

THE PRESIDENT SELECTS BAKER OF CLEVELAND AS NEW WAR CHIEF

Successor to Garrison is only Forty-four Years Old, but is Regarded as Lawyer of Decided Ability

Wilson's Friend from University Days

Washington, March 6—Newton C. Baker, former mayor of Cleveland, has been selected by President Wilson for secretary of war. Mr. Baker has accepted the position.

Mr. Baker is a lawyer, and as a leader among Ohio Democrats has been a warm supporter of the Wilson policies since the pre-convention campaign in 1912. He has been a close personal friend of Mr. Wilson since the latter was his instructor years ago at John Hopkins university and was offered the post of secretary of the interior in the original Wilson cabinet, but declined because he was then mayor. He is understood to be in thorough accord with the president on the preparedness program and foreign questions.

A REMARKABLE ADVERTISEMENT

Today's Herald contains an advertisement, consisting of two full pages which is one of the most remarkable in all the records of publicity. The two pages of space are devoted almost entirely to a printing of the names of citizens of Albuquerque and ination of W. H. Andrews for the Bernalillo county who ask for the non-United States senate on the Republican ticket.

The list of names includes those of a great many of the substantial Republican business men of this city, and the document as a whole is a striking tribute from his fellow townsmen to a man in whose ability, efficiency and capacity for service they clearly believe.

It is quite certain, from this unusual petition and from other events now happening in the Republican party in this state, that that party could go much further and fare much worse than in nominating Mr. Andrews for the senate. Certainly none of the suggested Republican candidates will be able to go into the Republican state convention with as formidable a list of petitions from his home county as this one which friends of Mr. Andrews are very properly buying space in this newspaper to place before the public.

The Herald is a Democratic newspaper and if Mr. Andrews is nominated we will do what we can to defeat him. There is no questioning however, the quality of the strength of the demand for his nomination among his fellow Republicans in Albuquerque.

University Catalogs in Great Demand

Albuquerque, N. M., Mar. 7.—More than one thousand voluntary requests have come from New Mexico people for copies of the 1916-17 annual catalog of the New Mexico State University. This interesting fact was disclosed when the new catalog came from the press this week and distribution began from the executive offices. The requests, which had been coming in for the past three months, presented a formidable job for the mailing clerks and a count showed three times as many demands for the year book as had ever been recorded before.

To educators the demand for the University's catalog, and for information about the institution is significant of a number of interesting things. The first, is of course the growth of the University, under the management of President David R. Boyd. When Dr. Boyd assumed direction of the University four years ago, this coming summer, he did so after careful deliberation and after a careful study of the field. He had finished sixteen years of constructive work in the University of Oklahoma, which he took with an enrollment of nothing and left with an enrollment of 1600, and he gave as a result of his survey of the New Mexico field, the opinion that a development equally great could be brought about in New Mexico's University. He finally undertook the presidency here with the assertion that the work was to be his final effort in college building. Dr. Boyd set five years as the period necessary for bringing the University up to the standard of attendance proportionate to the state's population. It now begins to appear that he will reach the mark possibly before the five year period has ended. The new catalog shows this year's freshman class to number 75. It is now forecasted that graduating classes the freshman class to enter next August, and with practically every student of this year's lower classes returning, an enrollment of more than 400 is being predicted. This will bring the state University very close to the mark of a proper population proportion in its attendance.

The new catalog outlines a number of important betterments in course of study, in increased faculty force, in equipment and in buildings. Of the latter several will be started during the coming summer and one or two may be completed in time for use from the beginning of the next college year. The Pueblo type of architecture is to be maintained and extended to the new buildings and it is understood that the services of a famous firm of landscape architects have been secured for the planning of the new buildings, as well as the laying out and parking of the grounds.

Construction is now well under way on the new street car line to the University campus, and the recent opening of a large residence district immediately adjacent, and announcement of a number of handsome homes to be built therein, make it quite certain that the next year will witness a complete transformation from the old loneliness of the university buildings into a community of attractive dwellings centered around the institution. As nearly all of the new dwellings will have room for one or more students this phase of development will be of importance to those who do not care for the dormitory life.

Copies of the new catalog will be mailed on request to President Boyd at Albuquerque.

Mrs. E. A. Gibson returned to her home in Terre Haute, Indiana after spending the winter with relatives here. Miss Lillian Jones accompanied her to remain until next June, attend school and visit relatives in St. Louis and Illinois points. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will return at that time to reside permanently in Union county.
