SALT LAKE CITY AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

The public library will be closed during all of this week. A thorough inventory of the books is to be taken, and necessary improvements made.

The Consolidated Wagon & Machine Company proposes to build a large warehouse near the railroad yards in the not distant future.

A deed from Sarah H. Marshall to Thomas Marshall bearing date June 23, 1888, and transferring 5x16 rods of ground at 124 South Fourth East street, was filed for record yesterday. The property is a homestead, and the consideration is $5,000.

The gates of the Salt Palace will be thrown open to the public on Memorial day, May 30. The management of the resort has secured a stock company to play at the theatre during the season, and other attractions will be provided. The opening day the drama "Sweet Love and Duty" will be presented by the stock company, together with some allegorical tableaux that have been chosen with special reference to the occasion.

The Twelfth infantry band will be recruited up to the full strength of 25 men as fast as musicians can be secured. One of the officers from the post remarked this morning that as there was a general expectation on the part of the public for Sunday afternoon concerts, probably such would be arranged for; but the men felt that after doing duty several times a day during the week, they were entitled to their Sundays.

The old Continental hotel corner at West Temple and First South streets, has been sold by Mrs. Alice H. Palmer to R. H. Anderson and Frank Godbe for $33,000. The property has a frontage of 110 feet on West Temple street and 125 on First South. The new owners bought with a view to future development. The site has some historic interest as the old Townsend house was formerly located there, and William Jennings and Captain Hooper bought the property in 1875 for $22,500. The Townsend house became the Continental hotel which was a great favorite among traveling men.

The bank of T. R. Jones & Co., one of the oldest of the Salt Lake private banks, went out of business yesterday, having been absorbed by McCornick & Co. by purchase late in the day. In the official notice, published in another column of the Herald, it is announced that the entire banking business has been taken over by McCornick & Co., that the latter bank assumes all deposit accounts and credits shown on the books of the selling bank, and that all claims against Jones & Co. must be paid to the McCornick house. In banking circles it has been known for some time that Mr. Jones, together with W. P. Lynn, his partner, has been anxious to retire from the banking business. The former said last night that he would devote his entire time to his duties as manager of the American Smelting & Refining company in Utah, and he will continue his office where the bank has been, after all of the effects sold have been transferred to McCornick & Co.'s place of business. Mr. Lynn will turn his exclusive attention to his mining interests.

A. V. Hoelke, the well known Salt Lake druggist, who has been in California for the past few months, and who was formerly in the employ of the Schramm Drug Company, has returned home to take a position with the Z. C. M. L. drug store.

Examinations will be held on June 3, 10 and 11 for the teachers in the city schools, at which time applicants for primary, grammar and high school certificates will be examined.

The members of the kindergarten class of the state university and their teachers went out to Garfield Beach yesterday and had one of the outings of their lives. The little tots rambled around until they were so tired they could hardly see the pavilion.

H. C. Messer, a former employee of the concentration camp at Sunshine, died at the Holy Cross hospital yesterday afternoon of a pulmonary affection. He leaves a wife and brother in this city.

The local Salvation Army has adopted three young children whose parents in this city are suing for divorce. The children have been sent to the Colorado colony.

The board of governors of the Commercial club met last night and elected as members, R. E. Whittemore, X. E. Burns, W. P. Conner and A. H. Warren, and promised the assistance of the club in making a success the coming convention of Elks.

During a recital at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Edward H. Harriman, organist, McClellan discovered in the wife of the railroad magnate a music lover after his own heart. The organist had been playing for perhaps five minutes when Mrs. Harriman walked from her seat in the gallery down to the key board and asked if she might make a request. "Most certainly," replied Mr. McClellan. "Anything you like."

"Well, I want you to play two things especially—Schubert's 'Serenade' and the Tannhauser march. I very much admire your vocal music, but I don't believe it has any place in the Schubert composition. So you will please not use it in that, but, instead, give it orchestral coloring. In the Tannhauser selection, I would like you to bring out all the orchestral stops, for I have heard it played by nearly all the prominent orchestras of the country, and I love it as an orchestral number. Remember, especially, the clarinet and flute stops, for they are certainly wonderful on this organ."

And so saying, the wife of Mr. Harriman walked back to her seat and heard the organist carry out her suggestion to the letter. She was entranced by the beauty of the instrument, and before leaving the building had a long talk with Organist McClellan on musical subjects.

Mrs. Harriman is not only a lover of music, but she possesses a most enviable musical education. According to Mr. McClellan, she is the first person who ever had anything to say about the manner of registering a piece since he became organist at the tabernacle. He was stated, saying he considered it a great pleasure to play for Mrs. Harriman, whose appreciation was certainly keen and sincere.

In the Harriman party, for which the recital was given, were Miss Cornelia Harriman, Miss Carol Harriman, Miss Livingston, Miss Sears, Miss Wilcox, Miss Clarton, Roland Harriman and J. Stanley Brown. Upon arriving in the city the party was taken in hand by Assistant General Passenger Agent Spencer of the Oregon Short Line. After a drive around town, the trip to Salt Lake was made, and the recital followed. The party returned to the Knutsford for dinner.

You have spare money each month and don't know what to do with it. We are the party you are looking for. Interest allowed on each month's savings. Will send you your own security. The accumulated interest of your twelve months will surprise you. Write to McGurkin & Co.

OBITUARY.

Wilmet S. Fugate, a well known mining man, died at his home on Sixth South street last week of cancer of the throat, from which he has been suffering for several years past.

About five years ago Mr. Fugate was first taken with the disease, and it became gradually worse until two years ago he lost his voice entirely, and was unable to speak only in a whisper. About eight months ago he underwent an operation and a silver tube was introduced into his throat, to enable him to breathe. His condition has gradually grown worse since then, and death relieved his sufferings last week.

Mr. Fugate was born in Missouri forty years ago, and has been in this city about fifteen years. He was first employed as clerk at the Cullen hotel and retained that position for about three years. He then became interested in mining, and was one of the promoters of the old Susan mine at Diamond. He was very successful in his mining ventures and made about $30,000 at one time, but he lost his accumulations, and he lost his accumulations.

He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his loss, to whom The Intermountain Catholic extends the most sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Wednesday evening of last week the marriage of Miss Amella Sorenson and J. Deason was solemnized at St. Mary's tabernacle. Father T. Calligan officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Sorenson, and the groom by Mr. B. W. Deason. A large reception followed the marriage at the home of the bride's parents, where many relatives and friends gathered to wish the young couple success in their journey through life. The parlors were beautifully decorated in white and green, while the dining room, in which was served a most elaborate supper, was artistically decorated in red and white. Presents were numerous and very beautiful. The bride's gown was white chiffon trimmed in lace, and she carried blue roses. Her bridesmaid wore pale blue chiffon and carried carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Deason will make Park City their home, and have gone to housekeeping in their cozy cottage on Norfolk avenue, where they will be pleased to meet their large circle of friends and acquaintances.
