Mr. Hippopotamus who lived in the Zoo had a very strange caller the other day," said Duddy.

"I don't see that my caller could be much stranger than the Hippopotamus himself," said Nick.

"Well, he thought so anyway," continued Duddy. "I don't suppose a Hippopotamus thinks he is strange at all. He has always been just as he is and so he has grown used to seeing himself that way."

"You see Nick is so used to being a Boy and Nancy is so used to being a Girl that should either of you change into a Robin or a Guinea Pig you would think it very strange—and yet the Robin or the Guinea Pig would be very much surprised if they should become a Boy or a Girl."

"But I'm not talking you about the Hippopotamus and his strange caller. And after all this fuss about his being strange you will laugh when I tell you that his caller was a very ordinary little Sparrow."

"Into the Animal House flew the Sparrow. The Keeper called out to him: "Where are you going, Sparrow? But the Sparrow did not answer. He flew right through the Animal House until he reached Mr. Hippopotamus' cage. Mr. Hippopotamus was having his bath, and he would not be interrupted."

"The Sparrow was rather annoyed that Mr. Hippopotamus didn't want to come right out of the water to talk to him and he scolded from his perch on the wire of the cage. There he sat scolding away and the Hippopotamus kept on splashing and spluttering as he took his bath."

"All the People standing around saw the Sparrow perch on the cage and they thought the Sparrow was very brave. But they did think it was most strange that the Sparrow wanted to call on the Hippopotamus, and that the Hippopotamus had such a little caller so different from himself."

"Soon the Hippopotamus came up from the water and sat in the corner of his cage and the Sparrow hopped over to a wire a little nearer."

"Mr. Sparrow, I am sorry to be late for your call," said the Hippopotamus "but the truth is I wanted to look my best." And his great long funny old face grinned, and he showed his big teeth.

"That's all right," cheerfully chirped the Sparrow. "I have plenty of time today. My family have gone a-shopping for bread crumbs which they find every day in a certain backyard. And I have nothing to do. I've come to tell you the news of the world outside."

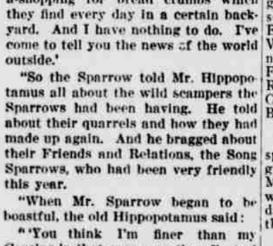

"So the Sparrow told Mr. Hippopotamus all about the wild scampers the Sparrows had been having. He told about their quarrels and how they had made up again. And he bragged about their Friends and Relations, the Song Sparrows, who had been very friendly this year."

"When Mr. Sparrow began to be boastful, the old Hippopotamus said: "You think I'm finer than my Cousins in that cage over there? And Mr. Hippopotamus pointed to some other members of his Family. They were very much smaller and their coats looked just like chocolate."

"And," he went on "when the Children see those silly Cousins of mine they always say, 'Why they look just like tins of chocolate left left to cool. They never can Sparrow Was saying anything quite so stupid about me."

"Well," said Mr. Sparrow, "I must be off now as it's time the bread crumbs and the Family were coming home. He spoke about the bread crumbs first, you notice. But I'll come and see you soon again, old Hippo, and the little Sparrow flew off."

"Then the Hippopotamus looked very lonely and sad and the People who had been watching the very big Animal and the very small Bird talking together could not understand it. But they were indeed the best of Friends. And soon Mr. Hippopotamus decided the only thing left for him to do for some time was to nap and eat and swim so he'd look his best next time the Sparrow came to call."

SOCIETY, CLUBS, LODGES, CHURCHES Here and There Over the State

To Begin Again. When, sometimes, our feet grow weary, On the rugged hills of life—The path stretching long and dreary With trial and labor rife—We pause on the toilsome journey, Glancing backward in valley and glen, And sigh with an infinite longing To return and begin again.

For behind is the dew of the morning, In all its freshness and light, And before are doubts and shadows, And the chill and gloom of the night. We remember the sunny places We passed so carelessly then, And ask, with a passionate longing, To return and begin again.

Oh, vain, indeed, is the asking! Life's duties press all of us on, And who dare shrink from the labor, Or sigh for the sunshine that's gone, And, it may be, not far on before, Wait fairer places than then— Life's paths may yet lead by still waters, Though we may not begin again.

Forevermore upward and onward Be our paths on the hills of life, And soon will the radiant dawning, Of a fairer life and strife, And our Father's hand will lead us, Tenderly upward then; In the joy and peace of a fairer world, He'll let us begin again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roth are entertaining several friends at their home on Marcy Street this evening.

Miss Irene Hersch, who is attending the St. Vincent's Academy at Albuquerque, is home spending the holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hersch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. SeLegue are spending the holidays in Las Vegas. They are the guests of Mrs. SeLegue's mother, Mrs. L. V. Clement.

Colonel and Mrs. Ralph E. Twichell left this week for San Diego to be the guests of honor at the closing exercises of the Panama, California exposition.

Earl E. Sidebottom, a Santa Fe boy now a promising young attorney in Los Angeles, Calif., has just been elected Worth Patron of Acaacia Chapter Order of the Eastern Star at Los Angeles.

The Board of Trade Dance. The Women's Board of Trade gave one of their delightful dances Thursday evening at the Library Hall.

Class Party. Irene and Genevieve Kanen entertained their Sunday School Class and teacher Miss Alameda Normant, at a jolly little party Saturday afternoon, at the Kanen's residence on Galisteo.

Santa Fe Club. Final arrangements for the "baby party" to be given by the club women in Los Angeles, Calif., are being completed. This affair promises to be as much of a success as the stocking party given at the Club Christmas night.

Honoring Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Spencer. In honor of Mrs. William C. McDonald and Mrs. Truman Spencer, Mrs. N. B. Laughlin and daughter Mrs. W. J. Barker were at home at the Laughlin residence from three to five, Thursday. Scores of friends called during the afternoon.

Alfred Rolls and sister Kathaleen entertained several young friends at their home Wednesday. After an enjoyable evening spent playing games and dainty refreshments were served. Those present were Edna Earnest, Susie Normant, Frances Wilson, Anita Rose, Florence Earnest, Katherine Andrews and Norma Fiske, Victor Berthold, William Rose, Gabriel Pop, Parker Wilson, Orrin Staplin, Fred Wagner, Sydney Brooks, and Hanlan Davies.

Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Lord and family spent Christmas in Las Vegas, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jones, Mrs. Lord and children will remain with her sister until after the holiday season. Dr. Lord returned home the early part of the week.

Colonel and Mrs. Venecio Jaramillo of El Rito, are in the city spending the holiday season with Mrs. Jaramillo's parents Mr. and Mrs. Martinez.

New Year's Ball. Elaborate arrangements are being made by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce for a grand New Year's Ball to be given at the Hotel De Vargas Saturday night, December 30. Music will be furnished by a five-piece orchestra. The affair promises to be largely attended and will undoubtedly be the event of the season.

Entertainment at Sanatorium. Sunday evening a pretty Christmas entertainment was given by the children of St. Vincent's orphanage at the Sanatorium. The little play it was beautifully carried out and gives promise of big things to come from the young actors who took part. The program showed careful training and it was very apparent that the little folks thoroughly enjoyed acting, which made the entertainment all the more enjoyable.

Christmas Eve Services. Midnight services in three Santa Fe churches were an especially attractive feature of the religious observance of St. Vincent's. Many hundreds began their Christmas celebration Sunday night by attending the beautiful and impressive ceremonies at St. Francis Cathedral, where the Most Rev. Archbishop John B. Fitzval conducted high mass. The Christian Brothers had charge of the musical program, which characterized the service and the solemnity appropriate to the sacredness of the season, and at the church of Our Lady of Guadalupe Rev. Father Besset presided. Many people also attended services at the church of the Holy Faith, which was preceded earlier in the evening by the splendid cantata "The First Christmas", under the direction of the Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterian choruses assisted by Mrs. Van Stone, organist, and Mrs. Henderson violinist.

Officials Leaving. Many officials and their families will leave the Capital City shortly after the first of the year. They will all be missed of course, but it is with universal regret that Santa Fe people see Mrs. William C. McDonald leave the city. She has endeavored herself to every one who was fortunate enough to meet her. She has taken an active part in every civic activity in the community and never showed any partiality whatever in her position as the wife of the chief executive of the state.

Old Time Party. Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Asplund entertained at an "Old Time Party" Wednesday evening at their home in honor of the outgoing superintendent of public instruction as well as the incoming one and his appointees. The evening was spent playing games and dancing, light refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the Misses Clara Berchold and Dorothy Walter. Those invited were Gov. and Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Alvan N. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roth, Mr. and Mrs. Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Carroon, Mr. and Mrs. Prof. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Mersfelder, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Asplund, and the Misses Eva and Anita Weintge.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK HOT TEA! Get a small package of Hamburg Brest Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold. Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF, ACHING JOINTS Rub Soreness from joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of old St. Jacobs Oil Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot" and by the time you say Jack Robinson—at comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia. Limber up! Get a 25 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pain, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house. Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.
