ABSORBLETS

Sapleigh—The doctor says there's something the matter with my head. Sharp—You surely didn't pay a doctor to tell you that!

Pat—An' phwat the devil is a chafin' dish? Mike—Whist! Ut's a fryin' pan that's got into society.

Lady (on the bank)—My dear sir, how did you come to tumble in? Man (in water)—My dear madam, to be frank, I didn't come to tumble in—, came to skate.—The Bystander.

First tramp—After all, it pays to be perlit, pardner. Second Tramp—Not always. The other day I was actin' deaf and dumb when a man gave me sixpence. I says: "Thank you, sir" and he had me arrested.—Tit-Bits.

"I suppose," remarked the village grocer, "that your son acquired a liberal education at college?"

"My uncle used to smoke his pipe and blow smoke rings that would float across the room and ring the door knob."

"My uncle" said the other bar, dreamily, "used to blow some that would ring the door bell."—Puck.

The New Minister—But I can't understand, Mrs. Peabody, how such a physical wreck as your husband is can have given you a black eye.

Harker—I met Smythe a week after he had faced the parson and he declared that he has married his ideal.

Harker—A year later he confessed his mistake—said it was his ordeal instead of his ideal he had married.—Chicago News.

"Say, paw," queried small Tommy Toddles, "do men descend from monkeys?"

"We are told, you know," said the trifier in love, "that the eyes are just the windows of the heart. Now when I look into your eyes—"

"I hope," interrupted the bright girl, "you notice the signs in the windows."

"I'm busy now," said the Congressman to a rural constituent who had come to Washington to see the sights.

"I shore have," interrupted the stranger. "Here's a ten-dollar bill that four fellers sed wuz counterfeited."

The speaking suffragette was at a white heat. "There are no cowards in our ranks!" she shouted in a penetrating voice.

"And," he continued, as if offering an irresistible inducement, "I will promise to let you have your own way in everything after we are married."

"But I thought all women liked to have their own way," he said.

"Of course they do," she answered. "I was merely referring to your promise."

"In the Province of Holstein," says a traveler who spends a good deal of his time abroad, "where, of course, nothing is more important than the breeding of superior cattle, the country people are not only very thrifty, but exceedingly fond of their cows, as may be gathered from a characteristic story current there."

"It appears that one farmer was walking sadly down the road one day when the village pastor met him.

"I have a sad errand, pastor," replied the farmer. "Farmer Hen's kils cow is dead in my pasture, and I am on my way to tell him."

"A hard task, indeed." "You may well say so; pastor but I shall break it to him gently."

"The recent press reports touching the use of whisky by juries in Tennessee," says a New York lawyer.

"The defendant had been accused of selling adulterated liquor, and some whisky was offered in evidence. This was given the jury as evidence to assist in its deliberations."

"When they finally filed into court his honor asked: "Has the jury agreed on a verdict?"

"No, your honor," responded the forgerman, "and before we do we should like to have more evidence." — Lippincott's.

Railroad men are telling this incident as having occurred on a Kansas train some time ago. The rails spread and the engine, tender and baggage car left the track, but the jar was not enough to disturb the sleepers in the rear Pullmans.

Suddenly a head popped out of one of the berths and a man shouted: "Say, porter, what are we stopping here for?"

"Oh," answered the porter, "we had a wreck—"

"A wreck! Wow! Oh-oh-oh, wow-wow! My neck! My neck! My chest! My back! Oh-oh-oh!"—Kansas City Journal.

An Empress "Make-Up." Owing her rise from the position of slave girl to that of an empress ruling the destinies of some 400,000,000 subjects to her beauty, it is scarcely surprising to learn that, up to the time of her death, the dowager empress of China was extremely vain of her good looks.

Sicily's Wheat and Fruits. Sicily was the "granary of Rome" in former days. Wheat grows to an enormous height, and the ears seldom contain less than 50 grains.

"The church extends a most hearty invitation to all people. Strangers and sojourners in the city especially welcomed."

Orderly Wine Drinkers. "They let us play cards in our wine room," said the New York wine merchant. "It is not against the law. It would be if we sold whiskies, but not wine. The reason? Why, one man out of ten gets ugly and quarrelsome when he drinks whisky, but no man who drinks wine shows his true nature in the same way."

Twenty-Five Cents is the Price of Peace. The terrible itching and smarting, incident to certain skin diseases, is almost instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Salve. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

ruined Fire Alarm System. For many years the residents of Murray, Ky., were notified of fire within the confines of their town by the discharging of guns, and this rather novel system proved so satisfactory that it was still in vogue up to within a few months ago.
