Keep Insects From Stored Seeds

Many seeds, especially beans, corn and lettuce, are subject to injury by a number of insects, all of which may be destroyed by fumigation with carbon bisulphide, say experts of the United States Department of Agriculture. Carbon bisulphide is a liquid that can be purchased in tin cans at any drug store. When poured into a dish it evaporates rapidly, producing a foul smelling gas that is heavier than air. Therefore in fumigating seeds, to kill insects attacking them, it is necessary to place the carbon bisulphide on top or the seeds in order that the gas may sink into them and reach every part of the container. A tight tin pail, box or barrel makes an excellent container for fumigating seeds. For a tight barrel full of seeds one-half cupful of carbon bisulphide is sufficient. For smaller containers, use in proportion.

Seeds to be fumigated must be dry, and if they are in paper bags, the bags should be opened. The gas penetrates cloth bags easily. The liquid may be placed in a shallow dish, such as a saucer or plate, or merely poured on the seeds. The liquid will not injure the seeds if poured directly upon them. Immediately after starting the fumigation, the container should be covered with several thicknesses of heavy paper, or other tight cover, and allowed to remain covered from one to two days. A longer fumigation in tin pails is apt to injure the germinating power of the seeds.

Feed For Newly Weaned Pigs.

Skim milk and corn or skim milk and shorts, fed in the proportion of 3 to 1, make an excellent ration for weanlings. If skim milk is not available a mixture of 5 parts corn meal, 4 parts middlings, and 1 part tankage, fed as thin slop is very good.

Good succulent pasture is always beneficial to pigs when weather permits. Rye is much used for fall hog pasture in the North, rye and crimson clover farther south, while cowpeas and soy beans are used in the southern states. Soon after weaning it is best to separate those animals which are to be kept for breeding purposes from the fattening stock, as the development for best results with each class requires a different system of management.

LOOKING BETTER.

(By Walt Mason)

All around me men are building bungalows in which to dwell, and the painters brisk are gliding, graining, staining, wildly well; and I see the glaziers, glazing, and behold the brassiers brazing, and the carpenters are raising still more buildings, with a yell. Everywhere I hear the hammer, everywhere I hear the saw, and the workmen's joyous clamor fills with happiness my ear; for the dead old days are ended when no sound of toil ascended, and my ample beard I rendered, while I muttered "Pish!" and "Pahaw!" Oh, the dead old days are finished—may they never amble back!—when our wads were so diminished that we couldn't build a shack; and the landlords, profiteering, came like shearers to the shearing, truculent and domineering, to remove our little shack. Now we build our little shanties, build our neat three-cornered sheds, and our grandmas and our aunts will have roofs above their heads; and they'll plant pens and lilies, and materials for chilis, and the rentlogs have the willies as they curl up in their beds. Oh, the better days are coming when the building booms begin, and the plumbers are plumbing, and the tinners gaily tin; every gent will have his cottage where the flies succumb to swatting, where he'll eat his humble pottage—and the rentlog's growing thin.

BOOST.

They can get along without you. But success will quicker find them, if they know that you're behind them.

Boost for every forward movement; Boost for every new improvement. Boost your city and boost your friends;

Boost the church that you attend. Boost the street on which you're dwelling;

Boost the goods that you're selling. Boost the firm for whom you labor; Boost the stranger and your neighbor.

Cease to be a chronic knocker; Cease to be a progress blocker. If you'd make your city better Boost it to the final letter.

Old Year—New Year

NEW Year, New Year,
What do you bring?
You're a might hold
Anything!

Old Year, Old Year,
What will you do
With all the hope
That I gave you?

There is a moment
When you meet,
Like two travelers
On one street.

Old Year, New Year,
In the sky,
Out where the winds
And ghosts go by.

Old Year, Old Year
What do you say,
Meeting the New on
The Milky Way?

You took from me
Like a thief,
Larkspur joy and
Juniper grief.

But you leave me
One bright hour,
Glad like sun on
A crimson flower.

This is mine
Eternally,
You may not
Take it from me!

New Year, New Year,
What do you
Hear as you pass him
In the blue?

Old Year, Old Year,
Where do you go,
Out on that path
Men do not know?

To Travel Heavenward

TO BE strong and true; to be generous in praise and appreciation of others; to impute worthy motives even to enemies; to give without expectation of return; to practice humility, tolerance and self-restraint; to make the best use of time and opportunity; to keep the mind pure and the judgment charitable; to extend intelligent sympathy to those in distress; to cultivate quietness and nonresistance; to speak little and listen much; to adhere always to a high standard of thought, purpose and conduct; to grow in grace, goodness and gratitude; to seek truth and righteousness; to work, love, pray and serve daily; to aspire greatly, labor cheerfully and take God at His word—this is to travel heavenward.—G. Kleiser in Y. M. C. C. Central.

To Welcome the New Year.

A PRETTY ceremony handed down from the past is to open the front door promptly on the stroke of midnight for the passing of the old year to join the centuries of the past, and for the entrance of the baby new year, who is just about to commence his earthly career.

NEW YEAR'S EGGS.

The Persians still exchange presents of eggs at New Year's just as we do at Easter. But the rest of us now do our giving of presents at Christmas parties, though we may give to each other on January 1. In Scotland and England everybody calls on everybody else New Year's day, and drinks punch. Here in America calling has gone out of style, but if we do nothing more, we at least shout "Happy New Year" to everybody we meet on New Year's morning. When we shout that, we mean good luck to them for all the new year through.

NEVER AGAIN
Ostrich—New-fangled breakfast food, eh? Well I swore off from that stuff the first of last year!

PUMPKIN PIE.

Stew the pumpkin and rub through a colander. Beat the yolks of four eggs light; add a cupful of sugar and beat until you have a quart of the stewed pumpkin. Pour in a quart of milk, a teaspoonful of nutmeg, and cinnamon. Fold in the stiffened whites of four eggs. Line a deep pie plate with puff paste, then fill with the pumpkin and bake in a moderate oven till done.

SHORT LIFE IS LONG.

As the cartoonists have it, a year comes in as a baby and 365 days later dies as an old man. How fortunate it is that the human comes in as a human and not as a year.
