

The Mission of a Tooth Brush

A large part of the dentist's custom comes from people who think they are taking good care of their teeth. The fault lies either with the brush or the dentifrice. Perfect teeth demand the proper kind of each. Tooth brushes that do not do what they are intended to are worse than none. They give a false sense of security. The mission of a tooth brush is to keep the teeth clean. To do this they must be made of real bristles so cut as to clean thoroughly every part of each tooth. We have this kind of brushes. Some with our name on at 25 cents that we guarantee to prove all right or we give you a new brush. Have cheaper ones, too, but it is real economy to use a good brush — your teeth are worth it.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD OCT. 4. COLLEGE STUDENTS

Montpelier to Celebrate Her Centennial With Elaborate Ceremonies.

CITY VOTES $10,000 FOR EXPENSES.

Music, Mirth and Speeches. The Capitol of Vermont will Bedeck Itself with its Holiday Raiments and Welcome its Thousands of Visitors. Reception and Executive Committees Composed of Leading Citizens of the City.

On Wednesday, October 4, Montpelier will celebrate. While the capitol city has seen many red-letter days in the hundred years of her history as the capitol of Vermont, notably the magnificent reception that she tendered to Admiral Dewey, the event next month, marking the 100th mile-stone in the city's history, is to eclipse all past occasions. The old story of "Montpelier-on-the-side-track" will have to be shelved. On October 4 it will be Montpelier "on the spot." The arrangements preclude the possibility of failure. The men composing the various committees are the pick of the enterprising business men of Montpelier. The city fathers have voted ten thousand dollars with which to pay the freight.

Montpelier has the accommodations for handling a crowd. She knows how to handle a crowd. She wants a crowd and she will get a crowd on Wednesday, the 4th of October.

There are hundreds of men, women and children who have never visited the State capitol and this is an opportunity that should be embraced. Montpelier makes her boast that she can entertain and care for every person that comes within her gates on October 4, so there is a chance to compel her to make good.

We are giving Register readers several snap shots of the capitol city, and among them a picture of Mayor Corry, who is one of the leading spirits in Montpelier's attempt to celebrate her centennial.

Montpelier's great centennial celebration is bound to be the biggest event in Vermont this year. The city has appropriated $10,000 for the purpose and such men as Joseph A. De Boer are at the head of the important committees. The railroads will make special low rates and run excursions from everywhere.

The historical address on the afternoon of the day of the centennial celebration will be delivered by Hon. Joseph A. De Boer, president of the National Life Insurance company. Those who know Mr. De Boer's gifts as an orator will at once realize that the committee on speakers has made no mistake in securing him on this occasion.

Applications for tickets for the centennial ball are already coming in to the committee having the matter in charge. This ball will be held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 3, in Armory hall with Wilder's full orchestra for music and every effort will be put forth to make this the one brilliant social event of the celebration.

All persons or organizations desiring entertainment for that day should make application without delay to George K. Putnam, Montpelier, chairman of the entertainment committee. The committee on printing and publicity will within a few days send broadcast over the state a full list of public and private houses where entertainment will be furnished, with the price for such entertainment.

Press headquarters will be established in the City Court room on Langdon St., the local newspaper men having engaged that room for that day. Ample facilities for work will be provided and here all newspaper men, whether from inside or outside the state, will be cordially welcome.

While many a facetious remark has been made of the "Onion River Valley," truly no handsomer picture was ever caught by the camera's sensitized plate than those along the valley where rolls the Winocski. The accompanying picture shows a bit of a view along the banks of this stream and on page six will be found a bird's eye view of the capitol city.

We have the largest line in the county of Iron Beds, Cots, Springs, Mattresses, Carpets and Rugs. Everything for fitting up your study and bed room. Picture framing a specialty. Our prices are right, our goods first class, and we guarantee prompt, careful attention to all orders.

Century Club Course.

During the years past the ladies of the Century Club have given the people of Middlebury and vicinity some very fine entertainments at a low price of admission. It has come to be understood by everybody that if an entertainment is under the Century Club management it will be of a high class, as the ladies are not in it for the money they can make they only wish to give our citizens first-class entertainment at a price that all can afford.

They hope some day to put a fountain in the triangle in front of the postoffice, but it will be a long time before that ideal will materialize unless they change the high-priced entertainments for less expensive ones, or raise the price of tickets. Last season the club lost $20 after working hard all winter, but with characteristic grit and enterprise they have arranged the finest program ever given for the present winter.

The first entertainment is one which is seldom heard outside of the larger cities and towns owing to the high price paid the noted speakers. Nov. 22 a joint debate between the Hon. Champ Clark, the famous Democratic fire-eater of Missouri, and Indiana's brilliant orator, Hon. Charles B. Landis. Subject, "Republicanism vs Democracy." New York and Chicago report this debate as one of the most exciting entertainments ever heard on the platforms of these cities. The debaters get warm, and the audience gets hot, though up to date it has not been necessary to call out the State militia to keep order. In the large towns this number alone costs more for single admission than the ladies charge for a season ticket.

Owing to lack of space the rest of the program will follow next week. The above is sufficient guarantee that a season ticket is a safe investment. Meet the ladies cordially when they start on the sale of tickets. Tickets may be procured of Mrs. B. F. Wales, Miss L. A. Goodrich and Mrs. William Jackson.

LETTER TO O. P. MOORE, MIDDLEBURY.

Dear Sir: Why don't we make paint, as many others do, to go three-quarters as far, or two-thirds, or half, or a third, or a quarter?
Mr. Aaron Higgins, Plainfield, N. J., always used 15 gallons of paint for his house; Devoe took 11.
There are two sorts of paint: all paint, true paint, strong paint, full measure; and part paint, false paint, weak paint, short-measure.
The paint-manufacturers are two sorts: Devoe and the rest.
Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & Co.

A Resolution.

At a meeting of the Protestant pastors of Middlebury, the following resolution was unanimously adopted.

"We, pastors of Middlebury churches, view with alarm the rapid increase of divorce and re-marriage, injurious alike to home, church and society.

"Believing that we can best serve the cause of Him whom we represent by discouraging the re-marriage of divorced persons, we express our unwillingness to marry any person, who has a husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage. "This shall not apply to the innocent party in a divorce for adultery, or to two parties once divorced seeking to be re-married."

W. T. FORSYTH, Rector Protestant Episcopal Church. THOMAS SIMMS, Pastor Congregational Church. W. H. WASHBURN, Pastor Methodist Episcopal Church. GEORGE E. STAIR, Pastor Baptist Church.
