Note the Money-Saving Price Stamped on the Sole

No guess work about these new Regal prices. The price is stamped right on the shoe—at the factory. And it isn't stamped on until chartered public accountants have figured the cost of manufacture and of marketing and added the Five Per Cent. Commission.

These accountants pay no attention to the old-fashioned superstition of "even money" prices. All they care about is an accurate, close-fitting price.

The chief thing that Regal designers care about is to put just as much Datus—just as much Style and Comfort and Wear—as they can squeeze into each shoe.

The thing you care about in shoes—namely, big value in a close-fitting price—you're sure to find in Regals.
