

A SECURE BREAKER.

Many Fashion Novelties Have Been Produced This Summer.

WHAT IS WORN.

New York, July 19.—The summer of 1902 will go down in the history of fashions as a record breaker in the matter of producing novelties. In fact with all the beauty of summer modes, it may be said that modistes have depended chiefly upon the little elegances for the smartness of the ensemble.

There have not been many types of the summer girl, but she has been versatile, accepting of the original features of fashions and clinging not long to any pronounced style.

The mode which retains its hold upon the popular fancy longest is the short waist suit. This implies not necessarily, a plain skirt and shirt waist, for the bodice, like every other feature of fashion has been elaborated upon until it has developed into a wonderful creation, displaying the intricate handwork and trimming of the most delicate textiles.

Shirt waist gowns in the finer materials have the blouses trimmed with bands of embroidery, or some times, the entire affair is a series of alternating bands of insertion and silk mull.

The skirts in keeping with the blouses, are embroidered and finished with deep flounces of embroidery. Some very dainty costumes in white organdy built over taffeta ayea jocks composed of strips of the organdy joined by a fancy stitch, and from the yokes the flounce of the skirt depends, gaugered quite full all around to hang in bewitching confusion about the feet.

Constantly the modistes are evidencing by the outcomes of fashion, the influence of physical culture upon the feminine mind. The very exercises that are practiced to lend grace and dignity to the figure are studied, and the result is an effort on the part of the dressmakers to bring into effect such styles as will emphasize the beauty of waist training.

Probably to this fact as to no other may the long, flowing, clinging lines of the past few seasons be attributed.

The greatest novelty of fashions just now is in belts, neck trimmings and such tiny accessories. There are so many ways of arranging ribbons and laces about the throat, that it is possible to wear a single ribbon several consecutive times, and were it not for the color, the trimming would be unrecognizable.

For instance with a shirt waist costume of pongee silk, the blouse is embellished at the neck with a "wind" of turquoise blue ribbon. One day the ribbon is brought simple around the throat, tied in a simple bow, and the ends allowed to hang unconfined, to the belt. The next day, the order of things is reversed and the ribbon is fastened at the back, all the ends being gathered up into a huge, but dainty choux. Again the trimming is shifted to the front, the ends being simply drawn through a ring at the throat, then tied at the bust-line, and the ends doled into small tight knots which are pierced with stick-pins and secured to the bodice at all points.

With the addition of a tulle or chiffon bow, it is therefore possible to accomplish wonderful results with very scanty material.

Quietly, but to the evident satisfaction of all, the ribbon belt is taking the place of the leather one, except in outing or athletic costumes. There is such a soft femininity about the ribbon affair, so much femininity and grace, that it makes a special appeal to the woman of fashion who this year is eliminating as much of the masculine in dress as she endeavors to take on a few seasons past. On the simplest lawn or the most elegant silk the ribbon belt is in vogue. It is brought around the waist and tied either in a bow and drawn through a gold circle and allowed to fall in studied carelessness to the hem of the gown.

Girdles that are composed both of ribbon and lace are lovely and found in the wardrobe of every well-groomed woman. The lace is applied over the ribbon entirely as it extends around the waist, but on the streamers, there is simply an edge on either side, with medallions at the end.

Hand-painted belts are delicate and pretty. They are worn with more expensive gowns, but embody the elegance which characterizes the season's modes.

Although there is only a little over a month of summer yet before us, many white gowns are being made. These are of heavier materials, however, and will be seen until very late in the fall. In fact it is predicted that light colors will be in greater vogue during the coming winter than they were last season.

Indeed the woman of fashion is going to make a specialty of color, they tell us. It is certainly a most fascinating and interesting study in its complex influences and modistes claim that by encouraging this contemplated fad, they will experience less trouble and fair woman will be better able to understand her physical and emotional idiosyncrasies and be helped to the ways and means of developing these on the highest lines, therefore rendering more subtle the art of perfect dressing.

Very few of the summer fashions will be carried over for fall and winter use. The trend of the times is toward originality and absolute newness, with the display of exquisite taste and absence of eccentricity.

Lace gowns, and coats though will be among the few novelties of summer that will rage in winter. This is due to the fact that it is ever possible to find something unique in this line and thus the monotony of already shown designs is avoided. Gowns that are not made entirely of lace are elaborately ornamented with it and the effect is stunning.

One very dainty model in twine colored voile de soie, which by the way, is one of the latest and most popular summer fabrics, is laid in many tucks and plentifully appliqued. There is a yoke of lace on the bodice, and below this the fabric is laid in a series of narrow tucks, confined under two bands of lace. On the skirt the lace appears again with tucks which end in a flounce. A sash of flowered ribbon bordered with black is a distinct addition to such a gown.

Lace gowns made upon a foundation of chiffon, which, in turn is built over a lining of tulle, are very smart. One very smart design had the skirt composed of a tulle effect, the bottom being finished with a deep flounce of plaited chiffon edged with a narrow ruching and falling over a ruffle of silk. There was also a lace flounce overlaid upon the one of chiffon.

The bodice was made quite plain, the three materials of the skirt being used. There was a slight bloused effect at the sides, with a very decided pouce at the front and the circle was composed simply of canary colored panne velvet finished with a buckle of brilliants. The stock was formed of the velvet and lace, then at the very edge of the collar there showed a piping of pale blue satin sat, which between two folds of chiffon. Such an effect is always pleasing and ultra-smart and the model may be copied in less expensive materials with splendid results.

The cold, repellent, blue-grays are going out of style and will probably be replaced with some very soft shades of green. Many new tints in blue are also promised for early fall and winter, and a few more weeks will see them among the advanced modes of these approaching seasons.

MAUDE GRIFFIN.

The Perfect Liver Medicine.

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at Cosmopolitan Pharmacy, B. Ruppe.

Promotion for General Davis.

Washington, July 22.—The vacancy in the list of major generals caused by the retirement of Major General Brooks is to be filled by the promotion of Brigadier General George Whitefield Davis. General Davis was born in Connecticut in 1839, enlisted November 27, 1861, was mustered out in 1866 with the rank of major and the next year was appointed a captain in the regular army. Nearly a quarter century passed before he attained high rank, for he became a brigadier general of volunteers only on the outbreak of the war with Spain and was raised to the same rank in the regular service in 1900. As engineer in Nicaragua and assistant engineer of the Washington monument in this city he made a reputation years ago, and he created a very favorable impression as military governor of Porto Rico in 1899-1900. As the author of several monographs on Porto Rico, General Davis made valuable contributions to the literature on that island. Appointed inspector general of the United States army in the Philippines, he was entrusted by the president with the delicate duty of re-establishing peace in Mindanao, and has made a notable record by exercise of the qualities that contributed to his success in Porto Rico.

"I am using a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and find them the best thing for my stomach I ever used," says T. W. Robinson, justice of the peace, Loomis, Mich. These tablets not only correct disorders of the bowels but regulate the liver and bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggists.

Barbers Want New Laws.

Springfield, Ill., July 22.—Representative barbers from various parts of Illinois are in session at the St. Nicholas today to perfect a permanent state organization. The principal purpose of the movement is to formulate the wants of the barbers into a code which will be put before the next general assembly. One of the changes in the laws which will be requested is the abolishment of the barber schools, which are considered frauds and detrimental to the craft, and compelling the licensing of barbers.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and retold by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entire satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by all druggists.

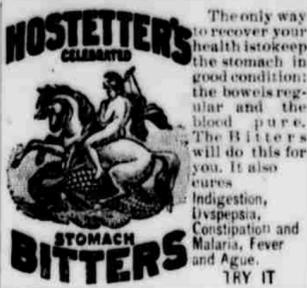

Protection of Forests.

Monteagle, Tenn., July 22.—The Tennessee Forest association, which was organized at Sewanee last year to promote the forest and timber interests of Tennessee, began its second annual convention here today. Col. J. B. Kilbrew presided over the session and one of the subjects discussed were: Beautifying school and college grounds, relations between geology and forests and forests as an inspiration to culture.

Birthday of Maria Christina.

Madrid, July 22.—Though she is no longer queen regent the birthday of Maria Christina was celebrated joyfully throughout Spain. The queen mother retains her popularity with the people and it is still more interesting to note that the stories recently afloat to the effect that she is not well treated by the young king since he ascended to the throne are denounced as utterly without foundation.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health, due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of 76, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic. J. H. O'Reilly & Co.; B. H. Briggs & Co.

A Time of Anxiety for Thousands.

Paine's Celery Compound.

Will Banish the Summer Blues and Other Distresses That Make Life Miserable and Unhappy.

This is the season when we hear men and women complaining about their unbraced and half-ruined condition. They find that physical and mental energy has deserted them, and they are sinking deeply in the pit of despondency.

The hot summer weather always produces thousands of miserable feeling mortals. They lack nerve force, strength and true vitality. They cannot rest day or night, and life becomes a burden.

The great recuperator, builder and strength-giver for all weary, worn-out and suffering people is Paine's Celery Compound, now so universally prescribed by medical men. When the great medicine is used at this season, languor, despondency, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, dyspepsia, and digestive troubles are permanently banished, and men and women go about their duties and work with a vim, will, and energy that indicate health and physical strength.

J. H. Clark, Newark, Del., who was in a critical condition of health from troubles extremely common in summer time, writes thus about his marvelous rescue from death:

"When I was attacked with nervous prostration, I went to one of our local doctors. I continued to grow worse, and consulted other physicians, but with very little apparent good. No tongue can express or pen describe my feelings and suffering from this terrible disease. After spending considerable money in the vain hope of being cured, I was led to try Paine's Celery Compound, and it is this medicine which enabled me to enjoy the health I now have. After the torture I experienced night and day for years, the change is wonderful."
