The Contagious Strike Breaks Out Among the Cowboys.

Public Meetings of Socialists Prohibited in Germany.

A Death Dealing Hurricane Visits Ohio.

CLEVELAND, May 15.—A Leader's special from Forest, Ohio, says: The storm here last night was one of the most fearful that has ever visited this section of the country. It came up suddenly, about 10 o'clock, in the vicinity of Canton. A roaring noise accompanied the storm. In this vicinity it swept a clear track half a mile in width and ninety-five miles in length, but not striking the town to any extent.

Wm. McElroy, his wife and two children, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Higgins, were buried in the ruins of their large brick house, and the first named killed; the rest were injured, the last named probably fatally. Mrs. McElroy dug the others out from under the ruins.

Mrs. Lee was killed in her house. Isaac Lambert, 80 years of age, was buried under his house, and fatally injured. A. L. Packert was fatally injured by falling timbers. Thomas Moore was buried under the ruins of a large frame house and badly hurt. Charles Packert and J. V. Thompson, who were sleeping in the same bed in this house, were carried a long distance and again. Thomas Hart and wife were blown from their bed in the second story of their house, and the latter perhaps fatally injured. The ten-year-old son of Joseph Rummel had his collarbone broken and was otherwise hurt.

Two churches, the Union Bethel and Methodist, were destroyed. Two brick school houses were destroyed, the bell of one being carried a quarter of a mile. Trees were uprooted by the acre and hundreds of orchards completely destroyed. Some farms are swept clean of every thing. A large number of sheep and horses were killed. Trees were stripped of their bark and devastation and ruin are on every side. On the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railway a passenger train had every window blown from the cars and the pilot was blown off the engine and the steps blown away. Telegraph wires were lifted from the poles and carried long distances. The storm went in a northeasterly direction.

The storm has left a number of people without homes, and the sights along its track are terrible. A number of farms are made almost worthless.

The loss is estimated at about $350,000 or $400,000.

The Round-ups in Colfax County.

SPRINGER, N. M., May 15.—During the past few days Colfax county has been blessed with some fine rains and the grass is coming up nicely. The round-ups are very backward and from all indications, cattle deliveries are going to be quite late. Outfits that have started down to the lower country to begin their spring work are about a half, on account of the short grass in the lower country and the stock being in too poor a condition to work at present. The managers of the different round-up outfits are now endeavoring to remap out their herds, so as to work in harmony and not rush onto ranges and work the stock where they are known to be too poor to handle successfully.

A Just Jury Acquits Spear.

DENVER, Colo., May 15.—The trial of Postmaster Spear, of this city, upon indictments for perjury in entering public lands in Middle Park, was concluded in the United States district court this evening, after a session lasting four days. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty in less than ten minutes after receiving Judge Hallett's charge. The verdict was received with tumultuous applause by the immense crowd that filled the court room.

Sparks Again Put Out.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The secretary of the interior has rendered a decision in the case of R. M. Sherman and others, of Dakota, in which he reverses the decision of Commissioner Sparks and holds that Sherman, who had a second mortgage on a tract of land, the entry of which had been cancelled by the land office, was the party in interest and had such a standing in the case that he might be heard to maintain the validity of the entry is question.

New Mexico Quarantine Inspectors, Take Notice.

CHEYENNE, May 15.—Glanders has broken out among the horses at Rock Creek, in this territory, and the territorial veterinarian has been summoned to assist in stamping out the disease.

The Usual Result of a Drunken Row.

DENVER, May 15.—A Salida special to the News says: In a row between drunken charcoal burners at Brown's canon, Boon Bismeyer, a rough character, fatally stabbed John O'Mally and he is expected to die. Bismeyer is still at large.

They Won't Get Them.

DENVER, May 15.—A Cheyenne special to the Republican says: An extensive strike of cowboys is reported from the Sweet Water country. They want higher wages.

AN AWFUL EXPERIENCE.

A Passenger Train on the Fort Wayne Road Caught in a Cyclone.

PITTSBURG, May 15.—The Chicago express on the Fort Wayne road had a rough experience while passing through a tornado which struck eastern Ohio last night. The lightning flashed continually from the time the train left Fort Wayne, at 8 p. m., and the rain descended in almost solid sheets until Lima, Ohio, was passed. Such a storm raged of the passengers had ever seen before and the ladies, of whom there were quite a number on board, were greatly frightened, and the gentlemen were too much scared themselves to be of service in allaying their fears. The wind steadily increased in force, and the breaking of trees and the rustling of telegraph wires made an awful accompaniment of wind sounds. The train passed Forest, 229 miles west of Pittsburgh, about 10:35 p. m., and the engineer was then sending the locomotive along at about thirty miles an hour. The engineer put on more steam in the wind about three miles from Kirby, where the storm was at its height, suddenly in the distance and then a cyclone tore across the level plain on the south side of the track and catching a big tree tore it up by the roots and flung it across the cars. One limb struck the locomotive and cut the cow-catcher in two; another limb fell on the platform and steps of the first car and demolished it; other branches smashed in the windows along three ordinary cars and two Pullman sleepers. Telegraph poles came crashing down at the same time and rocks and bushes flew through the air in stormy fury. The car windows were smashed to pieces, and the cracked and splintered glass flew in every direction. The train kept on the rails and the engineer applying the air brakes brought it to a standstill within two hundred yards. Every passenger was in a paroxysm of fear, and the sleepers were transformed into dens of wildy excited men and women. The railway men kept fairly cool and as soon as they could assisted in restoring confidence. The storm continued and the air was still filled with the flying branches of trees and snags, while the glare of the electricity, liberated from the clouds, intensified the horror of the scene. Though every window in both the sleepers Eaden and Salamis was fractured and almost every pane of glass in the other cars smashed, it is remarkable that

THERE WAS A DULL ROAR

VERY FEW PASSENGERS WERE HURT.

Mr. C. C. Bow, a merchant of Canton, Ohio, was in his berth in the sleeper Salamis when a tree shivered the glass above him and drove one piece under his eye with such force that the glass was literally cut out. A lady in the same car, who refused to give her name, was also cut, though not seriously, about the face. A few others had their hands cut. The storm did not abate much except that the tornado passed away. An idea of its force may be conceived from the fact that the rocks blown into the cars on the south side had sufficient impetus left to pierce the northern windows as if they were bullets from a Gatling gun. None of the roofs of the cars were much damaged, but the locomotive boiler was dented in several places and the smokestack was knocked out of a straight line. After about an hour's delay the train started again and in due time reached Crestline without further accident. There a new locomotive was procured and the battered cars came on to Pittsburg, reaching the Union depot one hour and a half late. When the train arrived here it looked as if it had been riddled by sharpshooters and a battery of artillery.

The Races at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, May 15.—The weather to-day was cool and fair, and the track stiff on account of last night's rain.

First race, for the Alexander stakes, five-eighths of a mile, the Duke of Bourbon won by a length, Poter second, Stuyvesant third; time, 1:01.

Second race, one and three-eighths miles, Amazon won by a short head, King George second, Boothblack third; time, 2:24.

Third race, for the Dixiana handicap stakes, one and one-fourth miles, Lucky B won, Edith second, High Flight third; time, 2:14.

Fourth race, three-fourths mile, Pearl Jewett in the race by length, Conkling second, Mavi third; time, 1:18.

Fifth race, one and one-eighth miles, Endurer won by two lengths, Expert second, Fabius third; time, 2:50.

Rough on Pension Checks.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The secretary of the interior today rendered a decision in the case appealed to him from the commissioner of pensions by a Washington law firm which has issued a circular offering to collect for a contingent fee of twenty-five per cent, certain bounties which they claimed were due to the widows of soldiers killed in battle, under provisions of section 1656 of the revised statutes, passed March 19, 1855. The secretary sustains the commissioner and decides that the half pay for five years provided for under this section was not a bounty but a pension. The effect of this decision it is thought will be the abandonment of this class of claims.

The Strikers Boomerang.

STONEHAM, Mass., May 15.—Several large shoe manufacturers here shut down tonight for an indefinite period owing to the strike of 200 cutters several weeks ago for an 8 per cent advance. It is stated that fifteen of the nineteen factories here will probably cease work altogether within the next forty-eight hours.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—A bill was passed today establishing a sub-territory at Louisville. The house proceeded to the consideration of a bill for the appointment of a commission to inspect and report on Indian affairs, to which the afternoon was devoted, without action being taken.

Provisions of Edmunds' Land Claims Bill.

DENVER, May 15.—A Washington special to the Republican says: The Edmunds bill, to provide for ascertaining and settling private land claims within the limits of the territory derived from Mexico, embracing New Mexico, Wyoming, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and Colorado, and which has been favorably reported from the senate private land claims committee, permits the claimant to proceed by petition in the United States district courts, under the rules in equity with the privilege of an appeal finally to the supreme court of the United States. A limitation of

THREE YEARS IS PROVIDED

in which to bring cases. Should it be found that the government has sold any of these lands, scrip for an equal amount is to be issued in lieu thereof. No claimant shall be allowed that interfere with Indian titles, nor shall any confirmation confer the right to any gold, silver or quicksilver mines, or minerals, unless the land claimed embraces the donation or sale of such mines or minerals to the grantee, or the grantee has become otherwise entitled thereto in law or equity. Such mines or minerals shall remain the property of the United States, with the right to work the same. All public lands of the United States in the

and elsewhere in New Mexico and Colorado, occupied and possessed by persons who or whose ancestors or grantors became citizens of the United States by reason of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and occupied by any person or persons who have been in bona fide occupancy or possession of said land by themselves, their ancestors or grantors for fifty years next preceding the date of the passage of this act, shall be withdrawn from entry and sale under the laws of the United States.

An effort will be made to pass this bill in some shape at the present session, so as to relieve the general land office and congress from the consideration of private land claims and settle them in the courts.

A CELEBRATED CASE.

Numerous Anna Carr's Eventful Life—A Would-be Heiress and Her Troubles.

All readers who were in Las Vegas in May, 1883, can readily recall to mind the particulars of the murder of Frank Carr who was shot and killed by his wife. Recent proceedings in the probate court of the county have renewed public interest in the affair. Mrs. Carr last week had Judge Wm. Steele (administrator of Frank Carr's estate) called up to make a settlement. The judge showed up the accounts to the satisfaction of the court but the woman's lawyer asked for time to produce certain witnesses and the case was extended. Mrs. Anna Carr's Las Vegas record is rather tough and her vicious propensities are perfectly developed. She is much under the ordinary standard of intelligence; her life and actions show a degraded character. On her first coming to this city she lived at what is now called the Delaware house, on Railroad avenue, as the mistress of one Fisher, and for a long time both she and the murdered Carr claimed to be brother and sister. Fisher became disgusted with the intimacy of the supposed, brother and sister and left the town. At the following March term of the district court the woman obtained on the ground of desertion, a divorce from one R. M. Johnson whose place of residence was unknown. On March 9th, 1883, Judge Steele, who being indisposed was at home, was called upon to unite in marriage Frank Carr and the former Mrs. Johnson.

The ceremony was performed and the happy pair started on a tour through the eastern states. They were gone two months and, as Carr told several intimates on his return, spent some $600. Carr had conducted the Delaware house previous to his marriage and after getting back looked around for an opening, and as he had rented out his old place, leased a building on Grand avenue and opened the Delmonico saloon. Here both Carr and his wife drank to excess, and lived in this condition for about three weeks, when the quarrel ensued in which the woman shot Carr, he dying in about six hours. Several of Carr's comrades who were watching the body drank the liquors from the bar, and while in that condition secured the dead man's most valuable effects.

As shown by the records the woman was arrested, tried and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. There was much frothy sympathy for the murderer at the time of her trial, but THE GAZETTE put in some sturdy blows for the cause of justice and public opinion endorsed its action. William Steele was made Carr's administrator, but over to him, Mrs. Carr made a deed for the Delaware house property to Lee, Fort and Whitlaw, who had conducted her defence before the justice court. Now this transaction will probably call forth much litigation, for the statutes of the territory say that the death of the testator at the hands of the heir, nullifies the rights of the latter. The question may also be raised, that as Carr acquired all of his property before marriage the woman could only have interest by bequest in that secured after their union. It seems that some sharp practice was resorted to by the attorneys. As was published in THE GAZETTE at the time, Judge Steele had one of his "midnight sessions" and at the instance of Messrs. Lee, Fort and Whitlaw declared officially Mrs. Anna Carr to be the legal heir of the man she had murdered.

Judge Steele, the administrator, as shown by the proceedings of the probate court is out of pocket some $300 by his position, as he paid out to that amount more than the receipts from the sale of the property realized. This he did with the expectation of being reimbursed by the sale of the real estate. But Mrs. Carr had already conveyed the last piece, a set of Hot Springs lots, to Attorney Barnes of this city, in payment of further legal services. The woman now claims that Judge Steele has held out large sums from the estate and through her attorney asks for time to bring from Deming as witnesses two of the men who plundered her husband's effects to prove that there was a large book of accounts for which the administrator has never accounted. As it is claimed that these accounts were all against people living in this city it might be easier to find someone who has paid Judge Steele for account of the Carr estate. But the whole thing is a subterfuge; there was no such book as described. The estate without the real estate would not have half paid the debts. The woman is foolish or misguided and should be satisfied at having got off so easily. She should let well enough alone. A man named Cook is one of the witnesses cited by the woman, and as that gentleman is under indictment in this county he will not likely appear. Mrs. Anna Carr is at present an inmate of a house of no repute in this city.
