The Fishing Otter.
The otter used by Scottish poachers is one of the most deadly fishing instruments known.

An Awakener.
A preacher, raising his eyes from his desk in the midst of his sermon, was paralyzed with amazement to see his rude son in the gallery pelting the hearers in the pews below with horse chestnuts.

A Light Repast.
Hungry Horace—Kind lady, can't ye gimme somepin ter eat? I ain't ate nothin since day before yesterday.

The Candid Suburbanite.
"Suppose people around here raise their own vegetables?"
"Some do; others merely plant them."

Hawk and Partridge.
In "Reminiscences of a Falconer" Major Fisher describes the tactics of a partridge when pursued by a tame falcon.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor.

This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

AFTER THE QUARREL

A single smile from her rosy mouth, A sudden glance from her soft eyes sent, And he turned, as the wind veers north or south, And followed whither her light feet went.

Did she lift her face and smile again? Did she linger and look for a moment that she might see his face and smile again?

Did she love him more when she looked and smile? Did she love him less when she wore her veil?

A BIG WEDDING FEE.

The Generous Uses to Which Henry Ward Beecher Put It. In his "Eccentricities of Genius" Major Pond says that often while traveling Henry Ward Beecher improved his time by having what he called "a general housecleaning" of his pockets, which would get loaded up with letters and papers until they could hold no more, and when he would clear them out and destroy such papers as were worthless.

On one occasion Beecher happened to put his hand in the watch pocket of his pantaloons and found there a little envelope which he opened. When he saw its contents, he called Major Pond to sit beside him and remarked: "You remember the evening I married C. P. Huntington. I was so much interested in the subject that I forgot he handed me a little envelope as he went out of the door. I put it in the watch pocket of my pantaloons and never thought of it again until just now, and here it is, four $1000 bills. Now," he said, "don't tell any one about it, and we will have a good time and make some happiness with this money. We will just consider that we found it."

And so in a day or two Mr. Beecher went with Major Pond to look at a cargo of the oriental rugs, many of which he purchased and sent to different friends, and afterward he spent what remained of the money for coin silver lamps, unmounted gems and various pieces of bric-a-brac, all of which he gave away until he had used up the entire $4000 "in making happiness among those whom he loved."

After Mr. Beecher's death the major related to Mr. Huntington the incident of this discovery of the four $1000 bills, and the railway magnate observed: "I should never have given them to him. It was all wrong. I made a mistake. Money never did him any good."

The Questions of Clarence. "Well, Clarence, what is it?" asked the boy's papa.

"I didn't say anything, papa," replied Clarence.

"I know you didn't, but it is fully five minutes since you asked a question, and I know from experience that an other is due about this time."

"Well, papa, what are all those big United States flags made of?" asked the boy.

"Some of them are made of silk, Clarence, but by far the greater number are made of bunting."

"And, papa?"

"Well, Clarence?"

"Are the little flags made of baby bunting?" - Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

A Rat(Ussack) Story. In "Life and Sport on the Pacific Coast," Horace A. Vachell relates one of his narrow escapes from a friend's bullet: "My cousin and I had been camping and hunting for several days in a sort of paradise valley. One day, during a long ride on horseback, we had seen a great many rattensnakes, and killed a few, an exceptional experience. That night my cousin woke up and saw, by the light of the moon, a big rattler crawling across my chest. He lay for a moment fascinated, horror-struck, watching the sinuous curves of the reptile.

"Then he quietly reached for his six shooter, but he could not see the reptile's head, and he moved nearer, noiselessly, yet quickly, dreading some evil omen. He saw the head, and he clapped the very thing he dreaded, and then he saw that it was not a snake at all—only the black and yellow stripe of my blanket, which gently rose and fell as I breathed. Had he fired—well, it might have been bad for his head, for he confessed that his hand shook."

Valley Notes.

(Condensed from Echo.) Henry Lambing, a gentleman who left Ione 13 years ago, and has since resided in Colorado, and has also married, arrived in town Thursday from Breckenridge with his family. He will live at the Lambing mine.

A few days ago Mrs. Joseph Fithian caught her foot in a wire while walking in her garden, and was thrown to the ground with such violence as to severely injure a weak knee.

That there is money in grapes has been demonstrated again this year by E. Merkel of Union district. He has four and one half acres in zinfandels, and has just harvested the crop. He sold 19 tons of grapes and 400 gallons of wine, receiving for the same $577, more than $100 per acre, and with but little labor.

R. F. Freeman, the aged veteran, who is one of Uncle Sam's pensioners, was made happy the other day. Last Monday he received notice that the back pension he had been seeking, amounting to $144, had been awarded him, and would soon be remitted.

Last Saturday John Kaufman, a young man from Stockton, met with a distressing accident. He and his partner were felling a tree on the Swift place on Dry creek, when the back of Kaufman's right hand came in contact with the keen blade of the other fellow's ax, and the hand back of the knuckles was nearly cut in twain. Thirteen stitches were required to get the lacerated edges together.

C. G. Noble has purchased the Echo from J. E. Barnes. For the past few months he has been running it, on an option to purchase, and concluded to avail himself of the option. J. E. Barnes and family will locate in Shasta county.

The Children's Friend. You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless.

C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup last one night, and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup." Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.
