COLD WEATHER.

Minneapolis, Jan. 11.—The thermometer registered 37 degrees below zero at 4 yesterday morning.

TERRY'S HEALTH.

New York, Jan. 11.—Gen. Terry, who has been reported seriously ill, is merely suffering from his old complaint, chronic indigestion. He will be about in a couple of weeks if he remains quiet.

HEAVY SNOWS.

St. Paul Jan. 11.—A Jamestown, Dakota, special to the Pioneer Press says: The snow here is 20 inches deep on the level, and drifts are enormous. Teams plunge into the drifts up to their necks and have to be dug out with shovels. However, there is much rejoicing over the prospect for a heavy crop next year, which a heavy snow insures.

ON TRIAL.

Dublin, Jan. 11.—Timothy Harrington, member of parliament, was placed on trial at Tralee on the charge of publishing in the Kerry Sentinel reports of meetings of suppressed branches of the national league. His brother Edward, also a member of parliament and who was convicted on December 8th and sentenced to two months imprisonment on a charge similar to that preferred against Timothy, was called as a witness and testified that his brother had no share in the management or profits of the Sentinel, and was merely ignorant of the alleged illegal matters published therein.

CLEVELAND'S PRESENT.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 11.—In the Methodist preachers' meeting Rev. Mr. Clemens read a paper entitled a protest against the action of President Cleveland in sending a copy of the Constitution of the United States to Pope Leo XIII, on the occasion of the recent jubilee of the latter. The paper created considerable discussion, the members being about equally divided. It was considered by some of those who favored the protest that it was an official recognition of the pope's office, when he is only the head of a church, which the constitution by implication prohibits. The matter was referred to a committee which is expected to report next week.

PEACE ASSURED.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—Well informed persons consider that although the political situation is decidedly improved, the improvement is only conditional, and that the European cabinets confine themselves to platonic statements and fail to take corresponding action, and the situation will become as critical as it was two weeks ago.

The Gazette in announcing that a number of time-expired guardsmen have already been dismissed, and that the infantry dismissal will follow shortly instead of March 1st, the usual period, welcomes the measure as an augury of peace, arguing that these forces would not be dismissed were it likely that their services would shortly be required.

FORAKER'S INAUGURATION.

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—The weather was propitious for the inauguration of Gov. Foraker. There was a larger crowd in attendance than on any similar occasion since the inauguration of Wm. Allen for governor. The parade which took place after the formal exercises was composed of over sixty companies of military and as many organizations of political clubs and civic societies. All the important towns of the state were represented. The oath of office was administered to the governor-elect by Chief Justice Owens. The governor was enthusiastically received. His inaugural address gave an outline of the inauguration of the first governor of Ohio and contrasted it with the exercises of the present, drawing some very striking lessons and setting forth the advance which has been made since the adoption of the constitution of 1787.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

Chappaqua, N. Y., Jan. 11.—At an early hour this morning about the time the gangs of Italians who work in the aqueduct at night were about to go home, Pocantico River forced its way through a narrow stretch of land dividing it from the aqueduct and broke through the wall with a deafening roar, flooding the new water way the entire length to a depth of 60 feet. The loss of life is very great, although at this hour it is impossible to ascertain just how many men were at work when the break occurred. All the mules belonging to the contractors have also been drowned. The excitement about the place is intense, and men, women and children are running madly about in search of missing friends or relatives. Some time ago Contractors Howard, Brown & Co. found it necessary to change the course of the river near the dam at Tarrytown water works. A new bed was dug out for this purpose and the river sent through its new path, but the ground in which it was dug is soft and moist and readily gave way to the water's great pressure. Two hundred men are now at work trying to stop on the break, but it is of such immense proportions that their work is unavailing. One of the contractors says this morning that the walls of the aqueduct were irreparably damaged and would have to be rebuilt in many places.

CAMPBELL-ARBUCKLE CASE.

New York, Jan. 11.—The great case of Miss Campbell against Charles Arbuckle was given to the jury yesterday afternoon, and in one hour and a half after the judge's charge they returned a sealed verdict. During the day the interest was so great that hundreds of people were turned away from the court-room. "Miss Bonnie" Campbell sat at her counsel's table under a score of eyes, and cast and east scornful glances from time to time at "Baby Bunting" Arbuckle, who was seated not far away, but never raised his eyes in the direction of the plaintiff. Lawyer Parsons opened for mal-proceedings by argument for defense. He insisted that Miss Campbell had always been after Arbuckle's money. When she saw that he was sick, perhaps unto death, she urged a speedy marriage in order to get hold of the man's wealth. Parsons asserted that his client had never broken the engagement. He not only said, "I am engaged to you," but also "I stand by my engagement." His letters showed that he was fond of the plaintiff, and the very terms of endearment used there made him an object of derision as he passed along the streets. "The characteristics of this case," said the lawyer, "the like of which was never heard of before, is that the plaintiff kept carefully a copy of every letter that could bear on the case. She says she distrusted him; why then did she wish to become his wife—did she hope for happiness? I tell you, no." Miss Campbell here leaned one elbow on the reporter's table, covered her eyes with her hand and had a good cry. After recess, ex-Judge Fullerton began his address on behalf of the plaintiff. He spoke in glowing language of Arbuckle's courtship. He then took up the question of the free use of whiskey and quinine, which the defense had said so obstructed the mental powers of their client that he did not even know that he was engaged, yet he was pursuing his business as one of the largest and richest coffee merchants in the city. He referred to the bleached hair and dyed mustache episode, and read a couple of verses of a hymn on the subject, signed K. M. Q. He related Homer. Arbuckle turned from his loved one when he heard that her father had failed; how she went ninety miles to see him to prove that her father, though he did fail, did so honorably and came out of the ordeal unscathed.

Judge Beach, in his charge to the jury, held that the contract of marriage was conceded whether or not Arbuckle broke it. The contract rests not upon the absence of a verbal or written refusal of Arbuckle to perform the contract. "If you think that the defendant's excuses were a plain avoidance of the contract, then the plaintiff is entitled to a verdict. If you find to the contrary, then you must decide for the defendant. The question of amount is a difficult one; you must consider all things fairly and return your verdict accordingly."

Mrs. Bell, the mother of Will Bell and Mrs. Menzies, came up this morning from the south on a visit to her children.—Optic.
