"Do you know that your thoughts rule your life?"

Do they pure or impure in the arteries? As you think so you are. And you make or you mar. Your success in the world by your thoughts."

The "Country Contributor," who is perhaps the ablest writer in the Ladies' Home Journal says that "women are capable of living without thinking deeply." Perhaps men also can live and die without excessive mental exercise, yet the world demands so much more of women in intellect as well as in morals that a non-reflective state of mind often becomes an un pardonable as well as law-breaking. It is said that fashion makers and fashion sellers, have for ages builded their plans and fortunes on the theory that women respond unthinkingly to pictured suggestion. Let the reader attest to the truth of this statement. It is true that their finer sensibilities render women peculiarly susceptible to exterior as well as intuitive impressions, and that women are the creatures of environment and the age in which they live. The world, however—the masculine half at least—expects the mental fiber in womanhood that will enable them to aggressively lead the way to higher thoughts.

"Are your thoughts just and true every hour? Then your life will attest with great power. If they love fills your heart then all hate will depart. You will find all success in good thoughts."

It is a fact undebatable that both godly and ungodly men long to see women wear the robe of nobility, and whether it is acquired by intellectual virility or the superior spirituality with which the eternal economy women are endowed, is of little consequence. Ingrained in every man's being is the consciousness that womanhood was made to worship, and if young women would only get "an earnest of thought" long enough to realize this, they would not disappoint the ideals of their sweethearts by the promiscuous use of slang indicative of degenerate thoughts.

It is for another reason that to hold the esteem and exalt the lives of men, who are in reality the dependent ones, women should cultivate the thoughts creating the aura of the "sentimental morals" effecting all within the radius of one's mental atmosphere. Helen Keller, the blind, deaf and dumb wonder of the age has said that thoughts are unmistakably transmitted in the handclasp. She asserts she knows by a person's handclasp if they are cheery, trustworthy, companionable, nervous or not. She says "Some people's hand clasps seem to radiate sunshine and I feel myself warmed in their presence, while others clasp my hand like a touch of northern frost, and I long to be away from them." Students of human nature tell us that the carriage is legible record of the thoughts, permanent and transient. With them in the heart, one slashes noiselessly.

The man who has said his little ally, pinched forward fearfully. Clearly stamped on every motion, glance and word are the tangible things called thoughts, and whether one is "capable of living without thinking deeply," or not, it is little short of criminal to think carelessly. "Are you kind in your thoughts toward all? Then but kindness of you must befall. As you sow as you reap. And in measure so deep. Either pleasure or pain by your thoughts."

Party at Castle Huning.

A charming informality in honor of an out-of-town guest was the affair Monday afternoon when Mrs. Arno Huning was hostess to a dozen intimate friends at Castle Huning. The honoree was the distinguished Miss Sprague, who is visiting in Albuquerque for a few days.

Miss Chaves Entertains.

Complimentary to Misses Edith Childers and Agnes Childers, an informal tea party was tendered by Miss Kathryn Chaves last evening. Twenty-six members of the younger social set were entertained with the sprightly charm and cordiality marking Miss Chaves as hostess of rare talent. The spacious rooms were tastefully ornamented with white flowers, offset with lavish trimming of greenery. White sweet peas, snapdragons, carnations and other varieties breathed a sweet incense on the merry revel of Albuquerque's budding maidens and cavaliers. In the dining room the green and white effect was tastefully indelized by the green shaded lamps, and garlands of delicate apragras ferns and great satin bows framing the white floral pieces on the table.

After the enjoyment of the delicious menu, the company engaged in playing the great drawing room and halls serving admirably as bill room. Miss Edith Childers has recently returned from a year's absence in Los Angeles, where she attended school. Miss Agnes Childers is the house guest of the hostess. The invitees at the affair last evening were: Agnes Childers, Edith Childers, Lina Ferguson, Alma Haldridge, Salome Grandfield, Allie Stern, Anita Baca, Pearl Carson, Jean Arnot, Helen Hope, Myrtle Hope, Ruth Hield, Lester Cooper, Gordon Gass, Leslie Briggs, Arthur Yanow, Joseph O'Reilly, Edgar Jaffa, George Harlow, Phillip Harlow, Clyde Ross, William Arnot, James Steinhman, Joe Walton, Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Alger.

Younger Set Entertained.

Miss Alma Haldridge entertained 18 young people at her home on South Arno street Monday evening in the happy style of cordial hospitality lacking ostentation and formality making the social affairs of the younger set so thoroughly enjoyable. After a session at card tables, solving the intricacies of five hundred, the merry-making resolved itself into an impromptu dancing party.

Off to the Pecos.

In the soft shades of the Gloria, the Walter street camp, a month's outing. Dr. Cooper and son Hugh left Monday evening for an overland trip to the station of Gloria, giving official escort to the commissary wagon and saddle horses, both of which represent important factors in the pleasure of the month to come. Tomorrow morning Mrs. Cooper, Lester Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elwood and their sister, Miss Lillian Elwood, will leave by train for Gloria, where they will be met by the advance contingent that left Monday. Twenty-five miles overland will bring them to the summer cottage in the heart of the Gloria range, where they will spend a month of ideal camp life.

Miss Miller Honored.

A pleasant affair, entirely informal and including only immediate intimates was the company yesterday when Misses Margaret and Eugenia Kehler entertained half a dozen girl friends as a courtesy to Miss Ann Miller of Norfolk, Va. Two tables of bridge were the feature of the afternoon's pleasure.

Porch Party.

The members of the Young Women's Sewing club and the members of the Elder Women's Sewing club with their guests will be entertained this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kunz. The splendid veranda of the Kunz home will be the scene of pleasure where, if the weather permits, those present will practice the pleasing politics of five hundred in the balmy outdoors instead of needle-work indoors as is the custom of the routine confinement. Five tables will be the theater of the card contest.

June Weddings.

In the "spring when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" there is foreordained work for the clergy in June. The present month has been no exception, and the last week has already five matrimonial ceremonies recorded, with possibly two more before Saturday. Monday afternoon while packing to leave on an overland trip to the Pecos, attending to business of the Presbyterian sanatorium, a meeting of ministers and a 6 o'clock dinner party, Rev. H. A. Cooper also found ample time to preside at two weddings, one at 2 o'clock in Old Albuquerque and one at 4 o'clock in the parsonage.

Church Wedding.

The prettiest matrimonial rites since the notable Schweitzer-Howell nuptials, was the wedding last evening in the Lutheran church when Miss Emilia Kraenkerberger and Mr. Armin Kraemer pledged their troth in the presence of a church filled with friends. Tropical plants and a profusion of palms effectively adorned the altar and nooks of the pleasing chapel. At 8 o'clock to the strains of a melodious wedding march played by Mrs. Oberholzer, the bridal couple advanced to the altar. The bride's fairness was enhanced by the charming gown of white messaline. The bridesmaid and groomsmen were Miss Lydia Kraenkerberger, sister of the bride, and Mr. Frederick Weertz. Miss Ella Ahrens acted as ringbearer. The service was most impressively read by Rev. S. E. Oberholzer.

After the ceremony the company adjourned to the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. U. Ahlers in their suburban home, where an elaborate reception was tendered to forty-five guests. The culmination of the memorable event was the sumptuous wedding supper. The long table was prettily decorated in sweet peas and smilax, harmonizing with the floral adornment of all the rooms. The bride is one of the most efficient stenographers and popular young ladies in the city. The fortunate groom is associated with the hotel grocery. Mr. and Mrs. Kraemer will immediately begin housekeeping in this city.

Jones-Sincomb Nuptials.

A quiet home wedding, pretty in appointments, solemn in service and witnessed by the immediate friends and relatives of the young people was the ceremony in the Sincomb home in Old Town when Miss Zella Sincomb became the bride of Joseph L. Jones, Rev. H. A. Cooper officiating. The attending couple were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sincomb. The rooms were tastefully adorned in white carnations and greenery, making an effective setting for the enactment of the happy scene. The company mingled in genial intercourse and extended felicitations to the newly-weds. At the twilight hour, when an elaborate nuptial supper was served, the banquet table being prettily decked in white carnations presented a pleasing picture.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. French, Mr. and Mrs. William Bright, Miss Gladys Sincomb, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sincomb, Mr. Davis, Ernest Goetz, Gordon Sincomb, Eva Sincomb, Stanford Sincomb, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in this city indefinitely. Mr. Jones is a machinist in the employ of the Santa Fe.

Doubleday-Walter Marriage.

In the parlors of the parsonage Monday afternoon Rev. Hugh Cooper united in marriage Miss Olive Walter of Laramie, Wyo., and Ralph Doubleday of Cheyenne. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Stitzer, of Laramie, who had accompanied the bride-elect to this city to meet her fiancée. Mr. Doubleday is manager of the motion picture show featuring the Cheyenne fair and rough riders, and had been in the city several days awaiting the arrival of the ladies from Laramie, who came Monday morning. The ceremony following the same afternoon. Mrs. Stitzer continued her travels to California to spend a vacation at the coast, and the bridal couple returned to eastern points.

Pink-Jones.

Two young people of this city who last week he made one in El Paso are Miss Alice Jones and Mr. Charles Pink, formerly of Albuquerque. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Pink will for the present be El Paso, as Mr. Pink's business interests are now in that city.

Miss Elwood Entertains.

Environed by kindred spirits whom she has been influential in developing into vocal stars, Miss Lillian Elwood was last evening the center of a happy group of artists who gathered to her home on South Walter street to renew the friendship and rehearse the songs made dear by the training of an esteemed instructor when Miss Elwood was vocal teacher in this city three years ago.

No all former pupils were able to be present. Several had moved from the city. Others were engaged elsewhere. One pupil, Mrs. W. A. Nichols, has passed to the angelic choir since the classes reunited together last time. But a fair representation of the Elwood vocal classes was present and passed a most happy evening in laughter and song with their teacher and hostess. Refreshments served by Mrs. Roy Elwood concluded the delightful occasion that was the Alpha and Omega of the class reunion for this year, as Miss Elwood, who has been in the city for only two weeks, leaves tomorrow for the Pecos to spend the remainder of her vacation in rest and out door recreation. Miss Elwood returns in the early fall to Knox conservatory, Galesburg, Ill. to take up her duties again as professor of voice culture.

Newly Weds Feted.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Holz were the honor guests last evening at a carefully planned and carried to a happy conclusion by the members of the German Order of Hibernia, at their regular lodge meeting in the Knights of Columbus hall. Decease, felicitations to the honorees lately returned from a wedding trip to California, and refreshments engaged the company till a late hour. Nearly two hundred people enjoyed the festivity, that concluded with the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Holz of an elegant cut glass water service, with the best wishes of the Hibernia lodge.

Fraternital Function.

Complimentary to the Royal Neighbors, to all Modern Woodmen in the city whether formally affiliated with the local lodge or not, and to all wives of the Modern Woodmen the social affair this evening will be tendered by the men of the local camp of Modern Woodmen of America. Two notable addresses will be delivered during the hour devoted to a musical and literary program. Mr. W. W. Harris will speak on "Woodcraft," and Mrs. Polard, state deputy of the Royal Neighbors, will talk on "The Royal Neighbors." The Reith orchestra of five pieces will render several selections. Miss Charlotte Pratt will sing "Kathleen" and several other numbers will contribute to a successful program and enjoyable evening that will conclude with an informal social session and refreshments.

Fathers' Day.

Now that Mothers' day has been duly celebrated throughout the land and the insistent call for a memorial day for fathers has met with responsive filial sons of Washington state, it seems most opportune to suggest that the second Sunday in May might be called Parents' day or subdivided so that eulogistic sermons be dedicated to mothers in the forenoon and to the other heads of the families in the evening. Apropos of the recent demand for a father's day are the following verses clipped from a newspaper dated 1876.

MY FATHER,
"Who hailed me first with rapturous joy,
And did not fret and feel annoyed
When the nurse said, 'Why she's a boy?'
My father."

"Who gave that nurse a hair a crown,
To let him hold me awkward down,
Of course he held me upside down,
My father."

"Who n'er to cut my hair did try,
Jabbing the scissors in my eye,
And cutting every hair away?
My father."

"Who set me in the barber's chair
Instead, and had him cut my hair
Like my big brother's, good and square?
My father."

"Who, when I had a little fight
Because Tom tore my paper kite
And bit me, said I did just right?
My father."

"Who when Tom licked me black and blue,
Did not turn in and lick me, too,
Saying, 'Tis my duty so to do?'
My father."

"Who told me pluck and luck must win,
And taught me to 'put up a fin,'
Till I could trounce that Tom like sin?
My father."

"Who pommies n'er refused to plunk
Nor dropped them in that mimic bank,
Where I could only hear them clank?
My father."

"Who when I wished to buy a toy
N'er thought 'twould give me much more joy
To scold me to some heathen boy?
My father."

"Who bought me ponies, guns and such
And gave me leaf to fork and pitch,
While he raked up to make me rich?
My father."

"And who at last, when all was done,
Passed in his cheeks, and, noble one,
Left all he had to me his son?
My father."
