Editor and Manager: R. WEBB. FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1902. THE MOUSE HATH LABORED.

Our wrought-up cotemporary has just discovered that the individual that steps out of his way to stir up a hornet's nest is apt to get stung.

Usually that sort of knowledge dawns upon the understanding at a very tender age. But he is out of the ordinary run, and hence this very necessary chunk of wisdom has overtaken him late in life.

What was particularly hard on him was that he got no sympathy even in the house of his friends. The universal verdict was that he got just what he had been unwittlingly hankering after for, these many moons.

IN NO COMPARISON. The lone Echo says, concerning bridge contracting in Amador county:

An exemplification of the difference between letting bridge building by private contract and by bids was noticed in the last proceedings of the board of supervisors. They let a contract for a 40-foot span steel bridge at Jackson for $1700.

Such a scene never occurred. He was attacked in the express office, but not hurt in the least. What for? For doing that which the editor of the Dispatch has never been guilty of—exposing the looting of an estate in probate.

He four discredited brother editor has never attempted to enter the ministry and been rejected. This simply paralyzes us. It is the first intimation we have ever had that we have made a failure of anything we ever undertook in earnest.

DEPARTMENT OF MINES. Congressman Woods is working hard in behalf of his bill for the establishment of a department of mines and mining. He is losing no opportunity to impress the necessity for the creation of such a department under a special cabinet officer, upon the public mind.

COUSING AT SUTTER CREEK.

Bulldog vs. Greyhound. The first coursing match that we remember to have taken place in Amador county took place in Sutter Creek last Sunday afternoon, on Tanner hill, near the Central Eureka mining ground.

Chinn responded that he would be there on time with his dog. Accordingly, he, with a friend named Charles Archer, from Stockton, repaired to the rendezvous. Now, wherever Chinn goes his bulldog, George Washington, accompanies him.

Another hare was turned loose, and a pair of hounds took up the trail. Arriving at the field, the first hare was turned loose, and a couple of hounds slipped from their leashes. Geo. W., like the rest of the scrub animals on the ground, were left to run at large.

So for the remainder of the day the coursing went on in orthodox fashion, Hancock's dog capturing one, Rodgers' dog another, and so on.

A Deep Mystery. It is a mystery why women endure Backache, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells when they should be proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles.
