A Poem for Today

CHARITY

By Joaquin Miller

IN spite of his claim to a high rank among American poets—a claim which England freely granted him—Miller has worked out more fittingly than most authors the Scriptural sentence concerning a poet: "In his own country—Warner's Library of the World's Best Literature." The poem given below is based on the well known New Testament story of the two men taken to jail. (See St. John, chapter 8:11)

HER hands were clasped downward and doubled,
Her head was held down and covered,
Her bosom, like white billows troubled,
Fell fitful, and rose in unrest.

Her robes were all dust, and disordered,
Her glory of hair and her brow,
Her face, that had lifted and lorded,
Fell pallid and passionless now.

She heard not accusers that brought her
In mockery hurried to him,
Nor heeded, nor said, nor besought her
With eyes lifted doubtful and dim.

All crushed and stone-cast in behavior,
She stood as a marble would stand,
Then the Saviour bent down, and the Saviour
In silence wrote on in the sand.

What wrote he? How fondly one believes,
And questions what holy command
Fell down from the beautiful fingers
Of Jesus, like gems in the sand!

O better the Scian uncherished
Had died ere a note or device
Of battle was fashioned, than perished
This only line written by Christ!

He arose, and looked on the daughter
Of Eve, like a delicate flower,
And he heard the revilers that brought her
Men stormy, and strong as a tower.

And He said: "She has sinned; let the blameless
Come forward and cast the first stone!"
But they, they fled shamed and yet shameless,
And she, she stood white and alone.

Who now shall accuse and arraign us?
What man shall condemn and disown?
Since Christ has said only the stainless
Shall cast at his fellows a stone.

For what man can bare us his bosom,
And touch with his forefingers there,
And say 'tis as snow, as a blossom?
Beware of the stainless, beware!

O woman, born first to believe us:
You, also born first to forget;
Born first to betray and deceive us,
Yet first to repent and regret!

O first then in all that is human,
Lo! first where the Nazarene trod,
O woman! O beautiful woman!
Be then first in the kingdom of God!

Rapid and Progressive is Science of Photography

The advances in Photographic methods has been considerable during the last few years. If you would satisfy yourself of this go to the "Kodak Place," one block South of Central Bridge and see the Art Photographs of Ormond, Daytona and vicinity.

HENRY J. KAISER,

General Outdoor Photographer.

If you have a Kodak, try us with your finishing. We aim to please you.
