

PRESIDENTS ADDRESS TO WOMAN'S CLUB.

Following is the complete address of Mrs. D. L. Gauden, president of the Woman's Club, delivered at the meeting last Tuesday, at the expiration of her term as president.

Friends, I am not going to inflict a long set address upon you, but I want to call your attention in a very few words to the real meaning of the "Woman's Club" movement, what brought it into being, and its trend today.

We all know that the position of woman today, is infinitely higher than it was fifty years ago, higher than it has ever been in the world's history. This is not a passing condition. It has come to stay, for it is the natural result of evolution.

Women, as a mass, are ready for it. The movement for the "higher education," which commenced about seventy-five years ago, has grown in a healthy and rational way, and here, since Sunday was "Mothers' Day" it may not be out of place to mention, feeling that I owe my education to my mother, who was a pupil of Mrs. Emma Willard, that Mrs. Willard's "Female Seminary" at Troy, New York, was the first school in the country to offer in its curriculum some of the same studies for girls that boys had at Harvard and Yale, and she was regarded as almost too strong minded. But at this time women began to feel in themselves that they were something better than a plaything, or a household drudge, and at first feebly and gropingly, then more and more firmly, eagerly and intelligently, they have sought to educate and elevate themselves as the realization dawned upon them of the tremendous possibilities open to woman when she should be recognized not only as the intellectual equal of man, but also as an economic factor in the world's work.

The first woman's clubs were the natural result of this development. The pioneer women found it most helpful to get together for mutual study and discussion. They were often misunderstood and laughed at, but in these small clubs they found companionship, sympathy and inspiration.

At first nearly all these clubs were literary, and only for self-improvement, but gradually as the tremendous possibilities of power and influence for good which could come from organization, has grown in the minds of the club women, the nature of the club has changed. No longer content with merely improving and cultivating themselves they have reached out to right wrongs all around them, especially those affecting their homes, the children of the land, and the industrial condition of women.

Carefully avoiding parties, not demanding anything in the way of suffrage the woman's club movement has grown steadily in power and the respect of the nation until now it is fully recognized as a factor to be reckoned with. It is universally conceded that what the "Federated Women" want, they get. And it would be a very brave politician who would dare defy the 800,000 of the General Federation. Of this great movement the DeLand Club is an integral part. It means very much more than building a handsome club house, helpful as that would be; or giving pleasant teas and receptions. It means raising the standard of womanhood in all the section around about us, and making ourselves felt as a power for good in the State. We cannot afford to drop one of our activities. We need our literary, science and art and music departments to keep us in touch with the best culture of the age. Merely reading of the things will never enable us to grasp and assimilate them, making them our very own, as does the free discussion, the friendly friction of mind and mind in our department meetings. Then we need our civic and social departments to familiarize us with the great civic and economic questions of the day. The awakened civic conscience, the conservation of our national resources, the great movements for the betterment of the health of the nation, the more economic, hygienic and scientific management of woman's chief business—home-making—and child-raising. And to impress the club ideal—an ideal that is growing every day—namely that it is not social position or wealth that counts in the true democracy of club life, but the woman herself.

I feel deeply gratified at the quiet but substantial progress our club has made along all these lines during the past year. It has also rather to my surprise, grown in numbers in a most gratifying way. I do earnestly hope this growth will continue, and it will if we all strive to make its activities so helpful that it will be a necessity to every woman in and around DeLand.

Your vice-presidents will give you a report of the work of their several departments in a few moments, but I want especially to call your attention to, and congratulate you upon the good work of your standing and other committees.

The Executive Committee, with unusual work to do in printing the charter, gave us a Year Book to be proud of, provided us with the best and most economical meeting place practicable, and kept it in most excellent order.

The Reciprocity Committee gave us one delightful programme for a Public Day of the club, and is sending two most excellent papers to the State Reciprocity Bureau. The paper by Miss Shaver, librarian of Stetson University, on Children's Libraries, which we all enjoyed so much, furnished by the department of Science and Art. And a character sketch of Bayard Taylor by Mrs. Clapp of the Literary Department. Mrs. Sheddian deserves great credit, as chairman for the excellent work of this committee.

The work of the Press Committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Edwards, has been uniformly careful and most satisfactory.

The Ways and Means Committee—Mrs. Frank Bond chairman—added most substantially to the building fund.

The committee from the literary department on "Story telling for Children"—Mrs. Chartner chairman—has done most helpful work in a most delightful manner.

And, as the last activity of the year, the Committee on Traveling Libraries from the Civic Department, has crowned itself with glory by gathering and packing a full library of 85 or more volumes in a handsome and substantial case provided by the department and the kindness of the Rev. Mr. Harkness.

To all these committees we extend most hearty congratulations and thanks.

Your president has represented you to the best of her ability at the State Convention of Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs at Live Oak, and at two board meetings at Jacksonville, and brought you a report of the same, and now it only remains for me to thank all our faithful workers and all others who have so loyally helped and supported me, and this I do from my heart. Friends, I thank you for the confidence you placed in me, and I rejoice that I leave the work to such wise and experienced guidance.

OSTEEN

School closed Friday, 14th, but the pupils gathered on the school grounds.

Saturday morning bright and early where Miss Keown had an immense wagon ready to take all her children together. There was a trusty driver to manage the three mules and all went well. The pioneers soon spread along the shady river shore under the tall palms. Some put on bathing suits and plunged in, while a score of tots waded out. Two row-boats and a gasoline launch were at the service of the crowd. Capt. Ellis Osteen kindly took the young and older merrymakers for rides. Between sixty and seventy people were ready when the ladies had spread the tempting feast. The seiners brought in all the fish that could be disposed of. Coffee was prepared at the camp fire and pots of cabbage palmetto cooked. Altogether this was a social, pleasant day and we are grateful to our teacher, and to Mr. Musselwhite, who let his team for the day, not forgetting all those who added to its success.

Miss Keown started homeward Monday to visit friends while in Sanford. We believe there was not one who did not say "Come back to us!"

Miss Edna Pattillo is home for her vacation from St. Augustine.

The new commissary is nearing completion, also several cottages. New still machinery was unloaded Saturday. We are glad such progressive managers have taken charge of this valuable business.

Mrs. Warren is reported much better. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Some of the Osteen citizens attended the school picnic in Enterprise Tuesday on Lake Monroe.

Our benefit supper had to be postponed for a few days. The committee wishes to serve cream, sherbet, cake and homemade candies.

Largo has the distinction of being the only town in the United States where curacao wine is manufactured for commercial purposes, the curacao made from the "cull" grapefruit principally, although oranges can be used. Largo's curacao factory is owned and operated by W. F. Spurlin, who is among the first comers to that section. Mr. Spurlin has received diplomas and awards of various kinds at several of the large State fairs, and at the World's Columbian Exposition, where his wines received much attention and praise.

CHICKENS PREVENT TYPHOID FEVER.

DELAND, MAY 17, 1909.

Editor DeLand News:

Chickens are the God Given scavengers of the human race. I have never known even a few hundred of them, grouped together in a village or town life, to have good health long, unless they kept chickens—yet I have seen several thousand in a city where they kept chickens, for years without sickness.

In my county in Georgia, in 1882 the county court house was moved and hundreds of us built new homes there, and before the court house was completed two sides of the square were full of new store houses and two large buildings went up for a male and female college. Now, the most of us, in fact, about all of us, left our chickens on our farms with the negroes and thus saved the time of building fowl houses and yards. Well we had not been there twelve months until we had plenty of typhoid fever, and it spread and spread until every family in the place had it.

Again, in 1858, I moved to Texas and then I found myself located near some farmers who had over 4,000 negroes at their quarters a half mile from their dwellings. They had never allowed their negroes to keep chickens and although they had not been there more than two years they all had typhoid fever among them.

Again, in 1870, I located at the head of a railroad that was building up from the gulf coast through the state to Red river on the north. They moved, up 40 to 50 miles every six months; about 2,000 of us followed along, and bought lots and built stores and homes. Often we put our families on the second floor over our stores, knowing we were to move again soon, we kept no chickens. I lived in six of these towns, about six months at each one, and we were never without typhoid fever at each one of those places after three months in the first town. Now, Mr. Editor, Miami and Orlando and other towns can order all chickens kept enclosed in yards for we generally get our weakest men on our city councils, but so be it to the people of those towns.

A. H. STEAGALL.

DAYTONA WINS FROM DeLAND.

The ball game Thursday afternoon between DeLand and the home team was a good one throughout, the teams being very evenly matched, and resulted in a score of 1 to 0 in favor of Daytona, the only run of the game being made in the first inning.

Next Thursday the St. Augustine team will probably be here to try the mettle of the Daytona boys and this game should attract a large crowd, as has always been the case in the past as they put up a strong fight and Daytona is hard to beat. A large attendance will gladden the heart of the management also, as the expense of entertaining is greater in this case, owing to the visitors having to remain over night.—Daytona Gazette

DOCTORS AMAZING FEAT
(New York Press.)

By treatment so heroic that many persons who saw it thought the surgeon was demented, Dr. Burke, of Bellevue Hospital, recently saved the life of Evan Killeen, 9 months old, of 255 Avenue A. The baby was choking to death slowly from a jack which he had attempted to swallow, and which had lodged in his windpipe. Seated in an ambulance which was going through the East Side streets at a 50-mile clip, Dr. Burke seized the baby by the heels, swung him head downward several times, and then began whirling him about his head. When the ambulance reached Twenty-third street and First avenue the surgeon heard something strike the bottom of the ambulance with a metallic ring. He also heard the baby give a gasp of relief.

Pausing in the heroic treatment which he was practicing, the surgeon looked toward the bottom of the ambulance, and was delighted to see the six-pronged piece of iron lying there. Then he took the baby tenderly in his arms and endeavored to make up by soothing treatment for all the necessary rough usage to which he had subjected the youngster since the race against death started. Little Evan was almost exhausted. The surgeon knew, however, his patient's life was saved, and that in a few hours he would be all right.

The county commissioners of Putnam county have decided to dispose of the county poor farm because of the protests of many citizens and the lack of paupers.
