

IN ONE YEAR NEWS MODERNIZES ITS PLANT AND DOUBLES WORKING FORCE

Those more or less halcyon days, but halcyon only because about the only turbulent piece of furniture in the shop was the big "jobber" on which The News was ground out one page at a time each week—have passed with the cast-off machinery into the realm of useless things, useless save for memory that serves now as incentive that those long weary days and longer and wearier nights, coupled with hard labor made possible a modern printing and newspaper plant.

Getting the Compositor Jagged
But those days that we mentioned concerned the time when Tom, Dick and Harry just "dropped in" to pay the office the customary "pleasant call," to read "copy" over the hand compositor's shoulder, to discuss "vital issues" with the latter and perchance invite him over to Tom Gray's to "have something" if the compositor was so disposed and he usually was. These calls had the distressing habit of coming in flocks and frequently had the knack of getting Mr. Compositor jagged and sometimes pickled—at a time when his services were paramount. But that didn't worry the boss much, for at that time the remnant of that vast army of pilgrim printers was making its last stand in the new southwest against its destined conqueror, the Linotype. If the compositor imbibed too freely it was something unusual not to replace him in twelve hours time with another printer.

But as we hinted at the beginning, "them days is went." Not that visitors are not still welcome to The News office—but because the visitors are like The News, they have prospered too, and are just as busy. "Nothing Succeeds Like Success"

Just a year ago the first standard Linotype invaded northeast New Mexico and became the first really modern piece of machinery in The News office. The numerous business building propensities of the Linotype, one combination job and ad compositor, one man to gather and write the news and still another to conduct the business department of the plant.

months ago, a Babcock Standard cylinder press which replaced the old job press and which doubtless has been cursed often and earnestly by the office tenants on the next floor. The new press prints four pages at once at the rate of 1200 per hour. With this additional equipment came more business, so that the problem of folding the papers was no longer a problem but became just plain nuisance, when one considers that it requires an entire day to fold, trim and mail papers to subscribers. Now comes a machine that abolishes this time consuming task. A piece of mechanism that attaches to the big press and without assistance of "human hands" folds, pastes, trims and delivers The News complete and ready for the mailing machine.

Can Compete with Our Big Brother
Each addition of modern machinery finds The News prepared to do just a little more of that class of work that has been necessary to send to the big cities for. Each piece of machinery permits each man in the shop to accomplish more of the work that must be done by hand. The addition of these labor saving devices allows our regular run of job printing to be executed in far less time than two years ago and above all The News can come nearer competing with the big city shops in the quality of work and what is most attractive to the large consumer of printing is that he can get his catalogues, or most any advertising literature right here at home at a price that compares favorably with our city competitor.

We believe we explain the situation when we say The News has kept in the first division with other business enterprises that have taken on such marvelous changes in the last few years. A year ago three people did ALL the work in The News plant. Now it requires the services of two printers in the news department, two in the job department, one combination job and ad compositor, one man to gather and write the news and still another to conduct the business department of the plant.

W. P. Cherry Burns to Death at Magenta

William P. Cherry, aged forty six years and leaving a widow and six children, was burned to death early Friday morning when a bunk in which he was sleeping at Magenta was consumed by fire.

Mr. Cherry will be remembered as a former citizen of this country, having for several years farmed about eight miles north of town, later living here, running a meat market and serving as deputy sheriff. His friends, of whom he had many, will learn with regret of his untimely demise.—Texline Enterprise.

Editor Says "Z" is the Goods

Ye editor and G. J. Margo made a hurry-up trip to Clayton Wednesday for a new gas engine with which to drive this type machine. We got Fairbanks-Morse's latest product, the Model Z, and must say it is a "plumb good un." Clayton appeared to be alive and busy. Herzstein's new Mission building, just completed, would do credit to any city no matter how large. Uncle Bob Isaacs is building an immense implement and hardware department across the street from his present location. He says he will have a grand opening first Monday in March and wants his Cimarron friends to come over then.—Boise City News.

Low Pressure

Maxwell Mail: Ves Laro was feeling bad the other morning and refused to leave his bed. Mrs. Laro was worried, so phoned the doctor. After asking what the trouble was, the doctor said he could not get down for a little while, and told Mrs. Laro that in the meantime, she could take Ves' temperature. Mrs. Laro had a big thermometer with a barometer as part of it. She put that on Ves and left it awhile, and then when she looked at it the barometer indicated "very dry!" So she sent over and got a "cold one" for Ves. When the doctor reached the house an hour later Ves had been to work for fifteen minutes and felt as well as he ever did in his life.

WOODMANSE WINDMILLS

We have just unloaded a carload of Woodmanse Windmills. These windmills have been manufactured since 1859 and are the best direct stroke mill on the market. Ask your Father about them, he knows.

After Lagrippe—What?

Coughs that "hang on" after lagrippe exhaust the strength and lower the vital resistance. F. G. Prevoy, Bedford, Ind., writes: "An attack of lagrippe left me with a severe cough. I tried everything. I lost in weight and got so thin it looked as if I would never get well. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar and two bottles cured me. I am now well and back to my normal weight." Foley's Honey and Tar gets right at the trouble. It is a safe, reliable remedy. —City Drug Store.
