

Eve's Apple
How many apples were eaten by Adam and Eve? We know that Eve ate one and Adam ate 12. But Adam ate his wife, and Eve ate Adam. Adam ate $3,334. Then Adam ate Eve $14,207 herself, and Adam ate $14,207 himself, total, $338,480.

His Standing.
That young fellow seems to have made himself solid at your house. I judge he has. Ma is looking for the family, while Pa is investigating the commercial rating.

Overheard.
"Hello!" said Hildad, as Jimsonberry flanked by in his motor. "I wish I had an automobile."
"Oh, nonsense, Hildad," said Slathers, "what's the use? You couldn't afford it."
"By jimmies," said Hildad, "but I can't afford to get it."

Just Like a Woman.
I discovered that my wife had her detectives trailing him for six months. "How did he discover it?" "She sent him the bill."

A Point in Verbalism.
Professor (to class in composition)—Someone in the class recently referred to a woman as "medium size." Please avoid this expression in referring to a woman. It smacks too much of commercialism.
Freshman—But, professor, she might be "on the market."

A Useful Invention.
A Yorkshire farmer was paid by check for some cattle he had sold. It was the first time it had ever happened.

"What's this?" he asked.
"Why, money for the beasts," said the cattle dealer.

The farmer stared, and had to be assured that if he took it to the bank they would give him gold for it.

"Well," said he, "aw'll try, but if it's a wrong 'un thou'll hear about it."

The check was cashed, of course, and the farmer went home happy, but he could not sleep. He had seen a wonderful thing, and it had excited him. As soon as day broke, he made for the cattle dealer's house, and woke the dealer.

"It's me," he said. "Where's the gold?"
"What's this?" he asked.
"It's a wrong 'un thou'll hear about it."

Time for Another.
Fred C. Kelley was stopped by a panhandler at a street corner in Washington to hear a tale of woe. Kelly gave the teller a quarter.

A month later the same man stopped him at the same place and told him the same tale of woe.

"Nix," said Kelly. "It is only a month ago that you stopped and asked me that story and I gave you a quarter."

"A month ago?" asked the panhandler.

"Yes," replied Kelly firmly.

"Well," said the panhandler, "you don't expect me to live on a quarter any longer than that, do you?"

A "Break" on the Wire.
Two telegraph operators were seated in a downtown cafe recently when a man in a dark suit and a woman in a light dress entered. They were placed at a table opposite the "key" men, who were sitting side by side in a position facing the girl. As is the custom of the craft when wishing to discuss someone in a public place they telegraphed to each other, using their fingers on the table.

"Fifteen, isn't that?" one tapped to the other.

"A free bull," said the man, "is a thing that's worth a lot of work in this line."

"Saw me—saw me—saw me—saw me," said the man, "with a green like me."

"But they aren't married," he said, "are all she needs to do is get the divorce to exhibit that play of his in court."

While the two men were enjoying a huge laugh over their latest joke they were surprised and somewhat alarmed to hear some "table" talk telegraphing. "The 'boscherin' was doing it and she did not look at all pleased, either."

"You two would better look out while you are still together," cautioned the man, "for little Miss White has listened to something her companion was saying. This sack and boob, as you call him, with the divorce map, is my husband—bottlemaker by trade. He sits fresh little boys."

"Something happened to the 'wire' about that time and all communication ceased."

SAW NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

Small Boy Pretty Well Satisfied That the Future Was Not Likely to Be a Hard One.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: A Lakewood woman who recently reading to her little boy the story of a young lad whose father was taken ill and died, after which he set himself diligently to work to support himself and mother. When she had finished the story she said: "Dear Billy, if your papa were to die would you work to support your dear mamma?" "Naw!" said Billy, unexpectedly. "But why not?" "Ain't we got a good house to live in?" "Yes, dearie—but we can't eat the house, you know." "Ain't there a lot 'o' stuff in the pantry?" "Yes, but that won't last forever." "It'll last till you git another husband, won't it? You're a pretty good looking man!" "Mamma gave up right there."

Daddy's Whack-Whack.
On the occasion of her last visit to certain Baltimore household a young man of that city found a little friend in tears.

"What's the matter with little Marie?" she asked, endeavoring to console the weeping child.

"Daddy has just given me whack-whack," the youngster replied between sobs.

"Thoughtless daddy!" exclaimed the young woman, repressing a smile. "And where did he whack-whack little Marie?"

"On the back of my tummy," was the answer.

Mooted Question.
"How's Willie getting on at Jack's?" "Free these days," said the man who was asked.

"First rate," from last accounts. He asked his pretty lady teacher who it was that first bit the apple in the Garden of Eden. Willie says, she looked him straight in the eye and said nobody knew; that they'd been trying to figure it out for the last 6,000 years."

Neglect and Cruelty.
"So you want a divorce," said the lawyer.

"Yes," replied the woman with tear-stained cheeks. "He has been guilty of neglect and cruelty."

"In what respects?"

"He neglected to feed the bird while I was away and says the cruelest things he can think of about it."

Not New.
First Neighbor—Have you heard all of them new-fangled trial hearings?
Second Neighbor—I don't see nothing newfangled about 'em. Mine's been a trial for me for the last twenty years!

Palliating News.
"Oh, dear, officer, my poor husband shot when you got him to the station!"
"No, madam, only half shot."

"GOOD STUFF."
A Continued Coffee Drinker Takes to Postum.

A housewife was recently surprised when she served Postum instead of coffee. She says: "For the last five or six years I have been troubled with nervousness, indigestion and heart trouble. I couldn't get any benefit from the doctor's medicine, so finally he ordered me to stop drinking coffee. Why? I did. I drank Postum instead of coffee while taking the doctor's medicine, with some improvement, then I went back to coffee with the same old trouble as before. A new servant girl told me about Postum—said her folks used it and liked it in place of coffee. We got a package but I told her I did not believe my husband would like it, as he was a great coffee drinker. "For my surprise, he called for a third cup, said it was good stuff and wanted to know what it was. We have used Postum ever since and both feel better than we have in years. "My husband used to have gas pains with his stomach and would be sick three or four days, drinking coffee. But since he began up coffee and took to Postum he has had no more trouble, and now my little boys believe it was all caused by coffee. "I have not had any return of my former troubles since drinking Postum, and feel better and can do more work than in the last ten years. We tell everyone about it—some say they tried it and did not like it. Even then it makes all the difference as to how it's made. It should be made according to directions—then it is delicious. "As given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, 'The Road to Health in a Package.' There's a reason!"

Have you read the above letter? A new cup suggests this to you. They are made of porcelain, and full of honest suggestions.

MORAL FOR THE MONEY-MAD

Hope of Becoming Millionaires About on a Par With the Washerwoman's Delusion.

Prof. Warren M. Bigler of Bethel Pa., in a recent address made the striking assertion that the American people, money-mad, taught their children how to earn a living, but not how to live.

"There is no viler, and there is no valuer ambition," said Professor Bigler to a reporter, "than that of the American boy to become a millionaire. What percentage of our boys do become millionaires? It would take a good many decimals to work that out, believe me!"

"The boys who sets his heart on a million, fares like the washerwoman who set her heart on a cross-eyed aeronaut."

"I hear you married that cross-eyed aeronaut last week?" said a friend.

"Yes, I did," replied the washerwoman, as she rocked back and forth over her tub. "Yes, I married him, and I gave him $500 out of my building association to start an alrship factory."

"That so?" said the friend. "Where is he now?"

"I don't know," said the washerwoman. "I'm waitin' for him to come back from his honeymoon."

INTENSE ITCHING WITH RASH

326 W. 20th St. Los Angeles, Cal.—"The skin affection began in a little red colored rash on my right leg, and gradually spread to other parts of my body. Then small pimples appeared and later several boils on my leg. The skin around the boils was at first bright red, and afterwards became darker colored. The clothing irritated the sores. The pain caused nervousness and loss of sleep, and the itching was intense. After using various remedies for about six months I saw how a person afflicted with skin disease was cured by using Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"I lathered the sores with Cuticura Soap and hot water and then applied Cuticura Ointment and after about six months' constant treatment the sores gradually healed, leaving the skin soft and smooth. Cuticura Soap and Ointment effected a complete cure." (Signed) H. A. Robinson, Feb. 24, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Explains the Undertaker's Grouch.

"Who is that fellow sitting humped up and muttering to himself out there on the horizon?"

"Aw, that's Combs, the undertaker," replied the landlady of the Slocum's. "He's feeding corn over the top of his business has been going on for a long time. The doctor gave him six weeks to live; he lived six weeks, and the doctor said he was a very fine man. How about it, Combs? You've got a new job now, haven't you? You're watching a train painter gliding the weather vane of the church across the street. Ezra says, by lieck, he's about ready to move away; things is so dead here."—Kansas City Star.

Protected Both Ways.
Two conservative ladies of old-fashioned notions were traveling in the west and, becoming interested in a young girl on the train, finally asked why she was making so long a journey alone. They were greatly shocked at her little explanation:

"Well, you see, my mother and stepfather live at one end of the journey, and my father and stepmother live at the other. They send me to each other twice a year, so there isn't a bit of danger with four parents all on the lookout!"

Absorbed.
A college professor noted for his concentration of thought, returned home from a scientific meeting one night, still pondering deeply upon the subject that had been discussed. As he entered his room he heard a noise that seemed to come from under the bed.

"Is there someone there?" he asked, absently.

"No, professor," answered the intruder, who knew his peculiarities.

"That's strange," muttered the professor. "I was almost sure I heard someone under the bed."

Wise Young Man.
That was a very wise Cambridge student of whom the London story tellers were talking some time ago. One of his college friends finding himself without funds, went to this Solomon of students to borrow. He found him in bed. Seizing him by the shoulder, he shook him.

"I say," he said, "are you asleep?"

"Why do you ask?" queried the other, sleepily.

"I want to borrow a sovereign."

"Yes," said the other, turning over and closing his eyes. "I'm asleep."

Reason Was Plain.
"My husband has deserted me and I want a warrant," announced the large lady.

"What reason did he give for deserting you?" asked the prosecutor.

"I don't want any lip from you. I want a warrant. I don't know what reason he had."

"I think I understand his reason," said the official feebly, as he proceeded to draw up a warrant.

No Such Assperon.

"Bang!" went the rifles at the maneuver.
