A photograph appeared in one of the magazines a few months ago of a telegraph pole which, having lost about three feet of its base by fire, was hanging supported by the wires. A similar case could be seen in Seabreeze last week. A pole rotted off about eight feet from the ground and the top part was hanging in mid air supported by the wires.

The Crystal Wave, owned by D D Beekman, will be repainted by Chas. McDonald. A new engine is to be installed as soon as it arrives.

Gems In Verse

God, the Poet.
For us the poem of this world God wrote—
The blank verse of the heavens, the remote
And awful rhythmic measure of the sea,
All nature's discords wrought in harmony.
His books that run instinctively in rhyme,
His leafy boughs that beat accordant time,
His rolling seas, his hills and plains of verse,
His rhythmic stars, that still in song re-
The epic of creation—these, indeed,
In God's own language teach our human need,
Our need of him.
—Grace Adele Pierce.

Water and Laurel.
Deem not, O son, that glory once attained
Will last forever, spotless and unattained;
Neglected laurel speedily grows dry;
Unwatered, soon 'twill wither up and die.
Not Fame's mere works can make Fame stand alone,
Nor keep its name on the remembrance stone;
It needs a hand to visit day by day,
To cut the weeds and brush the mold away.

Fame is a fabric delicate and frail,
Cracked by a breath and shivered by a gale;
No height too great from which it may not fall;
A word may jar it from its pedestal.
Deem not that thou hast risen over men
So high that naught can pluck thee down again.
Who stands the highest on the social scale,
Shall strike the earth the hardest when he falls.

Plant thou thy memory in the human heart,
Marked by some sculpture of diviner art;
Leave deeds of love to clear away the grime
And grave anew thy name through changing time.
Thus shall thy glory and thy fame endure
Upon the earth, immaculate and pure;
Time then shall serve but to enhance thy deeds,
And Memory's hand shall clear away the weeds.
—Lowell O. Reese in San Francisco Bulletin.

The Lake Isle of Innisfree.
I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree,
And a small cabin build there, of clay and wattle made.
Nine bean rows will I have there, a hive for the honey bee,
And live alone in the bee loud glade.

And I shall have some peace there, for peace comes dropping slow,
Dropping from the veils of the morning to where the cricket sings;
There midnight's all a-glitter, and noon
A purple glow,
And evening full of the linnet's wings.
I will arise and go now, for always night and day
I hear lake water lapping with low sounds by the shore,
While I stand on the roadway or on the pavements gray,
I hear it in the deep heart's core.
—William Butler Yeats.

Nothing Like Leather.
At a public sale of books the auctioneer put up Drew's "Essay on Souls," which was knocked down to a shoemaker, who very innocently, but to the great amusement of the crowd, soon asked if there were any more books on shoemaking to be sold.

The Open Shop And "Parryasis"

By SAMUEL GOMPERS, President American Federation of Labor

TRADE unionism is attacked today more bitterly than ever before. There is this to be said, however: In the early days ALL CLASSES were arrayed against us. Today we have to contend with only a small and evil souled remnant.

In the days of our youth men who were not satisfied with wages and met to discuss means of bettering their condition were CONSPIRATORS AND OUTLAWS. They buried the records of their meetings and planned for freedom in the depths of forests.

One who ran away from ill paid or degraded toil and was captured was branded with a white hot iron with the letter "V" for villain or vagabond. If he ran away and was caught a second time he was branded with "S," for slave. For a third offense he was HANGED.

It is well to know the history of this movement to realize the valleys of tears that have been traversed, the myriad sacrifices that have been made, the lives that have been given up for the progress whose fruits we enjoy.

WE FACE TODAY A CONCENTRATION OF CAPITAL AND A DIS-EASE OF CAPITAL WHICH I MAY CALL PARRYASIS.

There was harmony between employers and employed until the silly movement to bring about what Parryized capitalists call the OPEN shop, but which is really the NONUNION shop, raised its head. Philadelphia workmen agreed this year with their employers upon questions of hours and labor conditions. The question of wages was no obstacle.

They were content to have a member of the Builders' Exchange as an umpire in disputes. They were willing to sign an agreement which would do away with the sympathetic strike, but they demanded, and the Parryized employers refused, THE PRINCIPLE OF THE UNION SHOP.

How inconsistent! What agreement would be binding in a non-union shop? What would be the sense of a union making an agreement with an employer who could and would Chineseize the establishment WHENEVER HE PLEASED?

THE SO CALLED OPEN SHOP MEANS A NONUNION SHOP. IT IS THE VEHICLE OF THE HYPOCRITICAL EMPLOYER WHO PRETENDS FAIRNESS FOR LABOR, BUT WHO HAS HIS DAGGER HIDDEN IN HIS SLEEVE. I WOULD MUCH RATHER DEAL WITH AN OUTSPOKEN ANTIUNIONIST THAN WITH ONE OF THESE HYPOCRITES.

I am IRREVOCABLY opposed to the principle of the sympathetic strike. It hurts the cause of labor. But I am more heartily against the nonunion shop, and to thwart the capitalists who are striving for that end I would resort to ANY LEGAL means, including the unsparing use of the sympathetic strike.

The small souled persons who are trying to turn back the clock of labor's progress are engaged in an impossible task. You cannot teach a man the alphabet and then prevent him from framing the words Man, God, Liberty.

The spirituality of generations of sufferers, the weight of millions of toilers and citizens are back of this movement for the UNION shop. Men are not going back to chains, to the sixteen hour day, to nonunionism, division of effort and SLAVERY.

WE REALIZE THE FORCE OF WHAT JOHN HANCOCK SAID IN INDEPENDENCE HALL, "WE MUST HANG TOGETHER OR WE WILL HANG SEPARATELY."

An Old Favorite

AWAY FROM THE WORLD

By William Cowper

NOW stir the fire and close the shutters fast,
Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round,
And while the bubbling and loud hissing urn
Throws up a steamy column, and the cups
That cheer but not inebriate, wait on each,
So let us welcome peaceful evening in.

'Tis pleasant, through the loopholes of retreat
To peep at such a world; to see the stir
Of the great Babel, and not feel the crowd;
To hear the roar she sends through all her gates
At a safe distance, where the dying sound
Falls a soft murmur on the uninjured ear.
