

New England Industrial Series No. 2—Textile Workers

Real Tobacco for Real Men

Real men get strength out of Mayo's. It makes a hard day's work easy. It makes a big day's work a sure thing.

Mayo's Plug, or Cut Plug retains all the strength of the soil, of the wind, and of the sunshine of the blue grass region of Kentucky, where it is grown.

Fine cut and flaked tobaccos lose their flavor, their richness and strength. By the time they reach the user much of the real tobacco is gone—evaporated into the atmosphere.

The red blooded men of New England want honest tobacco—all tobacco—pure tobacco. They need it. It's a tool of their trade. They get it in Mayo's and they won't take a substitute.

The Pipe Favorite of New England Since 1850
