I read with some interest the letter from "Siete Rios," and up here we are watching events in the Seven Rivers country with more than usual interest. Communism is a curse to any country; and so are monopolies a man because by honest industry he has acquired a competency, nor in upholding monopolistic frauds. If matters are as "Siete Rios" represents them, and he bears the reputation of being a truthful man, a good deal of dirt is being done by the "Holy Jim" reformers in that locality, and there is a liability of several cases of the "Holy Jim" jams.

Old "Eighty-five" has said his last good-night, and hid in the shadows of the past. Young "Eighty-six" came in with a smiling face, but e'er eventide it changed to an angry scowl when he found how badly we Francisco Romero y Valencia admithad treated his old father during the last week of his life.
