THE GREAT FOURTH.

A Quiet but Enjoyable Day in Rock Island.

The Celebrations Around About us
Caught Many of our People, Yet
There was Much Patriotism at Home.

It was a quiet, though no less enjoyable and patriotic Fourth of July in Rock Island.

As heretofore announced there was no formal observance in Rock Island, and hence people bent on participating in a public celebration went out of town. The neighboring demonstrations caught thousands of people from this city notwithstanding that many spent the day quietly at home. Many went to Burlington on Capt. Lamont's excursion on the Libbie Conger, many also to Geneseo, others to Cable, Cordova, Barstow, while Milan and Black Hawk's tower drew large proportions of the local populace.

AT MILAN.

Milan in particular did herself proud. The streets were thronged with people at an early hour, and promptly at 10 o'clock the line of march was formed headed by Frank Harris, mounted, who acted as marshal of the day and proceeded to the grounds on Big Island where the celebration was held. The exercises were opened with music by the Union band of Moline, which was followed by vocal music, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," which was followed by prayer by Rev. M. M. McCreight followed by patriotic airs by the band. Then Rev. J. H. Keer stepped to the front and in a few appropriate remarks reminded those present of the importance of the event that those present had assembled to celebrate, and after speaking a few words in behalf of his efforts for Hennepin he introduced the speaker of the day, Hon. Jerry Hennepin Murphy, of Davenport, whose appearance at the front of the platform brought forth hearty cheers.

Mr. Murphy began by congratulating the people upon the success of the Hennepin canal project, saying that for 24 years it had been his ambition to see the day when work would be commenced upon it, and now, after all these years, said Mr. Murphy, "thank God we are on top." He then spoke of the observance of this day all over the land, "when the rich and the poor, the high and the low assembled to celebrate the birthday of this mighty nation," after which he spoke of the corruption now existing in politics, and in this connection he mentioned how hard it was for an individual to change his views saying it required more courage to give up what was wrong than to maintain what was right. He then spoke of the vanity of man and of the efforts that many had made to gain fame, many sacrificing home, health and fortune in their vain efforts to secure it. In this connection he spoke of himself as being susceptible to this influence perhaps as any one. He said that hope was the last seed that withered in the human breast and that as its beginning had been his cherished hope for years, it was now his earnest desire to live until the completion of the canal.

He followed this with a review of the benefits that the whole country would derive from his construction in the course of which he mentioned that it cost nearly as much to transport a bushel of wheat from the Mississippi river to Chicago, a distance of nearly 200 miles, as it did to carry it from Chicago to Liverpool, a distance of 4,000 miles. Mr. Murphy then spoke of the delay in the work, and said that for himself he cared not by what route the canal was built, that we should all be for a "long haul, a strong haul, and a haul all together." He then discussed the natural and civil liberties of man and the rights of citizens of this country as guaranteed by our constitutions extracts from which he quoted frequently, and devoted considerable time to an explanation of them, after which he touched lightly on the question of capital vs. labor, and closed with a fitting tribute to the father of our country—Washington. It was an able discourse, and was well received by the large audience present.

At the conclusion of Mr. Murphy's speech there was music by the Glee club and band, and after giving three hearty cheers for the Hennepin, the crowd dispersed for dinner.

In the afternoon R. W. Olmsted delivered a splendid address, full of good thought and patriotism, in which he traced the rise and advancement of the American citizen, which naturally involved a running sketch of the history of the republic and its various epochs, its social conditions, etc., and in which he termed the present age, the era of material wealth or the industrial age. He spoke of the various American institutions which were responsible for these conditions, mentioning the public school in particular and paying tribute to those American ideals, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Grant, and in conclusion spoke eloquently of the glorious prospect and heritage of the American youth.

Mrs. Gould of Sears, furnished delightful music in the evening, and excellent speeches were made by Charles Francis and J. W. Quinlan. The sports were all entertaining, Mark Ram-ser winning the wheelbarrow race, Ted Heverling the greased pole prize, a Moline man the greased pig prize, William Fitzsimmons the sack race, while Milan won the baseball match by a score of 5 to 8.

GENESEO.

A large number of Rock Island people attended the celebration at Geneseo, and were not only pleasantly but royally entertained. The celebration opened with a salute at sunrise, followed by a street parade under command of H. T. Antes at 9:30, the procession terminating at the park, where the exercises were held. After music by the brass band, the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Henry county soldiers' monument were conducted by the G. A. R. post, in which the Rock Island veterans took part. Music by the martial band followed, and then prayer by Rev. C. H. Rogers and a song by the glee club, the monument was formally presented by E. J. Jenkins post to the city, and an eloquent response made by E. C. Graves, mayor of the city. A song by the glee club and music by the brass band concluded the morning exercises.

In the afternoon the exercises in the park were resumed with another large attendance present. The Declaration of Independence was read, there was a song by the glee club and then came the oration of the day, a masterly effort by Rev. H. W. Bolton, of Chicago. A song was given by the glee club, when Col. Isaac Clements, Illinois' humorous orator entertained the throng for an hour or more. In the evening there was a grand display of fireworks.

The celebration was one of which Geneseo should have been proud, not only in its public spirited patriotic nature, but in the hospitable, open-hearted manner in which all visitors were received and provided for, a representative of THE ARGUS being particularly fortunate in the way of courtesies received.

CORDOVA.

At Cordova there was a procession, led by the Erie corner band to Black Hawk mound, Rev. Fawcett offered prayer, Rev. Caldwell as president of the day introduced Miss Hanks of Albany, who read the Declaration of Independence, the Albany glee club sang America and Head Consul Northcutt, of the M. W. A., delivered a stirring patriotic oration.

BARSTOW.

At Barstow there was music by the Y. M. C. A. band and glee club. Fred Osborne presided at the meeting and speeches were made by Dr. Reiter and S. W. Searle in the morning, and by M. J. McEniry and Dr. Morgan in the afternoon. All had a good old fashioned time.

DUNLAP'S GROVE.

At Dunlap's Grove near W. F. Crawford's place between Edgington and the Taylor Ridge there was a fine celebration. Charles Searle delivered an oration.

AT CABLE.

CABLE, Ill., July 4.—Today is the grand and glorious Fourth of July and to say that the people of Cable celebrated it in a grand and glorious way would be, (as the saying is,) "only drawing it mild." At 10 a. m. those who had been able to woo the drowsy god were suddenly aroused by what they thought to be an enormous thunder clap, but upon investigation it proved to be nothing more than an opening salute from cannon in honor of the anniversary of the independence of the United States. Hardly had the echoes died away before the signal was taken up and in less than a minute the air was filled with the ear-splitting sounds of a cannonade, part of which came from anvils, part from shot guns, pistols and in fact from every conceivable article that might help swell the sound. This was continued until Old Sol thought it time to bring all this racket to an end, and to do so he raised his smiling countenance over the hill. This was a signal for the young Americans to start their fire cracker racket, which they did to the fullest extent. This was kept up until 8:30, the time for the forming of all those interested in the celebration. The first sign of a meeting was shown by the number of black silk hats seen on the square, which on investigation proved to belong to the members of the Cable Light Guard band under whose auspices the celebration was given. Suddenly from the center of the crowded square arose an harmonious sound issuing from brass instruments under the leadership of Prof. Smith, which proclaimed to the listeners that the Star Spangled Banner was being rendered, if not to perfection, very near it. After which they marched to the Congregational church, from which the procession started. In the meantime the town was being filled with people which came from the neighboring towns, Swedonia, Preemption, Reynolds, Farlow's Grove, Gilchrist, and in fact from every direction, they came in carriages, afoot, horse-back, and to tell the truth, some of them walked.

At 9:30 the special train, which was run for the special occasion, arrived at Cable from Rock Island, bringing with it at least 500 visitors to help swell the already enormous crowd that was congregated to enjoy themselves at Cable's celebration.

The arrival of this train was a signal for the procession to start. First in the procession came a lady and gent in red, riding horseback; next, mounted the same, a lady and gent dressed in white followed by another couple in blue. These were followed by the Cable Light Guards and the Cable Glee club, a float containing the Goddess of Liberty, Uncle Sam and a representative of the states. These were followed by a trades' display representing almost every industry the town of Cable can boast of. Most deserving of mention are the following: J. J. Williams, representing the hardware business; William Shroders, the shoe business; Oscar Tandoo, the harness making; Rube Lewis, the barbering; Heblin & Dunklegho, the contracting and building and many others too numerous to mention. This was followed by the crazy band which consisted of a number of expert musicians, each playing a different tune at the same time. Last came our chilly friend Jack Frost, with his drove of calithum pian all mounted on mules.

After the procession had, traversed each of the principal streets they marched to the grounds, where after music by the band, Dr. Wray, chairman of the occasion, introduced the chaplain, Rev. Edwards. After a short prayer the morning exercises were opened by an appropriate song from the Glee club, which was followed by a tune by the band. Then a short address was delivered by States Attorney Brock, which he was not able to finish on account of a throat trouble, for which all of his listeners were very sorry. Next came a song by the Glee club, followed by a tune by the band. This brought it on towards dinner time, and an adjournment for that purpose was in order and found no objection.

After dinner we were treated to an excellent address by the Hon. Guy C. Scott, as well as by music from the band and Glee club. This ended the program. Sports were in order and thanks to the committee were nicely carried out. All in all the celebration at Cable was a great success, and the people of Cable extend their hearty thanks to the visitors for their kind attendance at their celebration as well as to the band boys who were instrumental in getting up this good time, and we wish them all the good success possible in their future undertakings.

ATTRACTIONS.

The ball games and races at Davenport attracted many people. The two games of ball between the Davenport and Cedar Rapids teams were largely attended and interesting. The home nine succeeded in shutting out the visitors in both games. In the morning with Herndon and Sage as the battery the Davenport won by a score of 5 to 0, while in the afternoon with Nicol and Sage in the points, Davenport vanquished the visiting aggregation by a score of 7 to 0.

The races in the afternoon caught a good many people and there were some very good exhibitions of speed. Rock Island won some of the honors, F. J. Stoen's Bismark capturing the 3:20 trotting race.

ALTERATION SALE! McCABE BROS.

Place on sale today a stock of over $100,000.00 in general merchandise, which they are bound to reduce about one half within the next six weeks. We are willing to sacrifice $50,000.00 of our stock in order to make our extensive alterations without interfering with our architects, mechanics, and workmen during the changes. We have had architects engaged for several weeks preparing plans, drawings and specifications for extensive changes and enlargement of our stores to such an extent as to almost amount to a rebuilding, and we find ourselves so cramped for space that we have the only alternative of making a grand
