"We Want Your Trade"

STATE CAPITOL NOTES

Santa Fe, N. M., May 1.—Lieutenant Governor E. C. de Baca is acting governor and is a very busy man. He is positive in his statement that the senate journal as it was offered to the secretary of state for filing is a false journal, and all he wants is a chance to prove it. Owing to the activities of the legal adviser to the governor, Attorney Wade, and Attorney J. H. Crist, the other fellows have been given several opportunities to prove that the journal has not been tampered with, but for some reason, which they do not explain, they have douped the issue.

A mandamus has been asked for which seeks to force the state auditor to pay the traveling auditor and bank examiner his salary. There was a former suit which was to prevent the state auditor from paying the salary, and expenses of the state traveling auditor, and the issues are sufficiently numerous to give several opportunities for trying out the senate journal matter. The state traveling auditor is a new creation, and is appointed by the state auditor, who is another kind of auditor; and the traveling auditor and bank examiner is the old official appointed by the governor.

The contention is that the bill creating the state traveling auditor did not repeal the law creating the traveling auditor and bank examiner because it was not set out in its title, as provided for in the constitution. But what does that constitution amount to, anyhow, as it has been shot full of holes?

The warmest thing in politics just now is the local option election in this very ancient burg. The wets ran wild for some time, capturing the city council and inaugurating a period of lawlessness, so far as selling liquor to minors and habitual drunkards is concerned, and they are also accused of other violations of law. And then the dries got busy and forced an election with every chance of winning in a walk. Chief Justice Roberts, Supreme Court Justice Hanna, District Judge Abbott, and many other prominent men are fighting for the dries, while Senator Catron and Marcelino Ortiz are leading the wets and claiming everything in sight.

The charges made by a Mrs. Stevenson, that the Pueblo Indians made human sacrifices to their gods is still creating much comment, and there is a general feeling that the government should undertake an investigation which would forever set at rest such reports. There are some men enough to insist that Mrs. Stevenson, if on the job, about the time of the Pilgrim Fathers, would have been quite prominent as a denouncer of witches. Another person is to the front as evidence to the fact that an Indian once sold Mrs. Stevenson a rain god for the small sum of fifty dollars, after he had held her with promises long enough to manufacture the said rain god, and that she is to this very day a firm believer in that fifty dollars worth of rain god.

Secretary of State Lucero is asking the co-operation of commercial bodies and the live men in the different communities in supplying literature descriptive of New Mexico to those many inquirers constantly writing to his office for information, which is best provided by the different communities. It would not be an ad idea for some enterprising citizen in each and every community to get into communication with the secretary as soon as possible.

The rains will cause the deep snow packs in the mountains to go off rather suddenly and the streams in the lower valleys will probably do some damage. So far as now known the cold spells have done no material damage to fruit except in isolated cases, although frosts or cold snaps any later will cause great damage.

The tax commission law is not going to work out, particularly if the protests of some of the corporations raised stick. The raise under the law on the corporations is about 12 per cent, and there is some question as to its being made good, while necessary raise against other classes of property will be from 70 to 100 per cent, and possibly more. The only explanation possible is the probability that the railroad attorneys had too much to do with the making of the law. Someone must pay the expenses of the state revisited for in the bills passed by the legislature, and if the railroad and other corporations can not be raised even 12 per cent, the people will be forced to stand for a raise of more than 100 per cent on other classes of property. It is now believed that the only thing the tax commission can do is to find what the real value of the taxable property of the state is, and as it will not be sufficient for the purposes, simply report it to the governor, and pass it up to that official. All the political troubles are passed up to him, anyhow.

MONUMENT MUSINGS.

A cross between a water spout and a hail storm struck this part of the Plains crosswise last Thursday evening shortly before sundown. It was the biggest rain of the year and considerable hail dropped, but not enough to damage the peach crop. All the peaches knocked off would have made more than two and a half coppers.

"Carlsbad's Best Store"

The program for Mother's Day carried out last Sunday at the Methodist church was very interesting and enjoyed by a large audience. All the numbers on the program were well rendered. The musical numbers were greatly enjoyed and most of them were furnished by the choir, the most touching of which was a solo, "My Mother's Song," by Mrs. J. C. Bunch, the audience singing for the chorus a stanza of "Amazing Grace," which was very sweet and pathetic, moving many to tears. The sermon to the mothers by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Redmon, held the rapt attention of the audience throughout and was favorably commented on by all who heard it. The flowers did not arrive, the order being received too late to be filled, but the service was otherwise carried out just as planned.

The boys enjoyed a picnic spread and an all-round good time, returning to town dry and none the worse for the venture.
