When you see a man making all sorts of faces at himself in a mirror it's a safe bet that he's either crazy or shaving.

Deafness Cannot be Cured. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

When a middle-aged man faces the parson with a girl of 16 he doesn't begin to get the sympathy he is entitled to.

'Twas a Glorious Victory. There's rejoicing in Fedora, Tenn. A man's life has been saved, and now Dr. King's New Discovery is the talk of the town for curing C. V. Pepper of deadly lung hemorrhages. "I could not work nor get about," he writes, "and the doctor did me no good, but, after using Dr. King's New Discovery three weeks, I feel like a new man, and can do good work again." For weak, sore or diseased lungs, coughs and colds, hemorrhages, hay fever, influenza, asthma or any bronchial affection it stands unrivaled. Price 60c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

The wants of man are few, but the wants of the average woman would fill several want columns of a newspaper.

Take Notice
All persons are recommended to take Foley's Kidney Remedy for backache, rheumatism and kidney and bladder trouble. It will quickly correct irregularities, which, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. It will restore health and strength. Do not neglect signs of kidney or bladder trouble and risk Bright's disease or diabetes. O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Co.

A critic is a person who is unable to do a thing the way he thinks it ought to be done.

Disagreeable at Home
Lots of men and women who are agreeable with others, get "cranky" at home. It's not disposition, it's the liver. If you find in yourself that you feel cross around the house, little things worry you, just buy a bottle of Ballard's Hairline and put your liver in shape. You and everybody around you will feel better for it. Price 50c per bottle. Sold by Center Block Depot Drug Co.

ABSORBLETS

When a man in a street car never looks at the pretty girls it's a sign the woman sitting next to him is his wife.—Chicago News.

"So Mrs. Jenkins is dead."
"I hadn't heard of it. How did you know?"
"I didn't hear positively, but I overheard Jenkins say in an art car that he intended to dispute her will."—Baltimore American.

The fond husband was seeing his wife off with the children for their vacation in the country. As she got into the train he said: "But my dear, won't you take some fiction to read?"
"Oh, no," she responded sweetly. "I shall depend upon your letters from home."—Tatler.

"What makes your youngest son so eager for athletics?"
"Filial admiration" answered the worried-looking mother. "He believes all the stories his father tells about the wonderful things he did when he was a boy and is trying to equal the record."—Washington Star.

"Why," asked the person of influence, "are you so anxious to go into the secret service instead of making a political career for yourself?"
"Because," answered the young man, "I am convinced that it is better to possess one of your own."—Washington Star.

"Halt or I'll shoot at you!" cried the policeman.
The hold-up man only laughed and continued to sprint.
"If you don't halt, I'll shoot up in the air!" shouted the cop, desperately. The criminal threw up both hands and submitted to arrest. Liberty was dear to him, but the risk was too great.—Cleveland Leader.

In a Sheffield school the children were asked to come prepared with the meaning of the word "bachelor" for the next lesson.
"This was one little girl's confident definition: 'A bachelor is a very happy man.'"
The teacher wanted to know more. How did the little girl know that?
"Father told me so."—Tribune.

"Say, boss, where am I?" asked the recently deceased negro as he woke up.
"You're in heaven," remarked the attendant.
"Dat so? Den where's mah wings and harp?"
"What you get is four brass buttons and a red necktie."
"Glory! Glory!"—New York Herald.

A surgeon in a western town engaged to perform an operation of minor character upon a somewhat unscrupulous patient, asked him if he were willing to have only a local anesthetic.
"Sure," replied the other; "I believe in patronizing home industry whenever you can."
And he went it.—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Where's your father?" asked the summer boarder.
"Gone fishin'," answered the boy with the suspender. "He has some of the queerest luck you ever heard of."
"Why didn't you go with him?"
"Dad wouldn't let me. When he goes fishin' he doesn't want anybody to disturb him while he's thinkin' up the things he's goin' to tell when he gets home."—Washington Star.

Jenkins—Well, sir, I gave you to that man straight, I can tell you. He is twice as big as I am, too, but I told him exactly what I thought of his rascally conduct right to his face, and is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at Once. It cleanses, soothes, heals and protects the diseased membrane resulting from Catarrh and drives away a Cold in the Head quickly. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50 cts. at Druggists or by mail. Liquid Cream Balm for use in atomizers 75 cts. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

I called him all the names in the dictionary and a lot of others as well. Studds—And didn't he try to hit you, Jenkins?
Jenkins—No, sir he didn't; and when he tried to answer back I just hung up the telephone receiver and walked away.—Tribune.

"Are you going to participate extensively in the season's gayeties?"
"Not any more," answered Mr. Comrox. "After what happened at my last entertainment I'm afraid I'm barred."
"It was a most elaborate entertainment."
"Yes; we had the finest food and the best musical talent the market affords. But I attracted unfavorable notice, as usual. While I was letting on to be wise I got mixed up on these foreign languages. Before mother and the girls could stop me I was inviting folks to notice the delicacies of the season on the musical programme and tellin' them when to applaud the numbers on the menu."—Washington Star.

The Laziest Man in The World would not be contented to be kept in the house and doing nothing by rheumatism. Neither are you, who are always busy and active. Then don't neglect the first twinge of an ache or pain that you might think is just a "crick." Rub well with Ballard's Snow Liniment and no matter what the trouble is, it will disappear at once. NEW MEXICO NEWS

A Las Vegas party yesterday afternoon, during a heavy storm had to abandon their auto forty miles north of Santa Fe and flag a Denver & Rio Grande train that took them into Santa Fe.

On August 10 at Santa Fe, there will be a meeting of forest officials and a committee appointed by Governor Curry to go over the matter of extending the boundaries of the Pecos forest reserve and of eliminating non-forest areas.

A hard hail storm day before yesterday caused serious damage to the canal-slope farms north of Las Cruces and some of the growers are out several hundred dollars as a result. The farm of Baker & Salterly two miles from Las Cruces seems to have suffered the most. The storm lasted nearly a half hour and the hail beat down the vines.

From Logan, N. M., comes the report that a vein of high grade gold and silver ore has been struck in a canon, five miles southwest of Logan. The assays run from $150 to $365 a ton. The strike was made by Eduardo Morales. Together with J. F. Hopkins and W. D. Forrester he has filed on fifteen claims and has ordered machinery for the development of the strike.

Judge McFie yesterday at Santa Fe denied the application for an injunction in the case of Tietgen vs. Bluewater Development company, and gave plaintiffs three days in which to amend complaint. The plaintiffs sue for the enforcement of a contract, with the old Bluewater Development company and of which they were to receive water for irrigation free of charge.

Hon. Solomon Luna, chairman of the New Mexico Conservation Commission, has appointed the following delegates to represent that body at the Seventeenth National Irrigation Congress to be held at Spokane, Wash., August 9th to 14th: Col. Ralph E. Twitchell, East Las Vegas; H. B. Henning, Albuquerque; W. A. Fleming Jones, Las Cruces; C. T. Brown, Socorro, and George H. Webster, Jr., Cimarron.

The probate court for Bernalillo county, has granted an appeal to the district court, from the decision of Probate Judge Mora admitting to probate the will of the late Mrs. M. S. Otero, the will being contested by a daughter, Mrs. John Barron Bura, who was cut off with $1,000, although the estate is one of the largest ever administered in New Mexico, owing a vast amount of valuable lands and other real estate in this territory, especially at Albuquerque and also in Mexico.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold
A. S. Nussbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." O. G. Schaefer and Red Cross Drug Co.

The only thing in the world a woman can be entirely frank about is being seasick.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Never Known to Fail.
"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start on a trip without this, my faithful friend." says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. For sale by all dealers.

What Rebecca Did

When Chance Demanded a Generous Act

REBECCA ZALMON-ovitch was red of hair, red of dress—each a different red, which fact annoyed her not in the least.

She bought everywhere. Her cheeks, chin and nose, hands, feet and voluptuous figure were all too thick. Everything about her bespoke of a good appetite, laziness and slovenliness.

Rebecca thought she was beautiful. If she did not, why did she stroll the length of the long room to fill her oil can six times a day when the other girls oiled their machines three times at the most? Why did she wear the big bows of gay ribbon across the back of her head? Why were those earrings in her ears and gay jewels on her fat hands? She deemed them desirable adjuncts to her personal loveliness.

To Rosie Eisenstein, who was as neat as a pin, and to Lena Olson, who had not been brought up in the ghetto, Rebecca was repulsive. But Rebecca loved them with a mad devotion only less real than her devotion for the man who sewed on the double-stitch machine.

Rebecca had come over from Russia three or four years before, as had most of the girls in the sweatshop. She had no education save for a little received as a child. She had worked on overalls since she was 14, three years before, and had advanced no further than to earn four dollars a week, while others who started with her were making as much as seven dollars a week and doing piece work.

What was Rebecca's grace? It seemed to be either her generous supply of affection for everyone—affection not desired by any—or her strong sense of humor. At lunch time her voluble conversation in Yiddish, which came thickly and continuously out of her mouth while chunks of salt fish went in, was greeted with frequent shouts of laughter. Though loved by no one, her society was not shunned, for her ever-ready fund of jokes amused everybody.

It happened one evening that Sadie, a little, frightened, dark-eyed, dark-skinned girl who had come shrankingly to work at the shop two weeks before, had received her first payment of three dollars. The first week's work of each girl had to be gratis.

Sadie had tied up the precious dollar bills in a bit of coarse white cloth which she had found by her machine and had wrapped the whole around with thread. Then she tucked the package securely in her waist. She put on her hat and coat at closing time, quietly and silently, for Sadie—so shy and frightened was she—knew no one even after two weeks in the shop.

She put her hand for the tenth time inside her waist to feel the little white bundle. Then a look of fright convulsed her features. It was gone—her money!

Her tongue then was loosened. A volume of spattering Yiddish, English and Russian, hysterically bursting forth, made every girl anxious to do what she could to relieve Sadie's distress.

Going down on their knees on the dirty floor, they looked under papers and rags for the little white bundle tied around with thread. They could not find it anywhere.

"You would to steal it!" hissed Sadie, looking accusingly from one to another, at Rebecca, Lena, Rosie and last at Fannie.

They all denied the charge emphatically in Yiddish, English and Russian.

"It's a lie!" said Fannie, incensed that her honesty should be doubted by a strange girl in the sweatshop. "Ain't shame! Comes no robbers by here." But the strange little girl heard not. A small tragic figure she was as her dark eyes momentarily grew bigger and more wild.

"He will to have a fierce mad on me," she moaned. "I can't to go on my house. He may bees to hit me!" Her voice broke pitifully. Sinking in a little forlorn heap on the floor, she trembled and choked and sobbed.

Rosie, Lena, Fannie and Rebecca stood silent. Sadie shuddered violently and wept on.

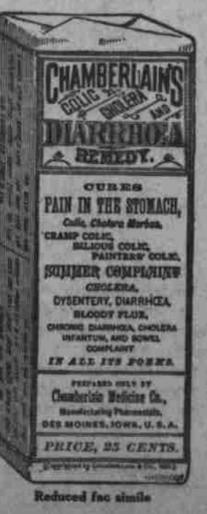

"You could to have this, the whiles you are scared to go on your house." It was Rebecca's big, warm voice that spoke. It was Rebecca who impulsively tucked three one-dollar bills into the coarse, dirty hand of Sadie.

Sadie clutched the money eagerly and went out silently and hurriedly, as if in fear that it would be taken from her.

It means much in the sweatshop to give away three dollars. Though it happened that Sadie that evening ripped herself open and found in one of the crevices of her winter packing the white bundle tied with a thread, Rebecca could not have known, any more than did Rosie or Lena or Fannie, that the money was safe.

Inconspicuous it seemed that Rebecca, who had not a feature indicating the nobler sentiments, whose very presence was repulsive, should have been the one to do the big and generous thing.

A book worm is not necessarily a bore. When a woman is hungry she "feels faint."
