MANY CATTLE AND SHEEP GRAZE ON SITGREAVES

Ten Thousand of the Former and 72,000 of the Latter; Timber Includes Three Billion Feet of Yellow Pine.

Charles Jennings, supervisor of the Sitgreaves national forest, who has been at the district office here for a few days on official business, is under the impression that the timber is in charge of under his authority are vast resources in resources.

The Sitgreaves ranges are feeding 72,000 sheep. They are feeding, too, 18,000 cattle. Across one trail in the course of the year 50,000 sheep cross in going down from the rim to the lower lands.

Cattle and sheep aren't the only forms of wealth. Supervisor Jennings has in his forest. He has three billion feet of the finest yellow pine, and if plans that are afoot are carried through the yellow pine will go out and a flood of prosperity will come into the country. Business men and bankers of Holbrook and others interested in development are working in conjunction with the forest service to interest capital in the building of a railroad that will bring about the tapping of the immense timber and mineral resources of the forest.

WELL LOOK WHAT'S COMING! A SURE ENOUGH CIRCUS!

The circus is comin' to town, to town. Yes, siree.

And within the next few days a gaily decorated car will roll into town and the army of advertising men that go along with it will scatter and post flaming pictures of lions and tigers, elephants and camels, and horses and ponies, parades, and all the things that make one wish the day would hurry up and get here.

When is it going to be? And which one is it? Why, the A. G. Barnes big three-ring, old animal circus, of course, and it's going to present the biggest, brightest and altogether the best line of circus giorles and features in the history of its numerous visits here.

So says Murray A. Fenwick, general contracting agent, who is here today arranging the preliminaries. A busy man, is this circus agent, for upon him falls the task of making contract for the licenses, the show grounds, space on the billboards for the circus pictures, water and feed for the show's family of five hundred people. Livery rigs must be engaged to take the bill posters out into the country, and, last but not least, calls on the newspaper boys and says "Howdy."

"When the show comes this year, we believe we'll show you more novel, sensational, thrilling and amusing feats than you ever saw under a canvas in your life. That's quite a bombastic statement and borders on hyperbole, but referring to the past visits of the show here hasn't Mr. Barnes always made good on the promises made about his show? The whole program was made over this season—it's entirely different. Educated animals give the performance—we're still a wild animal circus, the largest of that character in the world. "Lions, tigers and bears do the 'thrillers' on the program, great groups of them—24 full-grown African lions being performed in one act. You'll shiver when you see the peril of the one trainer who mingles with this bunch of man-eaters.

The culdest act of the show is the troupe of Chinese performing monkeys. Let you never saw an act like that? And the clown pigs, too, they'll make a circus store Indian laugh. The sixteen champion dancing horses, going to Tokyo, the Mexico, the Jitney Sitgreaves, and—

"But, Jimmie crickets, I must hurry along; it's nearly train time and I've got to say hay for the elephants yet. Adios, see you next year."

YOUNG AD WOLGAST HERE LOOKING FOR A MATCH IN TOWN

Young Wolgast arrived in town today seeking a match. He came from Trinidad, where on Labor day he defeated Yankee Rus in three rounds.

Young Wolgast is remembered by the followers of the prize ring here. He is a fighter from the word go, and has met a number of well known scrappers. His scrapbook records forty-nine battles and only four lost decisions in the lot.

HEAVEN REGARDS DESCRIBES EMPIRE UNIVERSITY BUILDING DONE BY S. P. ROAD FIRST ESSENTIAL

Chairman of County Road Board Declares Bond Money Could Not Serve More Useful Purpose.

WILL CO-OPERATE WITH CITIZENS TO GET IT

Grading and Paving of East Central to Institution He Believes Most Necessary of Needed Improvements.

"I regard the grading and paving of Central avenue from the end of the present asphalt to the University of New Mexico as the most important and most immediately necessary of all the improvement needs of this city and county," said John S. Heaven of the Bernalillo county road board this afternoon, "and I am personally in favor of proceeding with that paving, if it can be done, immediately. No better use could be made for the money coming to this county through the sale of the state highway bonds than to invest it in this construction, and I will favor such use of the money if it can be brought about."

"The state university," Mr. Heaven continued, "is the most important institution this city has. We owe to that institution every bit of support that can be given it and we should co-operate with it in its betterments and its progress to the fullest extent. This expression represents no change of sentiment on my part. I have felt for years, as have many others of the business men of this community, that more of the concerted effort should be made to encourage the university. It was this feeling, which caused me as a member of the city council, some years ago, to advocate strongly the expenditure of large sums of city money in cutting down the grade to the university. The council approved the course taken by the street committee in that matter and the result was that the grade was reduced materially and the most serious hills eliminated. Our money was exhausted before we could cut off the hump that remains just in front of the Presbyterian sanitarium, and just inside the city limits.

"The street will first have to be reduced to grade by the elimination of this hump. When that has been done there will follow gutters and sidewalks. The county already has volunteered to put in the gutters and curbing if the property owners would lay sidewalks and. It proposition is pending. But the grading and paving will cost a very considerable sum of money, and the county road board, even if the state highway money is made available cannot do the job alone. We must have first the consent of the state highway commission, under whose supervision this money must be spent. Next we must have the complete co-operation of Albuquerque; and finally we must have the co-operation of the property owners along the street, all the way from Broadway to the university grounds.

"The value of this improvement to property along it is so great that I do not believe there will be much question of the hearty backing and co-operation of the property owners. But the state highway commission, which is final authority over the highway bond money, must be shown that this is the best use to which our share of the money can be put. To do this we must have an expression from the people of Albuquerque. As a matter of fact, while I am ready to do all I can to bring about this necessary improvement right now, it is really straight up in the people of this city. If they want it I believe the matter can be arranged for the work done now. I believe it should be done and I am ready to help."

Mr. Heaven believes, also that part of the state highway bond money might well be used in contemplating the James road, as a matter of direct benefit to Albuquerque. But the university highway is considered the most immediately important of all the road work ahead of Bernalillo county and of all street improvement ahead of Albuquerque.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS AT OPENING SESSION HEARS ACHIEVEMENTS OF RAILROAD IN ARIZONA AND CALIFORNIA.

(By Evening Herald Special Wire) Stockton, Cal., Sept. 13.—Delegates from practically every state in the union, half a dozen provinces of Canada and three states in Mexico, numbering more than a thousand, were on hand this morning when the twenty-second annual international irrigation congress was called to order by Richard W. Young of Salt Lake, past chairman of the executive committee. Committees were named at the morning session.

What part a great railway system plays in the development of new country was recounted here today to delegates by E. O. McCormick, vice president of the Southern Pacific Railway system.

In order to bring people into the far west McCormick said, it was necessary to tell them what was there and this in turn involved a wide and comprehensive knowledge of the country to be developed. From this need there grew a great bureau, maintained by the railroad, for the collection and dissemination of information.

"Railroads invariably precede development," McCormick declared, and spoke of the building of a line to Fresno, Cal. when the San Joaquin valley was but a vast grain field, encouraging inventors to begin irrigation and intensive farming. He described the pioneering of the southern Pacific across Arizona and into the Imperial valley in California. Southern Pacific engineers, he said, were the men who put water on the Colorado valley in the Colorado desert by boring artesian wells, and who found there the possibilities of growing in this country the commercial date.

President Case in his opening address declared that the price per acre charged ordinarily was too high for the average farmer to pay.

"With no improvements, without the ground properly graded and with all the expense of upkeep necessary until a crop can be sold, it makes a burden that few settlers are able to meet," he said.

"Any irrigation projects could be graded more cheaply and better by the men who organize them than by the individual settler, and the land should be turned over to the farmer in a condition that will enable him, immediately to start crop production and the sustenance of his family."

All irrigation enterprises and like governmental undertakings, he said, should be in the hands of the department of agriculture, and he urged the appointment of a federal irrigation committee to investigate all projects under the Carey land act "with reasonable power to act."

BRINGS BROTHER TO U. N. M. FROM MONTEREY

L. L. Gonzales, Wealthy Land Owner, from Mexico Interested in New Mexico University Through Correspondence.

An interesting addition to the student body of the University of New Mexico was made this morning in the enrollment of Frederico Gonzales, of Monterey, Mexico, member of one of the most prominent families of the famous Mexican city. Mr. Gonzales was brought here by his elder brother, L. L. Gonzales, one of the wealthiest land owners in the Mexican republic. He will finish his college work in the New Mexico institution. Mr. Gonzales owns 30,000 acres of irrigated land along the Texas border near Del Rio, Texas, as one of his property interests. He became interested in the University of New Mexico through letters written by President Boyd to members of the Madero family in El Paso, who for a time considered enrolling a member of that well known family to the university here and who may still do so.

Mr. Gonzales was introduced to a number of Albuquerque business men today by President Boyd. He will leave tonight or tomorrow for El Paso.

decision had yet been reached by the United States of Germany's proposal to arbitrate the Arabic case.

It was indicated in official quarters that both Germany and the United States agree that to arbitrate the question of indemnity involves arbitrating the justification and the facts.

It was generally believed that before the United States will enter into formal negotiations on the Arabic case in particular it will be necessary first to confirm Germany's assurance of the cessation of attack by submarines on liners.

The declaration that the United States would not discuss the Lusitania case until it had been established whether the sinking of the Arabic was a justified act increases the importance of the decision on the Arabic note.

Ambassador Bernstorff's conference with Secretary Lansing ended just half an hour. At its conclusion as he left the state department he told inquiries.

"I really cannot say anything about what I said to the secretary or about what he said to me. That rests with Secretary Lansing."

"The ambassador made it clear, however, that the situation had come to an impasse. From his manner some of his questioners inferred that his conference with the secretary forecasts a favorable outcome and that probably arbitration might be agreed upon.

GERMANY SAYS COMMANDER VIOLATED HIS INSTRUCTIONS

Washington, Sept. 13.—Germany's explanation of the unsuccessful attempt to destroy the Canadian liner Orduna on July 5 is that the submarine commander violated his instructions, which were not to attack any liner, but that owing to the rough, heavy sea he was unable to make out the character or nationality of the Orduna.

The Orduna, bound from Liverpool to New York with some 200 passengers, of whom 22 were Americans, was attacked by a torpedo which barely missed her, and then was shelled by the submarine until she was out of range.

To substantiate the statement that the German commander was inclined to follow his orders, it is stated that he soon after allowed the steamer Normandie, carrying a cargo of lumber, to pass unharmed.

The German explanation, which comes in the form of a note, was laid before President Wilson today by Secretary Lansing and may figure in discussions of the submarine issue with Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

STRIVING TO WIN CROWN OF KING OF COUNTIES

Committee in Charge of the Bernalillo Exhibit Working Hard to Bring Out Best Possible Showing.

Members of the committee appointed by the board of county commissioners to arrange for a county display at the state fair are bending every energy to insure a showing that will crown Bernalillo as the king county of the state. A national campaign is being made among the farmers of the valley to make sure that the best exhibits of which the Bernalillo soil and enterprise can produce at this time are at the fair.

Handsome and distinctly worth while prizes are to be given farmers, orchardists and others for the best samples of farm stuff, garden produce, fruits, etc., that are offered for display in the county's exhibit at the state fair.

The announcement, which also records that the committee has secured cold storage space for perishable entries, to keep them until the fair, is as follows:

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 11, 1915.

The county commissioners of Bernalillo county have appropriated $200 for the expenses of making a first-class exhibit at the state fair, showing the resources of this county, and we desire your co-operation in making this a success.

Special Cash Prizes.

The committee in charge has set aside part of this fund to be given as special cash prizes for choice exhibits. They have secured cold storage space in which any fruits can be cared for free of charge, and would like to hear from you at once if you have anything choice which you want to save for the fair.

They also wish to secure fine specimens of apples, pines, peaches, pears and other fruits to put in jars for exhibition, not only at the fair but to be kept as a permanent exhibit of the resources of our county. Can you not help us out and send us something for this purpose?

This is a great opportunity to advertise our valley and by showing what is being raised here build up a market for your crops.

There will be no charge or expense to you either for storage or space at the fair. Let us know what you have and we will see that proper care is taken of your exhibit.

For any information you may wish in regard to this matter call at 291 West Gold avenue or telephone 259 and ask for Mr. Donnell.

A. H. STROUP,
P. V. SANCHEZ,
