Las Vegas, N. M., Jan. 28—Advantages almost equal to those offered by actual attendance at the Normal University are now available to absentee students through the extension department.

The plan is this—classes of 12 to 25 are formed in any locality. Twelve groups of lessons and assignments will be prescribed through extension courses to be the equivalent of the 12 weeks of the regular term at the Normal. At regular intervals, heads of departments at the institution will visit these classes and give the numbers the advantage of personal contact in lectures and in teaching methods. Cost of this service, which may be slightly in excess of the fees charged will be borne by the school in the interest of the cause of education.

Professor Clark E. Persinger, who has charge of the extension and correspondence courses, hopes to be able to set a new standard for New Mexico in that class of work. President Jonathan H. Wagner believes the work will grow swiftly to the point where it will be necessary to have one or more men devote their entire time to it. A bulletin on the extension course will be sent to any one asking for it.

IT IS UP TO THE PEOPLE

The record of fire loss in the United States and Canada for the years 1918-19-20 21 totaled $1,248,706,730.

1921 losses topped the list with $332,654,950.

Deaths from fires average about 15,000 annually or for the 4 years some 60,000 people, the majority of whom are women and children.

Recorded fire losses fall short of actual losses for much property is not insured and hence does not get into recorded totals. It is safe to estimate that total actual fire loss in United States and Canada for 4 years mentioned was close to $2,000,000,000.

Instead of applying the bulk of the $2,000,000,000 of savings represented by this fire destruction to new and productive enterprises; it had to go to rebuild property and homes, of which 90 percent were probably destroyed by fire due to carelessness, lack of safeguards against fire hazards, criminal incendiarism and thoughtlessness of people generally as to necessity of fire prevention and conservation of life from the ravages of fire.

Insurance companies do not make money by having fires. They are exerting every effort to educate the people to prevent fire. If they can cut down our terrific annual fire loss they can save in destruction of life and property reduce insurance rates and at the same time make a better profit on their investment.

If fire destruction continues to increase it is hard to estimate what our bill for this national extravagance will be in ten years from now.

A million rouble prize poster was a feature of an exhibition of 19 posters by Russian and Armenian artists given at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Near East Relief in New York City.

The prize was offered by the Near East Relief in Transcaucasian Russia for the best poster depicting famine conditions in Armenia and Georgia and the sum of one million roubles $10 paid the winner. Several of the posters are examples of cubist and futurist art now flourishing in Russia.

A comprehensive report on famine conditions in Transcaucasian Russia and the economic situation throughout the Near East was made by Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the relief organization who has just returned from a personal survey of the territory in which the Near East Relief operates. Of the 1,423,000 Armenians formerly residents of Anatolia, Mr. Vickrey estimated that only some 83,688 are now left, the remainder being either perished during the war and the deportations, or fled to Constantinople and Transcaucasian Russia, where they are destitute and dependent on American relief for life.

In Constantinople, Mr. Vickrey said, the American committee is now looking after the need of 14,575 orphans, in Harpoot 5,000 and in Cilicia 1,000. At Angora, the capital of the Turkish Nationalist Government, the American relief maintains an orphanage for 350 children; at Derindjo 5,176, at Konia 813; at Samsoun 1,000 and at Sivas 1,468.

The great work of the Near East Relief, however, Mr. Vickrey said, is in the Near East Russia, where the situation of the people has been rendered desperate not only by a famine comparable to that in the Volga Region, but by the Turkish invasion and occupation of Armenia November 1920 to May 1921. Crops which prevented the sowing of spring crops. At Alevandj, pool, Armenia, former Russian military barracks have been frated to the American relief and now house 12,000 orphan children at Erivan, the capital of Armenia, there are 3,000 more under the care of the Near East Relief, Mr. Vickrey said, while the figure of those fed, clothed and housed in Transcaucasian Russia by Capt. E. A. Yarrow director of the Near East Relief in that area, surpasses 25,000.
