LETTER FROM ALASKA.
SKAGWAY, ALASKA, June 15.
Dear Ledger:—
From present indications the oil fields of Alaska equal any in the world, both in quality and quantity. Evidences of petroleum had long been noticed along the coast from Yakutat to Iliamna, over 400 miles, but the first actual development was done last fall, four miles from Catella. A 10 inch well was driven through drift, sandstone, and shale 365 feet, when oil was struck which spouted more than 30 feet in the air. As it was late in the season the well was capped and work suspended. I visited it May 9th. It is four miles from the shore, and about eight feet of snow remained on the ground. A short distance below the well is a lake of petroleum several rods in extent, fed by a rill that oozes up outside the casing, and has wasted many thousands of barrels during the winter. People help themselves to all they please for kindling fires and samples to take away. Analysis shows this oil to be gasoline, illuminating and lubricating oils, except less than 10 per cent coke and waste, the base being paraffine. This season several more wells will be bored. People and machinery are arriving by every boat. The coast will be charted this summer, and it is thought a good harbor will be found at Martin's Island, four miles west of Catella. Of course it will take some time for wharves, tanks, pipe lines, etc., to be built. The whole country has been staked, some of it two or three times by the outrageous power of attorney system which seems to have been devised for the benefit of the lawyers. One man has staked over 20,000 acres on paper, not even going upon the land, simply recording the claims and laying the foundation for a contest when the land's value shall have been proved by actual prospectors. It will be a repetition of the Nome rascalities which gave that region a black eye and retarded its development. A more absurd system of Superintendent Collins of the Smuggler Union mine at Telluride, Colorado, was assassinated last November, the culmination of labor troubles in that district. A special grand jury indicted 25 persons for complicity in the riots and other crimes that kept the camp in a state of turbulence and panic. A number of the indicted individuals were apprehended, and gave bonds. On account of technical defects the indictments were set aside by the district court. Thereupon the district attorney prepared informations, and had warrants of arrest for the accused. But all of the persons indicted took advantage of their release and left for other parts. Only one of the many mills of the Smuggler Union Company has been run since the trouble occurred. But with the flight of the principal agitators it is expected that other mills will start up, and the camp resume its old-time prosperity.

Jim Dumps was father of a lass Who, by her brightness, led her class.

misgovernment never was devised than that which congress has inflicted upon Alaska. I don't mean that it was intentionally vicious, but attempting to govern an unknown region more than 4000 miles distant through a set of officials appointed, in most instances to get rid of them, could naturally have but one result. It is probable, however, that the wrongs of Alaska will be lessened as they become better understood.

May 11th I left Catella and crossed to Kayak on a steam launch, where I had to wait until the 17th for a steamer. On the 18th I overcame my seasickness enough to enjoy the sight of Mt. Elias holding its colossal form of marble whiteness 18,000 feet above Malaspina glacier, which is the largest on the continent, having a surface of 1500 square miles, and extends from the St. Elias range to the coast.

At Yakutat the ship tied up to a wharf that had been built in the last six weeks. Upon it lay a large pile of rails for a road that was already graded as far as we could see into the hills. The superintendent told me they were building nine miles of railroad to bring out lumber to supply the demand that is being created in this region.

May 21st I landed at Juneau, and after a 10 days' stay there and on Douglas Island I sailed on the Florio, a local steamer that stopped at the mining camps of Yankee Cove, Berner's Bay, Seward City and the town of Haines, where Uncle Sam is spending $265,000 in a permanent army post, and arrived in Skagway June 2d in time for lunch with the children, whom I found well and happy.

Skagway is recovering from the depression that followed its boom, and several long-headed residents are buying property whenever it is offered at a bargain. It has about 1500 inhabitants, and does a good local trade as well as a heavy wholesale business with the interior. The White Pass and Yukon R. R. is receiving more freight than ever before, much of which is heavy machinery, mostly for Dawson and Atlin. Freight to the American Yukon generally goes by St. Michaels.

Skagway is full of people who are waiting to go "inside" when the ice breaks up in Lake Lebarge. This is the latest season ever known, but the lake was breaking three days ago. To-morrow, June 15th, I start with a party of argonauts for the far north. May send you my diary in sections. Good bye for this time.
