SOME OF OUR PROBLERIS.

The chilbren are the hope of the lathl. The future of thi. conntry depseds upon the children now living in it. Thes should have the very host enviloumeut possible. The future or the child d-pends largely upon the samitary sondition of the home and the commu:ity is which it lives I mu-t confers that 1 do not know exact!? where it slould bo tatught, for the delicacy of the matter seen s to beg a barrier in the way, but somewhere inthe economy of educational work there shoutd be taught lezsons that would impress the pupils with the sense of raising children.
This nation is ignorant upon the theme. Few mothers know how to deal with the little child that is born into their housthoid and the father usually knows less than the mother. If there was not a special providence exercised over the children, the Lord only knows what would berome of them. Their litte barks are launched upon dangerour seas. It is miraculons that as many live to he grown up men and women as d.s. But the cenetery clains far tox many of the infants born inls our homes. The death rate of infants among the wealthier is not more than 8 p-w ontat, whil among the very poor it is to p i cent. The enviroanent in the home of the wealthy is mose it faver of the chitctian it is in the home of the poor. It has such attention at the hands of those to whom it is entrusted as to make it pos itle for more than one.hatf of them to corrtinue their existence in the world. Indeed, there is no reason why even a larger per cent should be assisted to cleave on to life.

If we kne $\vec{W}$ better how to care or the little ones we would thereby be enabied to steer clear of so much poverty and crime. The child that is brought in contacl with poverty and crime from the very beginning of it: existence im the world is almost sure to grow up and be a criminal. It wonld be economic fo this uation of ours to take more interest in the chidren born i o her homes. Until sometling is done we may expect to sce t've little white hearse wending daily. Let us awak= to the situation that confronts us, and if there is any thing that can be lone to reduce infant mortality, let it be done quickly.-Star Telegram.
