CLEANING-UP DAY.

Cleaning-up day—a day set apart each year for all citizens to pay special attention to cleaning up not only their own premises but the entire city as well—has become an established custom of American cities.

Why not push the thing further and make every day of the year a cleaning-up day? It is a sorry thing to allow your premises to become so littered up that when cleaning-up day arrives you have a year's accumulation of dirt and trash to remove.

Let every citizen of Albuquerque bear this truth in mind. Cleanliness is one of the best advertisements that any city can have. Don't wait for cleaning-up day to brighten up your premises. Clean up today and tomorrow and the next day.

The fall season is covering the yards with leaves, broken twigs and dried weeds. It's time to clean up.

HE LAUGHS BEST.

It frequently happens that a man at whom the whole world has laughed for many years gets the last laugh, and that the world is compelled to admit that it made a serious mistake in ever laughing at him in the first place.

Ever since his entrance into public life Richmond Pearson Hobson has been regarded as a man with a hobby. He has favored the maintenance of the United States of a navy of such gigantic proportions as no power in the history of the world has yet undertaken to build.

With a national baseball convention and an embryonic Mexican revolution going on under the same tent, San Antonio has managed to keep in the date lines pretty consistently of late.

It is gratifying to know that when the delegates to the educational convention meet here next year we will have some nicely paved streets for them to drive over.

Despite the counter attractions of two wars in various parts of the world, the Yale-Princeton game Saturday managed to attract quite a good deal of attention.

It must be rather disconcerting to an impatient revolution to have the main squeeze get indignantly pinched just as the show is about to begin.

We would take a good deal more interest in that proposed Chinese republic if we knew just what job our old friend, Wu Ting Fang, is slated for.

As a time-killer Dr. Hyde is all to the Jim Jeffries. The chances are that he will have two or three more trials before the McNamara case gets up a full head of steam.

William Jennings Bryan is gradually eliminating all the candidates for the Democratic nomination except William Jennings Bryan.

General Reyes should have waited until the baseball convention got away from San Antonio if he wanted to pull the thing off quietly.

It would be nothing more than right to let the McNamara jury off for a few days to visit the Panama exposition in 1915.

Mrs. Patterson's trial begins in Denver today. Let us all hope that the lady won't spread it on too thick.

There is one thing about the contributing editor—he gets action every time he contributes.

dent of Mexico, following a war the chief issues of which were the personality of Porfirio Diaz and the respective measures which characterized his administration.

It will be interesting to see whether Madero, now that he is in office, will find it necessary to resort to the methods which finally led to the overthrow of Diaz in order to retain his hold on the government of Mexico.

From this angle it looks as if President Madero is decidedly up against it. In order to retain his hold on the reins of government in undisturbed tranquility he must steer a mid-course between weakness and despotism so narrow that it would appall the most experienced navigator of governmental waters.

In the meanwhile there need not be any big hurry on the part of Uncle Sam in withdrawing troops from the Mexican border. We might need 'em.

Denver can not hope to compete with Los Angeles and Kansas City in the matter of continuous performance murder cases, but what her trials lack in length is more than made up for in fragrance.

With a severe cold keeping him confined to the house, and with congress about to convene for the long session, Mr. Taft is doubtless of the opinion that a president's lot is not a happy one.

Former Governor Folk got on the job in New Mexico too late. The package has already been tied up with a blue ribbon and handed over to Mr. Hearst.

The frankly expressed disappointment of the Houston Post over the local situation shows that Brother Bailey has quite a good deal to learn about the New Mexico Democracy.

ALBUQUERQUE EVENING HERALD, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1911.

CAPTURING ARIZONA'S WILD HORSES.

An attempt to chat the ranges of the Prescott national forest of wild horses is being made by the stockmen of Williamson and Skull valleys, and the first rodeo resulted in the capture of about thirty animals on the Tonto divide, says the Arizona Republican.

Forest Ranger Meyer had a conference with George A. Carter, state steward, J. V. Dickson, J. M. Cook, H. C. Cook and E. Contreras, representatives of the Hornet Ranch company, and others, and a rodeo was arranged, with J. V. Dickson as captain. During that week a stockade corral was built at the old chimney in Toohay canyon and wire fences were strung along the canyon to enclose the water holes, leaving a narrow entrance at the south end.

'Mormon wings' of cheescloth were stretched upon the brush for more than a mile from the entrance of the fenced lot along the hillside to the open country at Tonto divide. A rodeo camp was established at Carter's corral on the old Toohay place and at the beginning of the following week a dozen men began the work of gathering broomtails and outlaws.

Lookouts were posted upon high points near the north end of the canyon, while the large number of riders went in search of wild horses in the open country west of Granite mountain. When a brand was found the riders gave chase and tried to drive the horses into the canyon. Sometimes they got the band headed toward the canyon and sometimes the mustangs had notions of their own and went elsewhere.

When the broomtails took to the hills there was wild riding through scrub oak and over rock-strewn slopes and ridges, and the lookouts plunged down from their stations and tried to head off the bands or picked out single horses and roped them among the rocks. Before the 'Mormon wings' were stretched it was difficult to keep a band going down the canyon. The wild horses seemed to suspect a trap and broke from the hills regardless of the riders who tried to turn them.

The cheescloth, however, proved an effective barrier in most instances, although one small band went through it when alarmed by the presence of men near the corral. A band of thirteen mares and colts was kept in the straight and narrow way by the streaks of white fluttering in the brush and ran directly into the corral.

The final unit of the work on the flume has been the forms for the concrete to be erected and concrete will be poured soon. This work will be started at the upper end and will progress down the flume. Most of the excavation has been done except between stations five and six. Three derricks are engaged in cleaning up and in finishing the excavation to meet the flume.

James W. Hagg, representing the National Land and Irrigation Journal of Chicago, is here in the interests of his magazine.

John Wylers, who has been doing the boiler work for W. E. Anderson, will finish and return to El Paso on Saturday night.

W. J. Henrich, of the General Electric company of Schenectady, N. Y., is here installing the switchboard. He is an expert on electrical machinery.

Social Relaxation.

Mrs. Rapier R. Coghlan pleasantly entertained the ladies' card club and the ladies' bridge club. The former was on Wednesday afternoon, when Madeline McEee, MacIntyre, Blue, Schmalhausen, Monteth, Matson, Stanton, Pauley, Wells, Gusein and Patton were in attendance. Dainty refreshments were served. On Friday afternoon the subscription club met and had a jolly time.

Mrs. E. E. Glenn and two sons, Paul and Lawrence, and Mrs. L. M. Monteth, departed on Thursday for a short visit at the home of Robert Martin at Cuchillo. Mr. and Mrs. Martin recently removed from Engle.

Piano Was Smashed.

A. M. McEee recently received his household goods from Arizona. A number of Mexicans were engaged to do the reclamation service drivers in handling the goods. While taking some goods into the house the team was left with no one to watch it and it started off with a piano in the wagon. It went a short distance when the piano tumbled out. The box was badly smashed but a few scratches were the only damage to the instrument. This was taken from the box and hauled to the house. When Mr. McEee went to get the bedding which had been wrapped about the piano and had been left with the box he found that two of the Mexican helpers had gone and taken it with them. Sheriff Putman searched the Mexican quarters but failed to find it. The next morning the bedding was found neatly folded on the piano bench, having been returned during the night. There is comparatively little thieving here and Sheriff Putman nearly always gets results.

Foundations for East Towers.

Good progress is being made in placing the concrete for the pedestals and machinery foundations for the east towers.

Krisa Kitchner has returned from a trip to the Las Palomas Hot Springs, where he was much benefited in health.

East Phillips, who was inconvenienced by a sore hand for a few days, he could not report for work, now has charge of the gang of carpenters which is erecting the forms for concreting the flume.

Rub a sore throat with BALSAM'S SNOW LINIMENT. One or two applications will cure it completely. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Diogenes was searching for the honest man. "Find one who acknowledges he doesn't take a cold plunge in winter," he advised.

Herewith he took along his tub for a test.—New York Sun.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all druggists.

Regulate the bowels when they fail to move properly. HERBINE is an admirable bowel regulator. It helps the liver and stomach and restores a fine feeling of strength and buoyancy. Price 50c. Sold by all druggists.

"The rains were higher, but it was worth it."

"How now?"

"The doctor said my wife must have a rest, so to save her the trouble of dressing, we changed hotels three times a day."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MECHANICAL COAL STOKER INSTALLED AT BIG DAM

Gravity Device Which Automatically Carries Fuel From Under Railroad Tracks Into Boiler Box.

(Special Correspondence to the Herald.) Elephant Butte, N. M., Nov. 20.—Good progress is being made in framing the timbers for the tower on the west side of the river and this may have the two ends erected this time next week and the cross bracing begun.

Work is progressing on the power plant. The contractor for the machinery, W. E. Anderson of El Paso, expects to finish the last of this week. The work being done by the United States reclamation service will be finished in a short time. The latter yet has a coal handling plant to install. This will take the coal from a bin under the railroad switch and place it in the bunkers, from which it will be fed into the mechanical stokers by gravity. The service has not yet completed the building. The roof is now being placed and the windows are not in. Considerable cleaning up will have to be done. The smokelack for the boilers is nearly finished. This will be 140 feet high and has become one of the conspicuous objects about camp. No date has been set as to when the plant will be in operation.

Bin Full of Crushed Stone.

The bin which holds the stone from the temporary crusher and which will be used in making the concrete for the flume is full of crushed rock. Sand and gravel is now being secured for work on the flume from a small gravel pit above the dump for the flume excavation, but preparations are being made for constructing a bridge from the east end of the upper coffer dam to the east side of the river, and when this is done the big sand and gravel bed on the east side of the river will become available. This will be needed for concreting the flume.

Final Unit Commenced.

The final unit of the work on the flume has been the forms for the concrete to be erected and concrete will be poured soon. This work will be started at the upper end and will progress down the flume. Most of the excavation has been done except between stations five and six. Three derricks are engaged in cleaning up and in finishing the excavation to meet the flume.

THE COPPER QUEEN STAGE COACHES TO STRIKES IT AGAIN. Race Across AMERICA. Great Copper Producer is Again in Possession of Rich Find; Estimated Value of Ore Body One Million.

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Reliable reports received here indicate that what is considered to be one of the greatest copper strikes in recent years has just been made by the Phelps-Dodge company on the Gleason claims in the Catalina mountains which the Copper Queen holds under extended option. Samples of the ore have also been received here, and appear exceedingly rich in copper. The extent of the strike is said to be worth more than $1,000,000.

Development has been carried to a point where the size of the body is approximately known. Rich low-grade sulphide assaying 7 and 8 per cent copper was encountered along a drift of 125 feet. A crosscut was then driven 28 feet, at which point it lost the ore. The mine management, at the head of which is E. M. Sawyer, has now done back on the drift and is dropping a shaft 75 feet with the intention of again crosscutting to catch the ore. The size of the ore body as now determined is 125 by 20 feet.

Reports of the strike filtering out from the mine are declared to have been responsible for great interest taken in the Catalina district by Col. Cody and his associates and others. It is now believed certain that a branch line of the El Paso and Southwestern will be extended around the Catalina from Tucson to the Copper Queen mines. The strike is said to have been partly known, but far from completely determined, at the time when the Copper Queen asked the owners of the property for an extension of option.

A regular review of Alamo Hive No. 1, L. O. T. M., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in I. G. O. F. hall. Refreshments will be served by Minnie Gephord, secretary.
