POLITICAL ECONOMY.

BEFORE every session of the United States congress and particularly before every such session immediately preceding a presidential election the party that is "out" develops a mania for economy in the expenditures of the federal government, and points a vibrating finger of alarm at the approaching burden of taxation which will soon descend to break the popular back.

Secretary McAdoo opened the flood gates of the alarmists when he gave out his recent estimates of the government revenues and expenditures up to the end of the fiscal year beginning July 1st. The treasury department statement has brought forth a flood of Republican criticism that is notable for volume and for lack of intelligence.

This identical statement has been buried at every national administration since the Civil war, and at some administrations before the war. In a sense it has been true in almost all cases, for this nation has expanded with a rapidity unequalled in the history of the world, and there has been a proportionate expanding of the cost of operating the national government.

One particularly hysterical attack upon Mr. McAdoo's statement and the Wilson administration concludes with this amazing pronouncement: "The people will have to pay, just the same, whether the tax be a direct one or not. For in the last analysis there is nobody to pay the government's bills but the people."

Apparently the chief fault found with Mr. McAdoo's administration of the treasury department is that he hasn't been able to devise and submit a scheme by which the government can be run without expense to the people.

As a matter of fact charges of unusual extravagance will not lie against the Wilson administration. As a matter of fact there is nothing alarming in the present status of the federal treasury, nor is there any prospect of any alarming development therein.

the hour when we complete our New Year resolutions. Here it is: Harriman died twenty years before his time. He was a tremendous worker, but work did not kill him. What killed Harriman was thinking in bed. Thinking in business hours is a constructive process. Thinking in bed is usually worry.

How pitifully unimportant all that worry seems to us, two thousand years afterward. How clearly we can see that if Cicero had simply followed his conscience he could have spared himself all that worry and saved his life and his honor.

A certain business man faced his board of directors recently. He had done his best—but he had lost them a large sum of money. One of the directors said to him: "You don't seem to be much worried."

He replied: "You gentlemen don't pay me any money to worry about your business. You pay me to do my best according to my judgment and conscience. I have done that. To worry would not add one penny to your balance sheet."

SOLOS By the Second Fiddle.

AFTER MR. FORD gets through it will be time for some of the belligerent nations to do something toward making peace. All other methods will have been exhausted.

IT IS CHARACTERISTIC of American thoughtlessness that with a wedding and congress coming on President Wilson is asked to determine what is the best kind of grade for golf links.

THE AVERAGE life of an automobile in war service is thirty days. This is one chief contributing cause for making new loans which the average American will understand.

ARTESIA PROPOUNDS REPUBLICAN PUZZLE

(From the Artesia News, Republican) According to newspapers in the northern part of the state, O. A. Larrasolo will be a candidate for the nomination for attorney general. Mr. Larrasolo seems to have contacted a habit of becoming a candidate for something or other every time there is an election, and while this in itself is no particular disgrace, it would have been far better for both Mr. Larrasolo and the Republican party had he continued to cast his lot with the Democrats after accepting so many honors and nominations from their hands.

HERE'S THE LINE-UP ALL MADE, BOYS!

(Artesia News.) A Republican state convention is a good deal like a jury—lots of people don't know what it will do. Especially this way is the coming convention next year, when a senator must be nominated to take the place of senator Catron. This next election will be something new for senatorial candidates, as they must get out and make the race before the people and not in a caucus.

SILVER CITY MEN BACK BUNGALOW BUILDING

Plan Similar to That Proposed Here Successfully Financed for Hustling Grant County Town.

Silver City, N. M., Nov. 27.—A local company, organized by Fred Borstein for the erection of bungalow houses for winter visitors, has practically completed its capitalization and it is expected that the preliminary steps in connection with the organization of the new company will be taken within the next day or two after which the different sites for the bungalows will be decided upon.

The demand for modern cottages was never greater in Silver City and the final choice will be left to the stockholders to decide. That the proposition has proven attractive to the business men is indicated by the ready response in the sale of the stock. Already seven of the bungalows have been spoken for and it is expected they will all be rented before they are completed.

BETTER PRICES PAID FOR LAND ON PLAINS

Quay County Sales of Recent Weeks Show That Day of $5 Land in Eastern New Mexico Is Gone for Good.

Tucuman, N. M., Nov. 29.—There has been quite an activity in the buying and selling of land on the plains of Quay county within the last few weeks. Hardly a day passes but what a trade is made. A notable feature is that the land is bringing much better prices than usual. The plains have established a reputation as a wheat farming country and the day of five dollar land is a thing of the past.

The H. W. Vandervelde 100, price $1,000, purchaser, H. C. Swanson. Bush Brothers sold an unimproved 100 for $1,250. This place had nothing in the way of improvements, not even a fence post.

The J. H. Holton unimproved 320 was purchased by C. W. Owens for $2,000.

The Roy H. Smith place of 320 acres with practically no improvements was sold to G. C. Huntly for $2,000.

The land above reported lies near Plain pasture and may be considered a good section of the wheat producing area, but is no better than many other parts of the plains of the county.

TWO BIG STOCK DEALS MADE IN EDDY COUNTY

Carlsbad, N. M., Nov. 27.—L. S. Skelton has purchased the interests of ex-Governor Rubha in the Palmito Angus cattle company, of Black river ranch. The deal involves the sum of about $15,000 and is probably the largest ever pulled off in this county.

Wednesday of this week W. J. Barber closed a deal with Dolph, whereby Mr. Barber became owner of the old P. E. N. ranch twenty miles northwest of Carlsbad, and all the cattle owned by Dolph. The similar deal is not given but is supposed to be in the neighborhood of $15,000.

This is the exact and cattle sold by Walter Punderson a year ago for $15,000, which shows there has been some rise in the stock and cattle prices about during the past year. From this deal it is taken that Mr. Barber has changed his mind as to leaving Texas and will remain near his own stamping grounds in the future. It is with pleasure we are able to give the fact that he will not leave our such men as Mr. Barber are scarce in any man's country.

EL PASO MEN FORM DEEP SEA DIVER

Plan for Big Celebration

Martinez Leads Movement to Finance Formal Opening of the Elephant Butte Irrigation Project.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 27.—The appropriation of $2,500 to be defrayed by the El Paso Water Users' association and the Elephant Butte Water Users' association in behalf of the grand celebration to be held next fall commemorating the completion of the Big Bend irrigation project, and accompanied by the great convention of the International Farm congress and Soil Products exposition and the annual meeting of the International Farm congress, was decided upon at an enthusiastic joint meeting of the members of the two associations held this afternoon at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

President Felix Martinez of the El Paso Water Users' association presided at the meeting with President L. W. Clapp of the Elephant Butte association and other members of the Las Cruces association in attendance.

Mr. Martinez in calling the meeting to order referred to the forthcoming celebration and to its vast importance to the farmers who were to be primarily benefited through the vast advertising to be given that region and also through the food of home-seekers and investors it was believed would be attracted to both the El Paso and the New Mexico valleys.

Mr. Martinez said the main thing at present was to finance the holding of the great celebration. He called upon President R. H. Orndorff and Richard E. Burgess to explain the scheme which had been arranged for financing the proposition regarded as one.

It was explained that a total guaranty fund of $40,500 would be necessary to finance the celebration. A total guaranty sum of $23,000 would be necessary to secure the International Farm congress, with the assured prospect that a considerable portion of this amount would be returned to the guarantors in the way of late receipts to the exposition and other sources of revenue available to the association, and the further sum of $17,500 to finance the holding of the International irrigation congress. This makes a total guaranty fund of $40,500, which it would be necessary to raise, without any additional fund for entertainment purposes.

It was further stated that the county of El Paso was expected to subscribe the sum of $2,500, that a like amount would be subscribed by the city of El Paso, making $5,000 available from these sources, that the Chamber of Commerce would undertake to secure out of its budget fund sub-
