Sheriff Gordon and the Warrant—
A View of the Work of Mrs.
Mezgar's Detective.

As stated in Saturday's Argus, Sheriff C. D. Gordon spent Saturday in Moline serving warrants on the unfortunates of that city accused of gambling. The Republican, describing the sheriff's official visit to that city says:

Sheriff Cyrus D. Gordon came up today and served notice on the Moline parties against whom complaint had been lodged in the county court by Mrs. M. E. Metzgar on the charge of keeping gambling joints and gambling. To save trouble and annoyance the sheriff also brought along with him 25 bonds made out in the sum of $200 each, the persons accused being required to give bail to that amount or go to jail. The interested parties were consequently very busy this afternoon getting their sureties, and so far as we have learned none were so friendless and unfortunate as to have to accompany the officer to Rock Island. The Hotel Keator constituted the sheriff's headquarters and for some hours present ed quite an interesting scene. The bonds require each of the parties to be in court on July 13, when the hearing takes place. The sheriff tried to serve notice on Peter Schlueter, Jr., at the Model, and quite an interesting time ensued while Mr. Schlueter was attempting to make clear to the sheriff the fact that he was not the Peter Schlueter. The sheriff finally concluded to serve the notice on Mr. Schlueter's father, whose given name is also Peter.

There seems to be an error in the supposition that information was lodged against C. W. Johnson, of the McKinzie block saloon, as a keeper. We are informed that it should have been William Johnson, a moulder at Deere's foundry. It also transpires that Gus Segur is the "Gustave Signor" mentioned in the Rock Island papers. A rumor has been started that the warrants were not legally made out, in that they failed to set forth the offense of the persons accused. The bond of the keepers of gambling houses was placed at $300.

The Republican contains the following also with reference to the sensation:

The gambling sensation has not subsided to any perceptible extent, and the all-absorbing theme is still being discussed promiscuously in all the barber shops, saloons, lawyers' offices, on the street corners, in fact it is on everybody's tongue's end. The general impression seems to prevail that if the names published are all those against whom complaint is to be lodged, the detective would have done well to have taken into his confidence some of the local officers. As it now stands he has made up his list in the most haphazard way, taking one person from one set, then again another from an entirely different set, and so on through the list. If he had, for instance, taken in all who have been regular frequenters of the notorious Bavlis joint in Metropolitan block at one fell swoop he would have had a list longer if not so interesting. The same with the one in the Postoffice block. But the mysterious Hawkins seems to have flitted about from bush to bush sipping a little information here and a little there, with the result of missing about 200 gamblers, many of them worse by far than some whose names were published in the record yesterday. Indeed the general impression prevails that some of the persons against whom information has been filed will be able to establish their innocence beyond doubt.

These considerations, if well founded, go to show that the detective was at least a stranger who had not taken the time to familiarize himself thoroughly with the "gang." But of course the innermost facts being known only to a very few, all theories concerning the affair are little more than speculations. Time may develop new facts that will put a different front on the situation and make clear many things that now appear rather hazy to the average spectator.

Nobody seems to know for sure who the detective was, but a good many claim he is the party "from Denver" who came here ostensibly to purchase the Keator house. Marshal Kittelsen was interviewed by the reporter this morning to learn what truth if any there was in the statement published in yesterday's Republican Journal to the effect that he had enjoyed the confidence of the Chicago detective. "The party who gave you that story," said the marshal, "must have depended altogether on his imagination. I knew nothing of this detective. He never came near me, but if he had I could have given him some good information to work on." "You say you had nothing to do with the investigation?" "Nothing, whatever. I have no desire to steal the detective's thunder."

High Bridge Opening.

THE ARGUS in receipt of an invitation to participate in an elaborate Fourth of July demonstration at Lyons and Fulton July 4, on the occasion of the dedication and opening of the fine high bridge over the Mississippi river, the same being located between Lyons and Fulton, connecting the principal street of the two cities. The length of approach is 2,652 feet, iron work 1,552 feet. The iron weighs 1,500,000 pounds and the highest span is 362 feet in length and stands 58 feet above low water mark. The bridge when finished will represent an outlay of $125,000. The parade will start at 10 o'clock a. m., and the dedication occurs at 11 o'clock. The afternoon will be given up to drills and horse races, while in the evening a grand display of fireworks and illumination of the bridge. Already leading military and civic societies have signified their intention to be present, and it is expected that this celebration will exceed any previous effort of the kind ever given in eastern Iowa.

Suit for Glass Tools.

Early in March two glass blowers procured work at the Rock Island glass factory, and as glass factories only pay a certain portion of their employees wages each Monday, which is called "market money," the two came in on the Monday following for their "market money" along with the other workmen, one receiving $20 and the other $40, after which they gave up their situations, leaving their blow pipes and other tools at the factory. It was soon discovered that they had drawn more money than was due them and accordingly the United States Glass company levied on their tools which still remained at the factory. A day or two afterward a one Jacob Schaum appeared to take away the tools claiming that he had previously purchased them, but as he was not allowed to take them away, he brought a suit of replevin to force the company to give up the tools. When the suit came to trial he placed in evidence a bill of sale, claiming he had bought the tools several days previous to the date of the bill of sale. The justice before whom the case was tried, decided in favor of the Glass company, as the bill of sale was dated two days after the attachment was issued, and on the ground of some technicality the young man has now brought another suit through his attorney, John Looney, for recovery of the property. The suit comes up for hearing before Magistrate Wivill tomorrow.

In the Interests of Safety.

A new general order has been issued by General Manager St. John, of the Rock Island road, to all engineers, passenger and freight, on the system. It pertains to storms, and cautions all engineers to tie up in the event of a heavy storm and not to proceed until fully satisfied that the track ahead is in safe condition. The recent sudden washouts on the Illinois division have no doubt awakened the management to the realization of the dangers that are likely to occur from unusual storms, and the new order is the result.

A Real Balsam is Kemp's Balsam

The dictionary says, "a balsam is a thick, pure, aromatic substance flowing from trees." Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs is the only cough medicine that is a real balsam. Many thin, watery cough remedies are called balsam's but such are not. Look through a bottle of Kemp's Balsam and notice what a pure, thick preparation it is. If you cough use Kemp's Balsam. At all druggists. Large bottles 50c and $1.

Tourists.

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.
