To begin with, she has a Cuban and a Spanish flag side by side, and surrounding them is a little silk flag, our own Old Glory, which was used in the first celebration of the Fourth of July in Manila. Her father, who is one of the most loyal Americans, insisted that the stars and stripes be placed over the others, and the very way in which they are arranged tells the story. She wears at her throat two gold coins, fashioned into a breastpin, which were taken from a dead Filipino's pocket by a young officer. There are articles of embroidery which are simply beautiful, the work being so finely wrought that the reverse side is as perfect as the right. Part of this dainty embroidery is done on a transparent material woven from fine fiber. Some of the embroidered work was in the shape of large handkerchiefs to be worn across the shoulders, and others in cape-shaped effects. One of the latter was taken from Aguineldo's home just after the family had taken their flight.

POLLY LARKIN

The Lenten season is past and there is a return to the gayeties, and the studying of time-tables and advertisements for the most favored places for our summer exodus, which comes to San Francisco every year as sure as the trade winds, the latter managing to make things so unpleasant that every one who can get out of the city leaves just as soon as the schools are closed and the summer resorts open. Some of the so-called summer boarding places in the country that are advertised so extensively are mere fairy tales, a sort of "will you walk into my parlor" said with the spider to the fly. The advertisement is alluring, and the guileless city visitor, who in imagination sees the table groaning under the weight of fried spring chicken, cream gravy, hot biscuit, luscious strawberries and peaches and cream galore, in more than one instance finds the table minus all delicacies, and chickens, if they are served at all on the bill of fare, are no spring chickens of 1901. The shady walks in romantic spots, the rides around the country, which turns out to be a ride into town, once a week for the mail, and the restful hammock, where one can lounge and dream to their heart's content, prove to be mere myths. But these instances, fortunately, are the exception and not the rule. "Where are you going for your summer vacation?" is the query of nearly every one you meet.

I met a lady the other day who has "money to throw away," and whose only trouble seems to be to try and kill time which hangs heavily on her hands. "See this, Polly," she said, displaying a time-table of the California Northwestern Railway, "I have been to the region of Mount Shasta, I've been to Pacific Grove and old Monterey, and to the sunny south-namely, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and San Diego. I was tired of them all. I acted on the advice given in one of your articles last year and went north on the California Northwestern Railway. I thought you were fairy-storying a little bit, or in other words, drawing on your imagination to some extent; but I never had a more delightful summer. The attractions all along the line are numerous, either for campers, boarders, or those who prefer to rent a cottage at any of the many summer resorts. Besides, it is convenient; for any place I may take up my quarters is close enough to the city for members of my family to get out of town and spend Sunday with me. It is all you have pictured it, Polly-scenery beautiful, climate perfect, and the whole country is a wilderness of lovely flowers, ferns, etc. I visited the California Northwestern Fish Hatchery at Ukiah, you told us about. It is a wonderful thing to see the myriads of haly trout swarming in the tanks by the thousands, and, besides, it is set down in one of the most beautiful gems of nature I have ever seen. I have several time-tables for friends. Some of them, however, have already decided to pitch their tents in that most beautiful camping ground in the vicinity of Guerneville on a branch line of the California Northwestern Railway. It is somewhere in the vicinity of their jinks the Bohemian Club holds its high jinks every year. Others are going to some of the numerous springs, while those who want to avoid this dressing for dinner, etc., and want really a quiet and restful vacation, are either going to board in one of the pretty towns or in some of the many attractive country homes along this favored line."

Polly has heard of guardian angels ever since I was big enough to read Sunday School books and hear fairy tales, and have met some few persons in my life who were entitled to the name and by far too modest to claim it. I have one in mind now who is true blue. She is bright, intelligent and has a winning way about her that brings her many friends and holds them as well. She is a true friend of the soldier boys, and if anyone has any doubt as to the light in which they regard her they should visit her home. You might call it a home of reminiscences of the war with Spain and the Filipinos. It is filled with trophies, etc., brought by the soldier boys to the lady who, aided by her whole family, carried on the good work of making it pleasant for the boys in blue who had pitched their tents in the Presidio. It would require columns to tell you of all the things of interest in her home, and then you could not half do the subject justice.

M. Parsons and his associates have bonded 9000 acres of land for $440,000, and their contract is that they commence work within ninety days, but they are making arrangements to begin drilling in thirty days. The land lies near Lane's Bridge and belongs to a Mr. Miller.

HUMBOLDT.

The City Council of Eureka, by a vote of 4 to 1, passed the franchise of the California Northern Railroad Company, a corporation of which John L. Koster of the California Barrel Company is the leading spirit. This company is now building between Eureka and Arcata, and intends to extend the road to Crescent City. Much of the road is completed to Arcata. The franchise allows the company to lay track along the water front.

After two attempts at suicide Dan Dillon, an employe of the Vance Redwood Company at Eureka, ended his life by the first attempt. He was found with a dull pocket-knife, but the wound was not serious, then a razor was used. Dillon was taken to the county hospital, where he died soon after his arrival. He is believed to have been insane.

KERN.

Harry Scott, a carpenter of Bakersfield, reported that he had been stung by a Mexican. The wound is in the back on the left side and is serious, and several days must elapse before anything more definite can be learned. A Mexican has not yet been apprehended. The wound is in the back.

LOS ANGELES.

George Ford, an ex-convict, escaped from the city jail at Los Angeles and has not yet been recaptured. Ford was placed in an old unused cell in which one of the window bars had been partially sawed off. The bar was caught by Ford, and he jumped out of the ground and escaped. He was in jail charged with an assault with a deadly weapon.

The deputy constable at Claremont was notified by two boys that they had secured a good deal of trouble for a man body in the brush northwest of that town. The member was wrapped in cotton and inclosed in a newspaper dated March 13, 1901. At a point where the leg was found was a hole about ten inches deep and eight inches long, indicating that the package had been buried and afterward dug up by some animal.

A new stock company, to be known as the Mason Hardware Company, has been organized. The capital is $100,000, and the company will conduct a general hardware business.

A frightful accident occurred at Glen Blair, where a little Nellie Sherwood, aged 10 years, was hurt on the hand. Her long hair got caught in the gearing and was drawn in until half of the scalp was torn asunder, leaving the denuded half skull.

MARIN.

The first batch of convicts released from San Quentin prison under the provisions of the act passed by the legislature and known as the "Monday law," left the prison April 7th. Their departure was the cause of much excitement among the convicts, nearly all of whose terms will be shortened from one to three days through the provisions of this law. In the future, instead of being released on the day upon which their sentence expires, they will be released on the Monday preceding that date. By this means all the convicts whose terms expire in any sp ecific week will be released on the first day of the week, even if their sentence does not expire until six days later. If a Monday happens to be a legal holiday the prisoners who would be released on that day will be released on the preceding Monday, so that it will be possible for a convict to secure his release thirteen days before his sentence expires.

NEVADA.

Edward Tulley, a pioneer resident to Nevada, with a capital in his yard addressed to himself and wife demanding that $5000 be placed in the vicinity of where the letter was found or he and his wife would be murdered. The letter bore the date of San Francisco, and was dated in the name of a man who is about 50 years of age, has quite a fortune. He did not pay any attention to the letter. He suspects a local person is the author, but will not mention any name. The letter was written on a typewriter and also threatened to burn his home.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Paul Warren, a discharged trooper of the First Cavalry, fired a bullet into his brain at the Cliff House and died instantly. No cause is assigned for the act.

A floating exposition, carrying samples of our merchandise around the world and putting our merchandise in touch with those of all nations, is receiving the hearty endorsement of representative business men of San Francisco.

Two little girls were robbed of their jewelry by a pleasant thief. Edith Bashford, aged 8 years, and her little sister Connie, aged 6 years, were playing in the street near their home at 177 Thirteenth street, when they were approached by a young man who smiled so pleasantly at them and talked baby talk so winningly that they quickly forgot their caution. When he admired the pretty silver bracelets that adorned their dimpled wrists Edith readily loosened her bangle and gave it to the stranger that he might examine it more closely. The stranger then took Connie's bracelet and a gold ring from her finger. Having taken all the valuables in sight he bade the children goodbye and joined his two companions

CALIFORNIA.

SANTA CLARA.

The recent heavy frosts have done great damage to the fruit crop of the valley. The foothills have escaped, as far as can be learned. Apricots suffered the most, in many sections the fruit being frozen when the thermometer was down to 29 degrees. The apricot crop of the valley will be light. Prunes have not been affected to any extent. The cherries have suffered some and the early grapes are ruined.

The body of John Connelly, a wood-chopper, was found in his cabin in the morning. The rights, with the head almost severed from the body. The neighbors who found the body believed that he had been murdered, but after an investigation it was decided that it was a case of suicide. Connelly had rigged up a gulleline and cut off his own head. He swung a broadax by a rope in such a position that when he cut a cord the ax would fall on a block of wood conveyed on a pulley. The plan worked effectively, as death was instantaneous.

SHASTA.

The late frosts have played havoc with the fruit regions of Shasta county. About Anderson, in Happy valley, and along the Churoy river, the damage has been greatest. The almond and apricot crops will be a total loss. Peaches and prunes, the great staple, it is feared, are half destroyed. Pears suffered least, one-third being lost. The districts named as damaged are almost the sole fruit producers of Shasta county, and the industry in them has become an important factor in wealth producing.

An attempt was made at Elmore station to wreck the northbound passenger train. The plan was to ditch the heavy train by driving a log pile below the track bed. A discarded tie had been placed across the rails, to which it was bound by ropes at the north end of tunnel 5. A few feet beyond the obstruction a bridge spans the river for the support of the track. Luckily the engineer saw the tie when his engine was still in the tunnel and he came to a stop within a few feet of the obstruction that might have thrown 100 people into the river.

SAN BERNARDINO.

The merchants of San Bernardino will take advantage of the visit of President McKinley to Southern California next month to hold a street fair from the 24 to the 27th of May. There will be a combination something on the plan of a three-day circus. The old-fashioned horticultural and agricultural fair of the Twenty-eighth Agricultural district; the up-to-date street fair, with its booths along the streets, and that for the outside, the fair which thrives peculiarly only in southern counties and is called for want of a better name a carnival, will be incorporated into one grand jubilee celebration.

SACRAMENTO.

William N. Baker and William Dolan started in to clean out the saloon at Mayhew station, nine miles from Sacramento, and after being warned out of the place, Baker was shot and killed by Harry H. Johnson, one of the proprietors. Baker was 33 years old and had a wife and three-year-old child. The saloon was a well-known one and had caused a great deal of trouble in the neighborhood. Dolan is of a similar disposition when under the influence of liquor.

SAN LUIS OBISPO.

A fire broke out and consumed one of the principal business blocks of San Luis Obispo, including the Occidental and Levinger hotels, the building of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the opera-house, besides several buildings and barns. The loss is about $10,000, partially covered by insurance. All one building was destroyed, and the Levinger Hotel was the largest in the town, situated opposite the railroad station. It was valued at about $5000 and insured for $2225.

SONOMA.

The destruction of Rose's cannery at Santa Rosa by fire was undoubtedly the work of tramps, although whether intentional or accidental, it is impossible to learn. The loss will reach between $400 and $5000. Most of the property was allowed to lapse about ten days ago.

SANTA CRUZ.

Eastern capitalists are at Santa Cruz prospecting for iron ore. If found in sufficient quantity active development will be begun.

SANTA BARBARA.

Frank N. Gutierrez, one of the best known Spanish-American citizens of Santa Barbara, is missing, and his friends fear foul play. Gutierrez was City Clerk of Santa Barbara for thirty years, and during the last few years has been a teacher of Spanish. He had many pupils in the city, among them several Eastern tourists. The police and sheriff's office are scouring the country in search of him.

SAN JOAQUIN.

"Windy" Hayes, a well-known character who ran over and killed by the Bakersfield local at Tracy. He was herding stock near town, and it is supposed that his horse threw him while crossing the track.

PACIFIC COAST.

ALASKA.

Travel to Nome from Seattle is beginning to be lively.

Pneumonia is very prevalent in the Klondike. Colonel J. C. McCook, of the United States Consul, was very ill on April 20. Frank J. Becher, one of the richest men of the Klondike, recently died of the disease just as he was about to leave for his home in Pennsylvania, where he proposed to retire on a fortune of at least $600,000 which he had accumulated in the El Dorado district. A number of other deaths have resulted from the disease.

OREGON.

B. F. Durphy, who was arrested in Eureka, Cal., on March 31st by an Oregon deputy sheriff on a charge of bigamy, has arrived in Portland in charge of an officer. Durphy was admitted to bail in the sum of $1000.

WASHINGTON.

The second consignment of California oranges, comprising 5430 boxes or fifteen carloads, arrived at Seattle on the Umattilla of the Pacific Coast Steamship line. The shipment is from Los Angeles and is destined for Minneapolis, where it will be distributed by the agent of the Southern California Fruit-growers' Association. The special train conveying the consignment left for its destination on the 14th inst. and will take about 108 hours to make the run. The fruit was stored in the ordinary refrigerator cars, although two of the cars were led by way of an experiment.

ARMY AND NAVY.

UNITED STATES.

The wholesale grocery dealers of Manila report doubled sales of groceries since the investigation into the alleged commissary scandal was commenced.

General Sandico, a former member of Aguineldo's Cabinet, has surrendered to the American authorities at Cabanatuan. He has a bad record and may be tried for a number of years.

It appears that the majority of the Filipinos in Manila distrust Aguineldo and dislike to see him accord special favors. They say that he ought to be severely punished.

Privates Edward Brodie and James F. Coffey, Troop C, Third Cavalry, were recently convicted by court-martial at Manila of murder of the convict Pulman to imprisonment at hard labor for life.

Lieutenant James D. Taylor Jr., of the Twenty-fourth United States Infantry, with kindness and seven cigars, the information that enabled General Funston to capture Aguineldo.

General MacArthur says it is impossible to make a statement concerning Aguineldo now. It is said that the manifesto which Aguineldo has been preparing has not yet been signed, and it is added that Aguineldo is reluctant to comply with the conditions.

An attempt was made to wreck No. 1 westbound Short Line passenger train at Malad bridge, 100 miles east of Boise, Idaho. A large number of ties were piled on the track. The engineer did not see the obstruction in time to stop the train. The pilot of the engine was damaged and brake beams were broken under some of the cars.

An order has been issued from the War Department, honorably discharged five Majors from the volunteer service only. Among them is Major Oscar F. Long, depot Quartermaster at San Francisco. The commission of the Major was held during the Spanish War, but the Long was in the regular army in the transport service as temporary promotion. Major Long will resume his rank as Captain in the regular army.

The trial of M. Brics Hoeltermann, the Belgian, who was convicted by the Philippine Trading Company, and who was arrested on a charge of furnishing supplies to the insurgents, has been completed. The evidence of the Philippine Colonel, Herrera, who recently surrendered, in his recollection. He testified that Hoeltermann had furnished money and rice supplies to the insurgents.

Trias, the Filipino General who recently surrendered, will soon leave Manila for Lipa and Batangas, bearing the credentials from Aguineldo with which he is to treat for the release of his insurgent General Malvar, Tinio and Lucban. Generals Alejandro, Cailles and Lacuna have been outlawed for violating the rules of war, and the remaining rebel officers and 16 officers and 70 men in Bulacan province and other points.

CHINA.

Russia is said to have no intention of giving up her place in China, but will hold fast to Manchuria.

It is believed that the Mongolian rebellion was brought on by the agents of Prince Tuan and General Tung Fu Hsiang.

It is asserted on good authority that Russia is willing to give Japan a free hand in Corea with a view to preventing her assuming a hostile attitude.

The Chinese, in sections beyond the defended line of railway, have organized bands and are overriding the authorities, persecuting Christians and creating chaos everywhere.

Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching have received information of the outbreak in the northern provinces, which, though indefinite, still proves that the court is seriously alarmed.

The rumors which have been current lately of the outbreak of a rebellion, headed by General Tung Fu Hsien, the former commander of the northern army, in the provinces of Mongolia and Shensi, have been absolutely authenticated.

According to expert opinion China would be able to pay from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 sterling without crippling her financial resources, while the amount which the powers at present demand aggregate from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000.
