U. S. LETTERED FINGERBOARD.

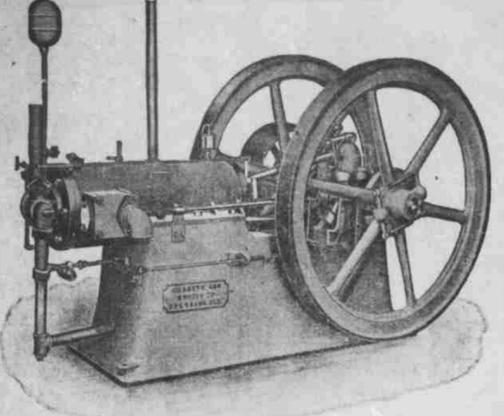

Without a teacher, by the use of our
—IT IS A—
Wonderful Help for Beginners
And the only system of self instruction

The greatest difficulty in learning to play any of the above instruments, is to be able to locate the notes on the instrument. This difficulty has at last been overcome by my Lettered Fingerboard. This Fingerboard is an accurate guide, does not change the instrument in the least, and can be put on any instrument in a few minutes by anyone. Having all the notes with their sharps and flats in full view before you on the Fingerboard, you can readily see how easy it is to locate them. Being able to locate the notes, the greatest difficulty is overcome, and you are able to play by note. By this method anyone who will take an interest in music can learn to play easy pieces in a few hours, and in a short time become an expert player.

CIRCULAR.

Rules and Regulations Governing the use of Timber on Non-mineral Public Lands in Certain States and Territories, under the Act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat., 1093), as Extended by the Act of February 13, 1873 (27 Stat., 444).

GENERAL LAND OFFICE.
WASHINGTON, D. C. February 10, 1900.

By virtue of the power vested in the Secretary of the Interior by the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat., 1093), the following rules and regulations are hereby prescribed:

- The act, so far as it relates to timber on public lands, as extended by the act of February 13, 1873 (27 Stat., 444) applies only to the states of Colorado, Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nevada and Utah, and the territories of Arizona and New Mexico. The act originally extended to the District of Alaska, but in that respect it has been superseded by section 11 of the act of May 14, 1878 (30 Stat., 469), under which other and separate regulations are prescribed for the District of Alaska.
- The intention of the act of March 3, 1891, is to enable settlers upon public lands and other residents within the states and territories above named to secure for a public timber lands timber or lumber for agricultural, mining, manufacturing, or domestic purposes, for use in the state or territory where obtained, under rules and regulations to be made and prescribed by the secretary of the interior.
- Settlers upon public lands and other residents of the states and territories above named may procure timber free of charge from unoccupied, reserved, non-mineral public lands within said states and territories, strictly for their use for firewood, fencing building, or other agricultural, mining, manufacturing, or domestic purposes, but not for sale or disposal, nor for use by other persons, nor for export from the state or territory where procured. The cutting or removal of timber or lumber to an amount exceeding in stumpage value $50 in any one year will not be permitted, except upon application to the secretary of the interior, and after the granting of a special permit.
- It is not necessary for actual residents to secure permission to take timber from public lands in said states and territories for the purposes aforesaid. The exercise of such privilege is, however, subject at all times to supervision by the department, with a view to such restriction as may be deemed necessary.
- In cases where qualified persons are not in position to procure timber from the public lands themselves, it is allowable for them to secure the cutting, removing, sawing, or other manufacture of the timber through the medium of others upon an agreement with the parties thus acting as their agent that they shall be paid a sufficient amount only to cover their time, labor and other legitimate expenses incurred in connection therewith, exclusive of any charge for the timber itself; but no person, whether acting for himself, as an agent for another, or otherwise, will be permitted to cut or remove in any one year timber or lumber to an amount exceeding in stumpage value $50, except upon application to the secretary of the interior, and upon the granting of a special permit.
- The rules and regulations in section 3 of these rules and regulations constitute the only purposes for which timber may be taken from the public lands in said states and territories, under this act.
- The cutting and removing of timber, free of charge, under said act of March 3, 1891, is confined to unreserved, unoccupied, non-mineral public lands, in the states and territories named therein, inasmuch as the act specifically provides that the same shall not operate to repeal the act of June 3, 1878 (20 Stat., 88), which makes provision, in said states and territories, for the free cutting of timber on public lands that are known to be of a strictly mineral character for the uses named in said act.
- It is further provided in said act of March 3, 1891 that "nothing herein contained shall operate to enlarge the rights of any railway company to cut timber on the public domain." Consequently, timber may be cut or taken under this act from public lands either by or for the use of any railroad company.
- Section 2461, United States revised statutes, is still in force in the states and territories herein named, and its provisions may be enforced against any person, or persons, who cut or remove, or cause or procure to be cut or removed, or aid or assist or are employed in cutting or removing, any timber from public lands therein, except as allowed by law.
- The secretary of the interior reserves the right to revoke the privileges granted, in any cases wherein he has information that any persons are abusing the same, or when it is necessary for the public good.
- All rules and regulations heretofore prescribed under said act of March 3, 1891, relating to the use of timber on public lands in the above named states and territories, are hereby revoked.

W. A. RICHARDS,
Acting Commissioner.
Approved, February 10, 1900.

Secretary.

A New Lease On Life.
Victims of stomach, liver and kidney troubles, as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like this. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaho, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 25 cents, at W. E. Warren & Co.'s drug store. DELIGHTED WITH THE CLIMATE

And Infatuated With The New Metropolis of The New Southwest.

THE CITY'S COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE

Alamogordo Furnishes an Example of Town Building That The World May Well Emulate.

G. H. Kempster, of Denver, special agent of the Oriental Insurance company spent a day or so in Alamogordo this week looking after the business of his company here.

He expressed himself as delighted with the climate of Otero county, and during his short stay in the city became infatuated with the metropolis of the new southwest. But that is nothing surprising for every one who visits this land of sunny skies at this time of the year is loth to leave it to return to climes where winters' chilling blasts are still felt, and where over coats are still in demand.

"Alamogordo furnishes an example in town building that the world may well emulate," said Mr. Kempster to a NEWS representative. "The magnificent water works system of the town is what commends it most highly to insurance men and singles it out as a model town which may be held up as a standard of par excellence.

"This is my first trip to the busy little sprang for cityhood and I can not refrain from expressing my surprise at finding it has made such rapid strides as a business center and has attained to a city of such commercial importance. And when we stop to consider that it has all been accomplished in less than two short years, it partakes very strongly of the wonderful. Truly 'the towns of today are the cities of tomorrow' and more than that, the barren plains of yesterday is the beautiful little city of Alamogordo of today, with graded streets, electric lights, blocks of magnificent business houses; where a merry song of industry is heard from two large saw mills, the railway shops, ice plant and other manufacturing enterprises, all of which charms the tourist and appeals to the business instincts of the visiting man of business.

"I had expected to find quite a nice little town here, but I must confess that I was not prepared to find a town that possesses advantages which are still wanting in many of the principal cities of the west—such as hotel accommodations. Here you have a hotel that is not equalled by any in the southwest, where the stranger within your gates can be made to feel at home by the many comforts dispensed by the affable manager, Mr. O. M. Potter, of hotel Alamogordo. Alamogordo should be proud of its hotel and undoubtedly is."

AFFAIRS OF INTEREST HERE AT HOME.

Ground is being broken for a new building adjoining the Stuart building on Ninth street.

A small child of Mr. Youngs' which has been sick with pneumonia for some time, died Tuesday, and was buried Wednesday.

The Knights of Pythias lodge will be instituted Saturday. A contingent of El Paso knights will come up and assist the local charter members to manage the goat.

A stereopticon show was given by traveling performers last Monday night, in the Baptist church. Judging from reports it was not much of a success, financially or otherwise.

The new roundhouse buildings, including the blacksmith shop, sand house, oil house, paint shop, car shed ash pit and other buildings are completed and are models in their line.

The new brick store building which will be occupied by Warren's drug store on the first floor and by lodges in the second story, is rapidly nearing completion and it makes a handsome building.

Work has commenced on excavations for the foundation of a large brick building just west of the First National bank.

The building will be two stories high and will be occupied by the postoffice, printing office, John C. Wesley, and others, while the upper story will be used as a city hall and opera house, both of which Alamogordo greatly needs.

The yards around the depot are being graded and otherwise improved. The old houses which were used as a depot, before the erection of the present commodious building have been removed, and just north of the depot, a small park is being planted, which is inclosed with posts of Alamogordo marble from the quarries east of town, strung with chains.

The new Methodist Episcopal church is practically completed, and is a most creditable structure. O. D. Warnock had the contract for building it. The church will be dedicated on Sunday, April 8, at which time Dr. A. P. Morrison and Dr. Thomas Harwood, of Albuquerque will be present to assist in the service, Dr. Morrison preaching the dedicatory sermon. A program of the exercises will be published later.

Dr. A. J. Connell and S. G. Barker of Scranton, Pa., arrived in town last night and will make a protracted stay. It seems good to see the rotund countenance and hear the joyful laugh of neighbor Barker again. He has many friends here and they all told him before he left for Scranton last fall that he would be back again soon. Every visitor comes back.

Pres. C. B. Eddy, of the El Paso & Northeastern railway, has been up the road in his special car "Paso del Norte," the past week. He was accompanied by Judge Magoffin, Mrs. Magoffin and Mrs. and Miss Crosby of El Paso. The party have breathed the refreshing Clondcroft air, and also went to Capitan to look over the immense coal operations there. The party went down to Jarilla today, from which place they will return to El Paso.
