEACE.

Article XI.—Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the league or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole league, and the league shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations. In case any such emergency should arise, the secretary general shall, on the request of any member of the league, forthwith summon a meeting of the council.

It is also declared to be the fundamental right of each member of the league to bring to the attention of the assembly or of the council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb the peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends. (In the original it was provided that the "high contracting parties reserve the right to take any action," etc., where the revised draft reads, "the league shall take any action," etc.)

SUBMIT DISPUTES.

Article XII.—The members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they will submit the matter either to arbitration or to a court of arbitration, and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the report by the council.

In any case, under this article, the award of the arbitrators shall be made within a reasonable time, and the report of the council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute. (Virtually unchanged except that some provisions of the original are eliminated for inclusion in other articles.)

AGREE TO ARBITRATE.

Article XIII.—The members of the league agree that, whenever any dispute arises between them which they recognize to be suitable for submission to arbitration and which cannot be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy, they will submit the whole subject matter to arbitration. Disputes as to the interpretation of a treaty, as to any question of international law, as to the existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of any international obligation, or as to the extent and nature of the reparation to be made for any such breach, are declared to be among those which are generally suitable for submission to arbitration. For the consideration of any such dispute the court of arbitration, which the case is referred shall be the court agreed on by the parties to the dispute or stipulated in any convention existing between them. The members of the league agree that they will carry out in full good faith any award that may be rendered, and that they will not resort to war against a member of the league which complies therewith. In the event of any failure to carry out such an award the council shall propose what steps should be taken to give effect thereto. (Only minor changes in language.)

WORLD COURT.

Article XIV.—The council shall formulate and submit to the members of the league for adoption plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice. The court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question referred to it by the council or by the assembly. (Unchanged except for the addition of the last sentence.)

NON-MEMBERS.

Article XV.—In the event of a dispute between a member of the league and a state which is not a member of the league, or between states not members of the league, the state or states not members of the league shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, upon such conditions as the council may deem just. If such invitation is accepted, the provisions of articles 12 to 16 inclusive shall be applied with such modifications as may be deemed necessary by the council.

Upon such invitation being given, the council shall immediately institute an inquiry into the circumstances of the dispute and recommend such action as may seem most and most effectual in the circumstances. If a state so invited shall refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, and shall refuse to waive against a member of the league, the provisions of article 16 shall be applicable as against the state taking such action. If both parties to the dispute, when so invited, refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, the council may take such action as it may deem just.

Upon such invitation being given, the council shall immediately institute an inquiry into the circumstances of the dispute and recommend such action as may seem most and most effectual in the circumstances. If a state so invited shall refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, and shall refuse to waive against a member of the league, the provisions of article 16 shall be applicable as against the state taking such action. If both parties to the dispute, when so invited, refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, the council may take such action as it may deem just.

so referred at the request of either party to the dispute, provided that such request be made within fourteen days after the submission of the dispute to the council.

In any case referred to the assembly all the provisions of this article and of article 12, relating to the action and powers of the council, shall apply to the action and powers of the assembly, provided that a report made by the assembly, if concurred in by the representatives of those members of the council and of a majority of the other members of the league, exclusive of each case of the representatives of the parties to the dispute, shall have the same force as a report by the council concurred in by all the members thereof other than the representatives of one or more of the parties to the dispute. (The paragraph specifically excluding matters of "domestic jurisdiction" from the action of the council is new. In the last sentence the words "if concurred in by the representatives of those members of the league represented on the council," etc., have been added.)

PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS.

Article XVI.—Should any member of the league resort to war in disregard of its covenants under articles 12, 13 or 15, it shall, ipso facto, be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the league, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade and financial relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the prevention of all financial, commercial or industrial transactions between the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the nationals of any other state, whether a member of the league or not.

It shall be the duty of the council in such case to recommend to the several governments concerned what effective military or naval forces of the members of the league should be employed in the territory to the forces of any of the members of the league which are cooperating to protect the covenants of the league. Any member of the league which has violated any covenant of the league may be declared to be no longer a member of the league by a vote of the council concurred in by the representatives of all the other members of the league represented thereon. (Unchanged except for the addition of the last sentence.)

MONROE DOCTRINE.

Article XXI.—Nothing in this covenant shall be deemed to affect the validity of international agreements, such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe doctrine for securing the maintenance of peace. (Entirely new.)

MANDATORIES.

Article XXII.—To those colonies and territories which, as a consequence of the late war, have ceased to be under the sovereignty of the states which formerly governed them and which are inhabited by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world, there should be applied the principle that the well-being and development of such peoples form a sacred trust of civilization and that securities for the performance of this trust should be embodied in the covenant. The best method of giving practical effect to this principle is that the tutelage of such peoples be entrusted to advanced nations who, by reason of their resources, their experience or their geographical position, can best undertake this responsibility and who are willing to accept it, and that this tutelage should be exercised by them as mandatories on behalf of the league.

The character of the mandate must differ according to the stage of the development of the people, the geographical situation of the territory, its economic condition, and other similar circumstances. Certain mandates formerly belonging to the Turkish empire have reached a stage of development where their existence, as independent nations, can be provisionally recognized subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a mandatory until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of these communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the mandatory peoples, especially those of central Africa, who are at such a stage that the mandatory must be responsible for the administration of the territory under conditions which will guarantee freedom of conscience or religion subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals, the prohibition of abuses, such as the slave trade, the arms traffic, and the liquor traffic, and the prohibition of the establishments of fortifications or military and naval bases and of military training of the natives for other than police purposes and the defense of territory, and will also secure equal opportunities for the trade and commerce of other members of the league.

There are territories, such as South West Africa and certain of the South Pacific Islands, which, owing to the sparseness of their small size or the remoteness from the centers of civilization or their geographical contiguity to the territory of the mandatory and other circumstances can be best administered under the laws of the mandatory as integral portions of its territory subject to the safeguards above mentioned in the interests of the indigenous population. In every case of mandate, the mandatory shall render to the council an annual report in reference to the territory committed to its charge. The degree of authority, control, or administration to be exercised by the mandatory shall, if not previously agreed upon by the members of the league, be explicitly defined in each case by the council. A permanent commission shall be constituted to receive and examine the annual reports of the mandatories and to advise the council on all matters relating to the observance of the mandates. (This is the original article XIV, virtually except for the insertion of the words "and who are willing to accept," in describing nations to be given mandatories.)

measures and make such recommendations as will prevent hostilities and will result in the settlement of the dispute. (Virtually unchanged.)

REGISTER TREATIES.

Article XVIII.—Every convention or international engagement entered into hereafter by any member of the league, shall be forthwith registered with the secretariat and shall, as soon as possible, be published. No such treaty or international engagement shall be binding until so registered. (Same as original article XXIII.)

RECONSIDER FACTS.

Article XIX.—The assembly may from time to time advise the reconsideration by members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable, and the consideration of international conditions whose continuance might endanger the peace of the world. (Virtually the same as original article XXIV.)

ABROGATE OBLIGATIONS.

Article XX.—The members of the league severally agree that this covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations or understandings entered into which are inconsistent with the terms thereof. In case members of the league shall before becoming members of the league, have undertaken any obligations inconsistent with the terms of this covenant, it shall be the duty of such member to take immediate steps to procure their release from such obligations. (Virtually the same as original article XXV.)

WORLD CONVENTIONS.

Article XXIII.—Subject to and in accordance with the provisions of international conventions existing or hereafter to be agreed upon, members of the league (a) will endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women and children, both in their own countries and in all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extend, and for that purpose will establish and maintain the necessary international organizations.

(b) Undertake to secure just treatment of the native inhabitants of territories under their control. (c) Will intrust the league with the general supervision over the execution of agreements with regard to the traffic in women and children and the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs. (d) Will intrust the league with the general supervision of the trade in arms and ammunition with the countries in which the control of this traffic is necessary in the common interest. (e) Will make provision to secure and maintain freedom of communication and of transit and equitable treatment for the commerce of all members of the league. In this connection the special necessities of the regions devastated during the war of 1914-1918 shall be in mind. (f) Will endeavor to take steps in matters of international concern for the prevention and control of disease. [This replaces the original article XX, and embodies parts of the original articles VIII and XXI. It eliminates a specific provision formerly made for a bureau of labor and adds the clauses (b) and (c).]

Weak, Nervous Woman

Benefited by Friends' Advice, Passes the Good Advice Along to Others.

"I was weak, nervous, all rundown, no appetite and had taken different medicines without benefit. A friend advised me to try Vinol. It gave me a wonderful appetite, I sleep well, have gained in weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. E. Strey.

We strongly recommend Vinol, which contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates for all weak, nervous, rundown conditions and to build up strength after sickness. Red Cross pharmacy, Charles J. Strate, Bengtson's drug store and druggists everywhere.

P. S.—If you have skin trouble try Saxol Salve. Money back if it fails.—(Adv.)
