

RALEIGH IN BRIEF.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CAPITAL.

Short Items of News Gathered on the Fly by the Chronicle's Reporters.

Early frosts are predicted. Look out and be ready.

The Raleigh Debating Society will meet to-morrow night.

Immense piles of bagging constitute a feature of the business streets now.

The Raleigh people are coming home from the coast and the mountains.

Auction sales of the stocks of D. S. Waitt and Norris & Carter began yesterday.

It is expected that there will be some lively fun in the colored State convention which meets here to-day.

There will be a delightful outdoor party to-night on the lawn of Edenton Street church under the auspices of the ladies of the church.

There was a good crowd at the Union Mission last night, and the services were very interesting. Mr. N. B. Droughton will speak there to-night.

The work on Hillsboro street is progressing nicely, and at last that important thoroughfare is to be put into something like its proper condition.

The season at Morehead has been more successful and more delightful than ever before. It closes on September 1st, but there are nearly one hundred people there now.

A movement is on foot for the formation of a stock company to control and operate the clothing manufacturing business, formerly conducted by the Oak City Manufacturing company.

By some strange and unaccountable oversight, a section of street between the city market and Bobbitt's drug store has never been paved, and it is a bad place—a very bad place in wet weather. Can this be conveniently looked after.

The "kickers" were not talking much yesterday; but the Chronicle will mention the fact that it has on file a number of "kicking" communications about the city light business which are being withheld till after the action of the board of aldermen at their next meeting. If some of these communications should be printed, somebody would think that the whole town had broken out into a blaze of heat.

Messrs. P. Linehan & Sons, of Raleigh, N. C., have been awarded the contract for the approaches, sidewalks, etc., to the new public building in this city, the amount of their bid being $10,852.05. The material to be used will be concrete, artificial stone for the sidewalks, and granite from the North Carolina quarries for curbing and paving blocks. The whole of the work is to be completed in four months from this date.—Wilmington Messenger.

OUT ON BAIL.

The Two Drummers Who Claim Not to Be Peddlers—A Hearing for September 3d.

W. G. McCune and A. Spain, agents for Gateley & Conroy, a commercial house of Cincinnati, were arrested in this city last Tuesday.

They were selling goods and the city authorities thought they were subject to the license imposed on peddlers, and demanded the payment of license tax. The agents declined to pay the tax, claiming that they were drummers, and that the business they carried on was exactly the same as that done by drummers for commercial houses. One agent had been through the city selling the goods, and another agent followed, delivering such goods as were sold.

The case was carried before J. W. Martin, J. P., who after a hearing, decided that agents were subject to the tax imposed on peddlers. They refused to pay it and were committed to jail.

Mr. J. C. L. Harris, counsel for the agents, then went to Baltimore and sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Bond.

Judge Bond granted the writ, and set September 3d as a date for a hearing in the case. In the meantime the agents have given bond and are out of jail. They claim that they are exempted from license tax under the same law which exempts that class of tradesmen known as "drummers" from taxation, and they will fight the case out on this line to the highest court.

Another representative of the Cincinnati firm has arrived and is helping the fight on his side.

Church Notes.

The city churches were well attended on Sunday, though there was nothing to characterize the services except the regular work.

Rev. A. M. Adams, a young divine, now a student of Wake Forest College, preached two sermons at the Baptist Tabernacle in the absence of the pastor. His efforts were remarkable for thought and force. He thrilled and intensely interested his hearers. Many good judges declared that he combined the earnestness of Evangelist Pearson with the energy and intensity of Thos. Dixon. His sermons were the subject of remark all day Sunday and yesterday.

Mr. Adams is a Wilson county boy and will be in college for two years longer. He is working his own way through, and is one of the most brilliant and promising young men of this land.

Rev. Baylus Cade, of Louisburg, preached two of his characteristic, strong, logical and analytical sermons at the First Baptist church.

To Asheville and Back.

The last good and cheap opportunity to visit the "Land of the Sky" this season will be offered next Wednesday, September 3rd. It will be Mallory's Second Grand Pleasure Excursion. Ask about and see what it offers in the way of fun. The round trip from Raleigh is $3.50, and the excursionists will stay in Asheville 48 hours.

Mr. S. J. Lamb, who is to superintend the grading of the streets of Winston-Salem for the street railway, has moved with his family to Winston. He was a valued citizen of Raleigh. The Chronicle congratulates Winston.

Dr. Fab. J. Haywood has returned from the Atlantic Hotel at Morehead, where he was resident physician for the season. In commenting upon his pleasant stay here, the delights of the season, &c., he incidentally remarked that, as a physician, he had very little to do there. People either wouldn't or couldn't get sick.

THE CHRONICLE IS BOOMING.

The CHRONICLE is on a vigorous and healthy boom. It's THE PAPER NOW and is the coming paper, too. It has the largest daily circulation of any paper in this State and is growing. Twenty-nine NEW DAILY subscribers were put on YESTERDAY, and more than a hundred were put on during the past week. THE CHRONICLE IS BOOMING.

THAT TRADES PROCESSION.

Raleigh Must Have one—And Make it a Great Feature of the Fair.

The CHRONICLE's suggestion that Raleigh get up a grand trades procession for the fair and make a great specialty of it, was commented on yesterday and met with approval.

It is some weeks to the fair yet, to be sure, but inasmuch as the next procession must be a gorgeous affair, it is necessary to have some time in which to get it up.

So let work begin at once. Let it be definitely settled as to whether there shall be a procession or not, and then there will be time for the participants to consider designs for floats &c., and put them in proper shape.

Everybody remembers the last year's parade, and appreciates the efforts of those who got it up and made a success of it.

Those men and firms were The Daily Call, Raleigh Typographical Union, Evening Visitor, Yancey & Stronach, Edwards & Broughton, Julius Lewis & Co., A. G. Rhodes & Co., Norris & Carter, North State Music House, Heller Bros., Union Central Life Insurance Co., (Cary J. Hunter Agent); Relief Society of Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, W. C. & A. B. Stronach, Raleigh Fire Department, W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co., Allen & Cram, Goodwin's Marble Works, D. W. C. Harris, Jones & Powell, Capital Alliance Tobacco Warehouse, N. C. Wagon Factory, Raleigh Graded School and J. Schwartz.

All these and many more can easily join in such an enterprise and make it one of the biggest things ever seen on wheels.

It's some trouble of course; but it takes trouble to get up things properly. Would it not be a good idea for everybody who will join in getting up the trades procession to report at ONCE. Then a meeting could be held and the proper work begun.

Let everybody come in now without further urging or begging. Let the work be spontaneous and voluntary, and let us show the thousands of people who will be here what Raleigh can do.

WAKE COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

A Very Dark Convention in Session—Chaotic Harmony—Delegates to State and Congressional Conventions.

The county Republican convention met here yesterday. They assembled quietly and unobtrusively and had effected an organization before it was generally known that they were in session.

The place of meeting was in the county court house. Mr. J. C. L. Harris was elected chairman and Jas. H. Young was made secretary.

A count-up showed that twenty-eight precincts were represented, casting eighty-four votes.

There was probably a delegate for every vote, and among the eighty-four delegates there were just seventeen white men by actual count.

The colored contingent played by far the most important part and made the most noise in the convention.

The special business of the gathering was to elect delegates to the state and Congressional Republican conventions.

This business was gone into and while there was no special dispute or bickering, there was nothing like order preserved. The delegates moved back and forth talking and consulting and kept up a continual and deafening buzz all the time.

Henry Keith arose and with difficulty managed to make it understood that he was opposed to electing any government officer as a delegate. This brought on some discussion, but the words of those who expressed themselves could not be caught on account of the buzz.

The election of delegates to the State Convention was the first business taken up. Eight delegates were wanted and there were about twenty nominations, among whom were Sheriff J. R. Rogers, Chas. D. Upchurch, J. P. H. Adams and A. W. Shaffer.

On the first ballot six delegates were elected and the other two were chosen on the second ballot. They were H. T. Jones, James H. Harris, T. P. Devereux, J. H. Young, J. C. L. Harris, W. S. Mitchell, L. M. Green and Joseph Buffaloe. Three of the delegates are white.

Shaffer, Upchurch, Rogers and Adams all ran very low in the ballot. They all hold big offices at the hands of the Republicans, but they were evidently not in favor as delegates.

Alternates were also elected. A motion was made here to let the chairman appoint the alternates, but a colored delegate made a big kick at this, saying it was a scheme to get delegates into the convention under the direction of the chairman—or the man who occupied the chair. They were therefore elected by ballot.

Congressional Delegates.

The next business was the election of delegates to the Congressional convention. The balloting for the other delegates had been tedious and slow, and a scheme was now resorted to in order to get through with business quick. To an outlooker it seemed that some schemers were trying to carry out their plans, and in consequence of this, they were anxious to get through with the work.

Instead of balloting for Congressional delegates, a motion was made to appoint a committee of five to retire and report eight names for election of delegates. This was done, and in a few minutes the committee reported the following: Joseph Pierce, Berry O'Kelly, C. L. Harris, Andrew Simmons, C. H. Beine, J. W. Harris, T. R. Debnam and F. M. Sorrell.

This completed the work and the convention adjourned.

During the session, James H. Harris made a rabid Republican speech, and said that if now and then some man who should be put in office by the party should prove a rascal, that the party and its principles should not be held responsible for that; but the man should be bounced and another man put in his place.

Just after the convention adjourned, Jim Young, who was elected a delegate to the State convention, was heard to say to another colored delegate:

"I got all the votes in the convention except three. Shaffer, Lochman and Beine could not stand the 'nigger,' and wouldn't vote for me."

King Cotton has Come

and with his advent comes the busy days preparatory for the fall trade. We have all had our vacations. Some among the mountains, some at the sea-shore. All have enjoyed the great rest during the dull, hot months of Summer; and have returned brighter and stronger in mind and body. The coming season will in all probability be one of unusual activity in all branches of trade; and in anticipation of this, early preparations are being made on an elaborate scale, to meet all demands. We have been busy for some days past in going through our several departments, selecting all odd lots, short prices, and in fact, thoroughly pruning each department of all unsaleable goods. We shall open the fall trade with the best selected, brightest, and most elegant line of goods we have ever opened with. In our shoe department we have no odds and ends. We do not keep any on hand long enough for them to get old. We have the cleanest stock of shoes in the State, At SWINDELL'S.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Georgia Hulse McLeod.

Death did not claim our sister, and the pure dreams of childhood, or the flush of bright young manhood. In the maturity of ripened age and rich experience, having blessed the world while she lived in it, she has passed from us into a higher and far more blissful life—even an heavenly existence, duty came oftentimes clad in sorrow and draped in grief, yet, through all she beheld the smiling face of the "Father," and caught, by faith, sweet glimpses of the "home rest and home" awaiting her "beyond the smiling and the weeping."

Always a zealous promoter of the temperance cause, and a faithful member and officer of the W. C. T. U., of Raleigh, first organized by her, signalize her worth and services and give expression to our sense of loss in the following resolutions:

1st. That in the death of Mrs. George Hulse McLeod, the W. C. T. U. has lost one of her most faithful standard bearers, whose various gifts—a devoted heart, a facile pen, and a steady purpose to use her every influence against TEMPERANCE.

2nd. That we pledge ourselves never, while life lasts to cease to pray for the repose of her great loving heart—her bright and if wandering far from home on the dark mountains of sin, mid storms fierce and wild, temptations and ruin on every side—that sweet echoes of that "Mother's" never sleeping love may come with resistless force, and draw him back from the dark abyss yawning to receive him—back into the straight and narrow way that leadeth unto the gate of life.

These with mother and son we pray God it may be our happy lot to gather, and in the presence of our King "inscribe honor and power and glory unto him who hath so wondrously loved us and redeemed us."

MRS. W. S. BLACK,

Mrs. E. C. BECKWITH,

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

New York, Aug. 25.—Messrs. Hubbard, Price & Company, in their cotton circular to-night say: The sales of spot cotton in Liverpool were 8,000 bales, and the near positions at one o'clock were a point above Saturday's closing.

There was considered a poor response to the advance of Saturday here, and this market at the opening, though well supported on September, was about three points below Saturday's close. The feeling, however, was firm, and it was not until rumors of a drop of four points in Liverpool, coupled with suggestions of the entire collapse of the bull movement and its most conspicuous leader, that a selling movement set in here only culminated at the close with prices on August and September respectively twenty and twenty six points lower than on Saturday. The distant months have also been quite weak today and have sympathized quite substantially in the decline. The utter demoralization which is developing in Liverpool makes opinions as to the further course of prices valueless, but cotton at six pence in the foreign markets is hardly above its intrinsic value.

Sales of futures to day were 81,400 bales.
