Rev. S. G. Baker - - Editor

Miss Julia Mosely and Miss Dora C. Wilson, teachers in the city public school, left for Jacksonville last Saturday. Miss Wilson was married last Monday evening, and Miss Mosely acted as bridesmaid for her.

The Christmas trees at the various churches of the city will be given next Monday night. All have prepared exercises for the occasion, which promise to be very interesting.

Mrs. M. M. Morrison and Prof. R. H. Howard are spending the holidays in the city, assisting in the preparation for the Teachers' Association, which convenes in Bethel church next Tuesday evening.

The citizens are requested to contribute to the Teachers' Association fund, as the few teachers cannot make all the preparations of themselves.

The editor of this column unintentionally failed to mention the birthday party of Mrs. Lillia Williams in last week's notes. She celebrated her 45th birthday a few days ago, and the affair is said to have been one of the most brilliant of its kind ever given in DeLand. Many presents were given her, which showed the high esteem in which she is held by her host of friends.

Debra Court, order of Calantha, held their election last Monday night, the officers of which were elected as follows: M. H. Myrick, Worthy Counselor; Elsie Butler, Inspector; E. L. Herring, Register of Deeds; S. G. Baker, Orator; Sadie Cuttino, Recorder of Accounts; Mary Howell, Receiver of Deposits; Annie Cooper and Betsy Wiggins, Conductresses; Elsie Anderson, Escort; Isabella Walker and J. W. Foster, Directresses; Mahala Taylor, Herald; Frances Bacon, Protector; E. B. Baker passed out and now fills the position of Inspector. She was also elected representative to the Grand Court, which convenes in Apalachicola next May.

Before we write again, the State Teachers' Association will be in session in Bethel Church in this city. The local committee has been at work since October preparing for the occasion. They feel that it will be a success. Some little misunderstanding has existed among some of the people about the committee's modus operandi in their preparations; but it is hoped that it has all passed away, and that all may work for that peace and harmony that should characterize an assemblage of that kind.

It seems to have been forgotten that the Rev. Morgan had been present at one of the meetings and pledged his support to the enterprise, and had his name added to the local committee, and promised to select some one of his congregation to accept a list to solicit aid; that a majority of all those who have been asked to form the choral club are from his church. Since this matter has been cleared up, it seems that all fair minded people will see that no disrespect has been shown any one, and all should strive to make the meeting a grand success. The Rev. Crawford is working harmoniously as a member of the committee to make it a success.

Mr. Dan English, head waiter at the Putnam Inn, will have charge of the banquet, which will be tendered the teachers and visitors at the Odd Fellows Hall next Thursday night.

Christmas will be here Saturday. The coming of this event marks the greatest occasion that the world has ever known—the birth of Christ. It was His advent that ushered in the era of "peace and good will to men." Even the gates of the temple of Janus were closed at that time, and peace was universal. Rome, led on by her Caesars and Triumvirates, had reached the height of her glory, and there was nothing else to do but wait for the advent of the Prince of Peace. Since all of these beautiful attributes cluster around this festive day, it is eminently befitting that we celebrate the occasion in a manner that is becoming civilized and Christian people. The wine cup, the booze drinking, and midnight carousing should not be indulged in. Let us be "sober and vigilant" at this time, and then we will not have cause for regretting the coming of Christmas.

If you are suffering from biliousness, constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Sold by all Dealers.

The Brute.

She was in an imaginative mood. "Henry, dear," she said after talking two hours without a recess, "I sometimes wish I were a mermaid." "It would be fatal," snapped her weary hubby. "Fatal! In what way?" "Why, you couldn't keep your mouth closed long enough to keep from drowning." And after that Henry did not get any supper.

Many persons find themselves affected with a persistent cough after an attack of influenza. As this cough can be promptly cured by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it should not be allowed to run on until it becomes troublesome. Sold by all Dealers.

Why doesn't Frank Clark introduce a bill appropriating seventeen million dollars for a public building in DeLand? Of course we would all know the bill couldn't pass—but, then, we could all yell for Clark and what he was "trying" to do for DeLand. Which reminds us: What has become of the measure Mr. Clark introduced just before the last campaign providing for public buildings at all cross-roads, villages and cities of over 300?

GUMMOSIS OF CITRUS TREES.

(By H. S. FAWCETT.)

The disease has been reported from many parts of Florida during the past two years, and inquiries are constantly being received as to its treatment. It appears to be most common on the East Coast. The trouble has been known in Florida since 1922, when it was first called "gum disease," but it has not assumed considerable importance until within the last two or three years. The cause of gummosis has not been shown. There is strong evidence that it is an infectious disease, and that it may spread from one tree to another in a grove.

DESCRIPTION.

The diseased parts of the tree are usually at a considerable distance from the ground, on the trunk or larger limbs, being rarely found on the smaller branches or twigs. The disease first makes itself apparent by the oozing out of a thin watery gum, which sometimes runs down the bark in lines, forming "tears." This gum comes from a crack or rupture in the bark. Later on, the gum thickens and collects in large quantities at the cracked places in the bark. As the disease progresses, the bark cracks still more, and assumes a scaly ulcerated appearance over patches a few inches to a foot or more in length. The diseased patches may extend entirely around the limb, or may be confined to one side of a branch. Gum may continually ooze out all over the affected areas, or the gumming may cease for a time and the old gum be washed away by the rain. This will leave only a scaly appearance which may easily be mistaken for scaly bark—a name that has already been applied to a different trouble, found mostly on the West Coast. In cases where the gummosis is not too severe, new bark is formed under the old; and the surface becomes marked by ridges, warts, and resinous-looking deposits, resulting from the hardening of the gummy exudations. In severe cases the bark dies to the wood and the wood decays inward, often destroying the limb of the entire tree.

DISTINCTIONS FROM SCALY BARK AND FOOTROT.

Gummosis differs from scaly bark in the following points. Gummosis does not affect all the trees from the trunk to the smallest twigs as does scaly bark, nor does it spot the fruit. It does not appear as round or oval "nailhead rust" spots, reddish rusty on the branches and dark brown on the fruit, as does scaly bark. Gummosis presents a scaly shaggy appearance on the trunk and larger limbs, almost identical with scaly bark; but lacks the marks on the small twigs and fruit, and usually more gum is exuded.

Gummosis may be distinguished from footrot by the following characters. Gummosis almost never occurs at the base of the tree; nor does gum ooze from near the ground, as in footrot; and it does not usually have the sour putrid odor that accompanies footrot.

TREATMENT.

Gummosis may be successfully checked in most cases by scraping off the outer diseased bark; and painting the places over with Avenarius' carbolineum. In preparing for the application of the carbolineum, care should be taken to scrape off all the old dead bark. If there are any decayed places, these should be carefully cut out with a sharp chisel. Carbolineum has been used in full strength without injury. If new diseased spots occur on the edges of the old ones during the next year, the treatment should be repeated.—Bulletin No. 134.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean, of Cheny, Wash. was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For Lung Trouble, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Croup and Whooping Cough its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has declared that certain freight rates of the L. & N. railroad are unreasonably high. An investigation shows that the rates have not been changed for 20 years notwithstanding the improved facilities for handling freight.

NIGHT RIDERS TRIAL JURY DISAGREED

Defendants Go Back to Jail for Another Term.

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 21.—The famous trial of the alleged night riders who were accused of having a part in the murder of Capt. Quentin Rankin, the army officer who was killed at Reelfoot lake, ended, and the defendants were today remanded back to jail after the jury in their case, which had been out for several days, were discharged by the judge, after reporting that they were hopelessly divided and could not arrive at a verdict.

The jury was called in this morning by the judge and asked what they had to report. "We still are divided; hopelessly so," said the foreman. "You are discharged," said the judge. The jury reported last Saturday morning that they were divided and the judge at that time sent them back with instructions to arrive at an understanding if they could do so.

Censoring the Mail.

It is strange there is no mail for me," remarked Mrs. Instyle, relates Judge's Library.

"Yes, dear, quite strange," acquiesced Mr. Instyle.

Then, as she stepped into the other room, he chuckled three fashion magazines, four patterns, a skirt catalogue, a cloak catalogue, a jewelry catalogue and a letter from "The Royal Lady Tailors" into the fire.

My back often became lame and I also had pains in my kidneys. On hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills I made up my mind to try them and procured a box. They acted at once on my kidneys and since using them, I have had no pain or lameness in my back. The kidney secretions have also been regular in passage and I have felt better in every way. Women Who Are Envied.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at all druggists.
