ELIZABETH KELLY, Correspondent. The Inter-mountain and Colorado Catholic is placed on sale at the James Clarke church goods house, 647 California street, Denver, Colo.

Bishop Gleason a Visitor.

During this week Bishop Gleason enjoyed a pleasant visit from the Right Rev. Ephrem Gleason, O. S. M., of the Holy Cross who for fifteen years has labored in the Chinese empire. Bishop Gleason arrived in Denver early Tuesday morning and was met at the Union depot by Father Bernard, D. M., pastor of St. Elizabeth's cathedral. The bishop was escorted to the Franciscan monastery, in West Denver, and celebrated mass in St. Elizabeth's after the regular Tuesday morning devotion in honor of St. Anthony.

Bishop Gleason does not speak English fluently, but is quite at home with the Chinese tongue. He is very enthusiastic over the work the Catholic Church is doing for the Chinese, but says that while the government is outwardly friendly to the Christianizing efforts, there is an inward sentimentality that resents the efforts to draw the Chinese from their time-honored beliefs. In the towns, according to Bishop Gleason, where the Chinese have settled it is not so difficult to convert the people, but in the country Confucius holds his own. In fact, in the last three years he has been raised to a deity of the first degree from a deity of the second degree. The Catholic population of the Chinese empire is estimated at more than one million people, but considering that there are seventy million souls included in that figure, only a small part of the work has been done. Converts are being made in his province at the rate of between 1,000 and 2,000 every year.

Bishop Gleason left Denver Wednesday for the Pacific coast. He will sail on the return trip to China next Tuesday. During the summer he addressed the Catholic congress in Europe and later visited Rome and had an audience with the Pope. For fifteen full years the Catholic prelate has worked in China. First as a Franciscan priest he toiled among the natives, often facing discouragement that would have caused a less heroic heart to turn sick. Seven years ago he was elevated to the rank of bishop. He is in the bishop's shoes, according to Bishop Gleason, there are forty-eight vicariates or dioceses in the Chinese empire. The Franciscans have nine bishops, the Jesuits two, and the Lazarists and other orders have a share in the work. Bishop Gleason was in the thick of the Boxer difficulties. He lived in a village where the entire population, some 200 persons, was gathered. From the country around 600 others flocked in at the beginning of the trouble, and for three months the village was besieged. The pastor, who was then Father Ephrem (that being prior to his elevation to the rank of bishop), was waylaid by the Boxers and mistreated. His skull was split and he sustained other injuries. Bishop Gleason does not say much about the hardships he has endured, but waxed enthusiastic over what the Church is doing in China. When mingling with the Chinese he wears the costume of the natives. It pleases them. The bishop expressed himself much pleased with Denver. He met Bishop Metz and the Denver priests informally.

Feast of the Immaculate Conception. The observance of the feast of the immaculate Conception, the patronal feast of the cathedral parish, will be marked by the accustomed solemnity. The following program has been announced for the occasion: A Triduum opening Sunday evening, December 5, at Logan Avenue chapel, with vespers, sermon and benediction. Vespers will be chanted by the boys' choir, which has become a very pleasing feature of the Sunday evening service at the chapel. The sermon will be by Rev. James M. Walsh of St. James' church, Montclair. On Monday evening the recitation of the rosary will be followed by a sermon by Rev. W. Donovan of St. Patrick's, and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Service on Monday will be exclusively for the young women of the parish, and those not already members of the Young Women's sodality will be given an opportunity to join. On Tuesday afternoon and evening confessions will be heard, and on Wednesday mass will be read at 7, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock, the last a solemn high mass. The Young Women's sodality will receive Holy Communion at the 6 o'clock mass, and the Children of Mary at 8 o'clock. Candidates will be received into the ranks of the Young Women's sodality and Children of Mary, the ceremony to be followed by a sermon on the Immaculate Conception by Rev. J. Henegan, and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The sodalists will later entertain the new members in one of the school rooms.

Father Gubitosi Transferred. Rev. Father Gubitosi, S. J., who has been stationed at Sacred Heart church for about thirty years, was transferred last week to Neil North, Colo. This is a source of great sorrow to Father Gubitosi's many friends, as he was the spiritual adviser of more people in Denver than was any one priest. For nearly half a century Father Gubitosi has been identified with the work of the Jesuit Fathers in Colorado and New Mexico, and the prayers and good wishes of many go with him to his new field of labor.

Catholic Notes. The sale of tickets for the minstrel show to be given Friday evening by the Junior division of the Holy Name society, indicates that the affair will be the success it deserves to be. The boys have spent many hours in preparation of their interesting program, and have had the benefit of the services of Joseph Newman as instructor. The proceeds will go toward the cathedral building fund.

The Jefferson Dramatic club gave an entertainment and dance Wednesday evening, November 24, in St. Elizabeth's school hall for the benefit of the school. "Ann Arbor" was the production, and was so well received that it was repeated Thanksgiving afternoon.

A vaudeville program, followed by a dance, was given Tuesday evening, November 23, by the Jefferson Dramatic club in Mount Carmel school hall for the benefit of the school fund. A very enjoyable evening was passed.

As usual the Queen's Daughters had a large share in the success of last Saturday and Sunday association. About three-fourths of the booths in the city were presided over by these philanthropic young women, and the result exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Among those who gave their services in this cause may be mentioned the president, Miss Maud Ryan; Miss Blanche Ryan, Miss Josephine Shevlin, Miss Margaret Maloney, Mrs. J. C. Broderick, Miss May Gavin, Mrs. Frank Tetter, Mrs. Oscar Hall, Miss Zelta Kirkpatrick, Miss Irene Abel, Miss Gertrude Allen, Miss Julia Allen and Miss Adrienne Rouelle.

Mother Irene, superior of St. Joseph's hospital, accompanied by Sister Mary Anthony, returned during the week from an extended visit in the east. During their absence the sisters made a tour of inspection of the most thoroughly equipped hospitals, with the intention of using any knowledge gleaned toward the betterment of the already magnificently furnished St. Joseph's hospital here. Mother Irene and Sister Mary Anthony also attended the opening of the new hospital at Topeka under the management of the Sisters of Charity, and made a visit to the mother house of the order at Leavenworth.

Father Ducharme will probably be transferred to Montrose as assistant to Father O'Farrell, who is anxious to devote his entire time for a while to Delta, where there is no Catholic church, but where there is a growing need of one. Father O'Farrell is to undertake the building of the church there.

Obituary. Mrs. Martha Nathan of 2235 Champa street passed away on Thursday, November 25, at the ripe old age of 80 years. She was buried on Saturday afternoon in the cemetery at Sacred Heart church. Burial was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

The hearts of hundreds of friends were saddened last week by the news of the death of Mrs. Nora O'Brien Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. O'Brien, pioneer residents of the cathedral parish. Mrs. Lang had been in failing health for some time, yet death came when the young woman gave every indication of returning strength and while she was enjoying a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Martin E. Rowley, at Pueblo, Colo. Mrs. Lang was born in Denver and was graduated in 1899 at Emmetsburg, Md., by Miss-tress Elizabeth Ann Bagley Seton, known throughout the Catholic world as Mother Seton.

Mother Seton was a daughter of Richard Bagley of New York, and granddaughter of Helen Roosevelt. She was born in this city in 1775, and at the age of 30 married Richard Seton, a wealthy merchant, who died in 1803. Two years later the widow embraced the Roman Catholic faith and moved to Baltimore, where she started a seminary for young women.

Mother Seton was made a Sister of Charity by the bishop of Baltimore in 1809, and established the first chapter of the order in the United States at the mother house at Emmetsburg, Md. It was expected that a colony of sisters would come here from Paris, but political troubles due to Napoleon, interfered and the order in the United States, at the French order. In the past hundred years branches of the Sisterhood of Charity have been established in practically every city of importance in the United States, and the growth of the order has been a little short of marvelous.

The Game of Life.

Life is a game of whist. From unseen sources The cards are shuffled and the hands are dealt. Blind are our efforts to control the forces. That, though unseen, are no less strongly felt.

I do not like the way the cards are shuffled. But yet I like the game and want to play. And through the long, long night will I, unrepentant, Play what I get until the break of day.

—Eugene F. Ware.

To Be Content.

To be content with what we have Forms most of the joy of life: A heart of envy paves the way To trouble, and sorrow and strife.

The lust for gain is as poor a thing As the human breast can hold; And often we bruise a tender heart In our onward rush for gold.

To be content, though our means are small— The secret of life is there; And happiness dwells in the homes of such.

And peace beyond compare. Money is well enough to have, But 'tis not the best, by far; And often it leads, a beckoning lure, To grief and sorrow and care.

An Unusual Honeymoon.

The colored female cook of a family living at the South End came upstairs the other afternoon, and, twisting up the corners of her apron with considerable embarrassment, said to her mistress: "You see, missus, I thought it might use be to tell you dat I—dat I come get married last week."

"Ah, indeed? And what is your name now, Hannah?" "Miss Williams' name. You see my husband's name is 'Sam'."

"Not drectly, mumm, I'll stay wid yo de de present. You see, my husband's name is 'Sam' and my name is 'Hannah'."

"Not drectly, mumm, I'll stay wid yo de de present. You see, my husband's name is 'Sam' and my name is 'Hannah'."

Commonplace life, we say, and we sigh: But why should we sigh as we say: The commonplace sun in the commonplace sky.

Makes up the commonplace day. The moon and the stars are commonplace things.

The power of the blooms and the bird that sings: But sad were the world, and dark our lot, If flowers faded and the sun shone not.

And God, who sees each separate soul Out of commonplace lives makes His beautiful whole." —Susan Coolidge.

The Undoing of the Conjurer.

Conjurer: "You see, ladies and gentlemen, the dollar has vanished. We shall soon find out where it has gone. You, honest countryman, over there, just your hand in your coat pocket. I'll bet you'll find the dollar."

"No; I've only something over 80 cents!" "Impossible; you must have the dollar!" "No, I haven't!" "That was a dollar you put in my pocket a while ago, but I've been out to have a drink since then!" —Tabelau.

He Advertised His Father's Business.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes once made an address in his native town to a medical association. The president of the association was the son of a man who had been the druggist of the village when Dr. H. had studied medicine there. "It is good to look at this young man," said the general auditor, "and trace his father's lineaments in his face."

She Was Tired.

"Won't you take this seat?" said the gentleman in the car, rising and lifting his hat. "No, thank you," said the girl with states over her arm. "I've been skating, and I'm tired sitting down."

Discouraging to the Questioner.

Visitor: "Do you regret the past?" Convinced Counterfeiter: "Oh, no. It's what didn't pass that I feel bad about."

Butter From Denmark.

Denmark exports to Great Britain over $48,000,000 worth of butter yearly. Dairying in Denmark is mainly co-operative. In 1907 the 1,685 associations had 132,710 members, bound as a rule to the enterprise for ten years. The creameries in 1908 numbered 1,345.
